MAYOR MEEHAN FELL DOWN STAIRS RIOT WAS FEARED COMET AND MOON

Issues Statement in Reply to Ex-Supt. Mayberry

Says Latter Had no Right to Sell City Property Without Turning Money Over to City Treasurer

In connection with the meeting of the committee on appropriations held last night and at which Solomon Mayberry, former superintendent of the charities department, appeared to explain alleged irregularities as to the sale of firm products and the disposition of the money received for same, during his administration, Mayor Meehan, today, gave a statement to the press in which he avers that Mr. Mayberry, by selling the products of the firm and failing to turn the money over to the city treasurer, ignored not only the city treasurer, but the chief of supplies and the mayor, and that his act was contrary to the written instructions of the city solicitor. The mayor's statement:

In going contrary to the written instructions of the city solicitor, Superintendent Mayberry showed that he was either ignorant in his construction of English, or was willing to assume the responsibility of violating the provisions of the charter. That was one reason for his removal.

"Under date of Dec. 8, 1909, City Solicitor Duggan in a written opinion instructed Superintendent Mayberry that he could exchange products of the firm for other products, but that if he sold the products the money must be turned over to the city treasurer. To quote from the opinion:

"Under the authority of above statute, I am of the opinion that the su-

Michael Lee, of Charles St., Met With a Fatal Accident

Michael J. Lee, aged 48 years, fell down a flight of stairs at his home, 73 Charles street at 11:30 o'clock last night and met with injuries which resulted in his death at St. John's hospital at ten o'clock this morning. Dr. R. E. Bell, who examined the man at the hospital said that death was due to a fracture at the base of the skull.

The unfortunate man, who had been suffering with an affection of the heart for some time, was seized with an attack shortly after eleven o'clock last night and it is thought that while he was trying to make his way down stairs to the rooms of his family on the floor below, he was seized with the sudden shock which caused him to lose control of himself and fall down nearly the entire flight of stairs.

Inasmuch as the man had worked steadily every day and never showed a sign of illness other than that once in a while he complained of his heart, the fatal accident has greatly unnerved the members of his family.

Mr. Lee was about the house last night as usual and after reading the paper and conversing with the members of the household he retired for the night. He slept on the top floor of the house, while the other members of the family occupied sleeping rooms on the floor below. About 11:30 o'clock, Mrs. Lee was awakened by a noise which sounded as though some person had fallen downstairs.

Mrs. Lee and her daughter, Anna, upon hearing the noise rushed to the

When Crowd Got Excited on Market St.

There was considerable excitement in upper Market street last evening in which several hundred people participated. It all developed from a heated controversy on the sidewalk which it is said ended in blows. A squad of police assisted by several inspectors were hustled to the scene and dispersed the crowd. During the excitement a telephone fire alarm was sent in and six pieces of apparatus and the chief and assistant of the department were given a needless journey.

As a result of the trouble one man was arrested and booked at the police station for assault with a dangerous weapon. So far as can be learned no one was injured, though it is stated that there were several fist encounters before the police arrived on the scene.

It was during sidewalk discussions that the people grew loud in their talk, threats were made and it is said that there were several exchanges of blows and then there came a general demonstration in which hundreds took part. It was about 7:30 o'clock when the police learned of the excitement and Lieutenant Freeman and a squad of police were sent to the scene and for over an hour they were kept busy quieting the excited ones and as the latter dispersed the police found it necessary to make a general patrol of the entire colony to see that quietness was restored.

During the excitement which attracted hundreds to the scene the cry of "a big fight" led some person to interpret it "a big fire" and the latter sent a telephone alarm into the police station and in a minute or more the automobile protective came through Market street at a mile a minute gait and in less than five minutes there were, besides the protective, three hose carriages, a truck, a chemical, Chief Hosmer and Assistant Chief Norton, on the scene.

It did not take the firemen long to realize that there was no fire and they returned to their respective quarters.

James Gargulakos was singled out as the chief disturber, but he eluded the police. He was arrested later, charged with assault on Antonios Sampaikos.

Arraigned in Court

Gargulakos was arraigned before Judge Hadley this morning on a complaint charging him with assault on Antonios Sampaikos and at the request of the government the case was continued till Friday morning, the defendant being placed under $200 bonds.

Both Were Obscured by the Clouds Last Night

The great celestial spectacle billed for last night, with Halley's comet and the moon for chief actors in a joint performance, was prohibited at the final moment by the meteorological censor, "B. A. D. Weather," and thousands who had gathered for the sight again went home disappointed. It was discouraging enough to miss the comet in the early morning hours, but to be balked of the evening view after nearly a week of anticipation turned the popular feeling into something like disgust. There was certainly a premonition of clear sky soon after 7 p. m., just to whet the appetite for more, and by 7:30 everybody was looking for the flaming scimitar which was to emerge into the sky after sundown. But before 8 o'clock the hope had vanished. The firmament was then overcast. Great cloud gulchons were sailing across it bound for the northwest. They were relieved at 8:10 by a pea-soup fog which for hours blanketed the heavens from horizon to horizon.

The comet was, doubtless, there behind the screen, but whether bright or faint, with a tail curved or straight, bifurcated or fan-shaped, or with no tail at all, nobody could tell. Even the astronomers lost their patience when, at 10:45 p. m. the business end of Halley's comet descended below the horizon as full of mystery as "Tom Moore's Veiled Prophet of Khorasan" and twice as exasperating.

The moon did not shroud her face last night in awe at sight of the comet's tail. But there was a lunar eclipse for all that. It was scheduled for totality, and during most of the time was quiet as the government. Such predictions as were made of it had none of the uncertainty which attends predictions of the shapes and movements of comets' tails. The moon in its eastward motion reached the penumbra of the earth's shadow at 10:46 p. m., the time for the beginning of the eclipse, and left the penumbra on the other side at 2:23 a. m., the phenomenon of obscuration lasting 3 hours and 35 minutes. The moon was in the umbra, or darkest part of the earth's shadow, from about midnight to 1 a. m., and this formed what would have been the most spectacular phase of the eclipse had the meteorological conditions been favorable.

TAIL OF COMET IS SAID TO BE FORTY DEGREES LONG

CHICAGO, May 24.—Forty degrees for the new born tail of the comet and a doubling of its luminosity owing to flaming hydro carbon gas, were recorded by the astronomers at Williams bay observatory last night after the spectrographic negatives had been developed. Prof. Frost, director of the observatory, announced the results of the computations.

"Four of us agree that the new tail of the comet is 40 degrees long," he said. "The tail was visible long after the head had set. The darkening of the sky by the eclipse of the moon helped greatly in the observations. Observations by the hand spectroscope showed carbon bands in the head of the comet. These were confirmed by the development of the negatives made with the 12 inch telescope. The internal activity of the comet is in full blast. It is making gas at a terrific rate."

Prof. Frost said he did not expect to see the old tail in the east this morning. "The old tail must disappear," he added. "When detached from its source it can only condense or fade away as the end of an active tail always does."

Fine weather for observations prevailed throughout most of the night at Williams bay, although it was cloudy and rainy in Chicago. During the total eclipse the moon presented the appearance of a dull red disc in the heavens. This, according to Prof. Barnard of Yerkes observatory, was due to the red rays of the solar spectrum which had the property of bending inward.

A NEW REMEDY FOR ALL SKIN DISEASES
Stops the Itching and Begins Healing Immediately

The discovery by a chemist of the new remedy Cadum is recognized as one of the most important advances in medical circles in recent years. Cadum is made of one of Nature's medicinal plants, the extract of which has been combined with other ingredients, each possessing in a marked degree valuable therapeutic properties. The proportion of each ingredient has been so adjusted, after much careful experimentation and investigation, that a perfected product for the treatment of skin diseases has been the result. Cadum is the most effective agent known in the treatment of eczema, two to four weeks' time being sufficient to cure ordinary cases. From the first moment when applied, distinct and rapid relief is felt, and where the disease presents an unsightly appearance, the thin coating of Cadum almost conceals the sore. This wonderful compound is equally effective in other skin troubles, such as salt rheum, ringworm, itch, acne, scabs, itching piles, chafing, prickly heat, boils, inflamed skin, red noses, pimples, blackheads, psoriasis, herpes, tetter, etc. Cadum is entirely free from any mercury or other poisonous and dangerous admixture of any kind, and is safe. Every ingredient of Cadum for which a standard of purity is set by the U. S. Pharmacopoeia complies with that standard, so as to insure the greatest efficiency. In color, Cadum so nearly matches that of the skin that an application is scarcely noticeable. An important feature to be noted in connection with Cadum is that it stops the terrible itching of eczema at once, and begins the healing process with the first application. It is, moreover, a harmless preparation and cannot injure the most delicate skin. Many of the results achieved by Cadum may be truly described as remarkable, and have exceeded the expectations of the chemist who gave it to the world. It is a powerful antiseptic that destroys disease-producing germs, allays inflammation and exerts a wonderfully soothing and healing influence on the skin tissues. It is a regrettable fact that skin affections are still much misunderstood, and often the most complicated treatment is undertaken at great expense, whereas such a simple and inexpensive remedy as Cadum would have saved time and expense. AN ASSAULT CASE
Man Fined $12 For Assaulting Special Officer

Thomas Goulas was arraigned before Judge Hadley in police court this morning on a complaint charging him with assault and battery on John W. Mahan, a special police officer of the Tremont & Suffolk mills. The alleged assault took place Sunday afternoon shortly after 3:30 o'clock while Mahan was trying to place Goulas under arrest after it is alleged he had attempted to assault an unknown young woman.

James Stuart Murphy conducted the defense, the prosecution being presented by Major Edward J. Noyes.

Special Officer John W. Mahan, of the Tremont & Suffolk mills, and the defendant were both present in court, testified that about 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon while he was standing in front of the mill office in Suffolk street his attention was attracted by the street by the defendant and a young woman struggling. Witness said that he saw Goulas take a heavy wrench out of his pocket and aim a blow at the woman and the latter avoided the blow and ran up the street.

Officer Mahan produced a wrench, which he claimed was the one used by the defendant, and said that as soon as he saw the trouble he rushed to the scene and after showing Goulas his badge placed the defendant under arrest. Mahan said that Goulas kicked him and then taking the wrench struck him with it in the back of the neck. He finally succeeded in pinning the man under arrest.

Harry A. Thibault, of 62 Race street, said that he was present and saw the trouble between Goulas and the woman and also the assault on Mahan by the defendant. The witness corroborated the testimony of Mr. Mahan in almost every particular.

Thomas Goulas, the defendant, when placed on the stand said he had known the girl in question for about a year and a half. He met her in Manchester and was keeping company with her. She came to Lowell about three days before the alleged assault and he met her, by accident, at the depot and during the three days that she was in Lowell the pair had been to the show 15 different times.

He knew that her first name was

Annie, but he did not know what her nationality is. He said that he met her in Suffolk street Sunday afternoon and was fooling with her. He admitted that he had grabbed her by the shoulder, but that it was done only in a spirit of fun. After she left him he said that Officer Mahan came up to him and wanted to know what he was doing with the girl and when he told him that she was his girl the officer struck him.

Continuing the defendant said: "When he struck me I took the wrench out of my pocket and was about to hit him when he showed me his badge and I turned the wrench over to him and submitted to arrest without any further trouble."

Several witnesses corroborated in part the testimony offered by the defendant.

At the conclusion of the case the defendant was found guilty and a fine of $12 was imposed. He appealed.

Raid in Billerica

Constable E. W. Livingston and his son Henry called at Nutting's pond in South Billerica about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and placed under arrest five men and two women. Some of the men belonged in Billerica, others in and around Boston, while one of the women claimed Malden as her home and the other said she lived in Boston.

According to the testimony offered in police court this morning Constable Livingston said that the men had built a shack on private land on the banks of Nutting's pond and had been living there for some few days, drinking and carousing, and that the day before yesterday the two women put in an

BOMB EXPLODED

It Was Thrown From Subway Train

NEW YORK, May 24.—The explosion of a bomb thrown from a train on a subway system as the train was passing through the surface yards of the road on the edge of the Harlem ship canal today seriously injured a workman, broke the hawsers of a wrecking tug in the canal and set her adrift and created a panic among the tenants of a big apartment house nearby. The police are trying to find out if labor troubles had anything to do with the outrage. The missile is believed to have been hurled from an open rear window of a train, where the thrower had no difficulty in escaping detection. Construction work by a Pennsylvania steel concern is progressing in the subway yards and about 75 men are working there on the open shop system. Little damage was done to the company's property in the yards.

GRAND PROCESSION

IN HONOR OF FETE DIEU NEXT SUNDAY

A grand Fete Dieu procession in honor of the feast of Corpus Christi will be held in the open next Sunday in the vicinity of St. Jean Baptiste church, a beautiful feature of which will be the throwing of flowers before the Blessed Sacrament as it is carried through the streets. A group of 52 tiny girls from St. Joseph's convent will precede the host, carrying baskets of flowers. The girls scattering the flowers will walk backwards before the host, while another group will walk behind and gather up the flowers, exchanging places with the others as their baskets become empty, thus making the supply of flowers inexhaustible.

Other groups of girls will also appear in the procession, some carrying the gold chalice on a white satin cushion, and others holding white ribbons. Besides these, the whole school will form a cortege to the host, all of the little girls wearing white.

PRESENTED PURSE

GRANITEVILLE PARISHIONERS SURPRISE FR. McNAMARA

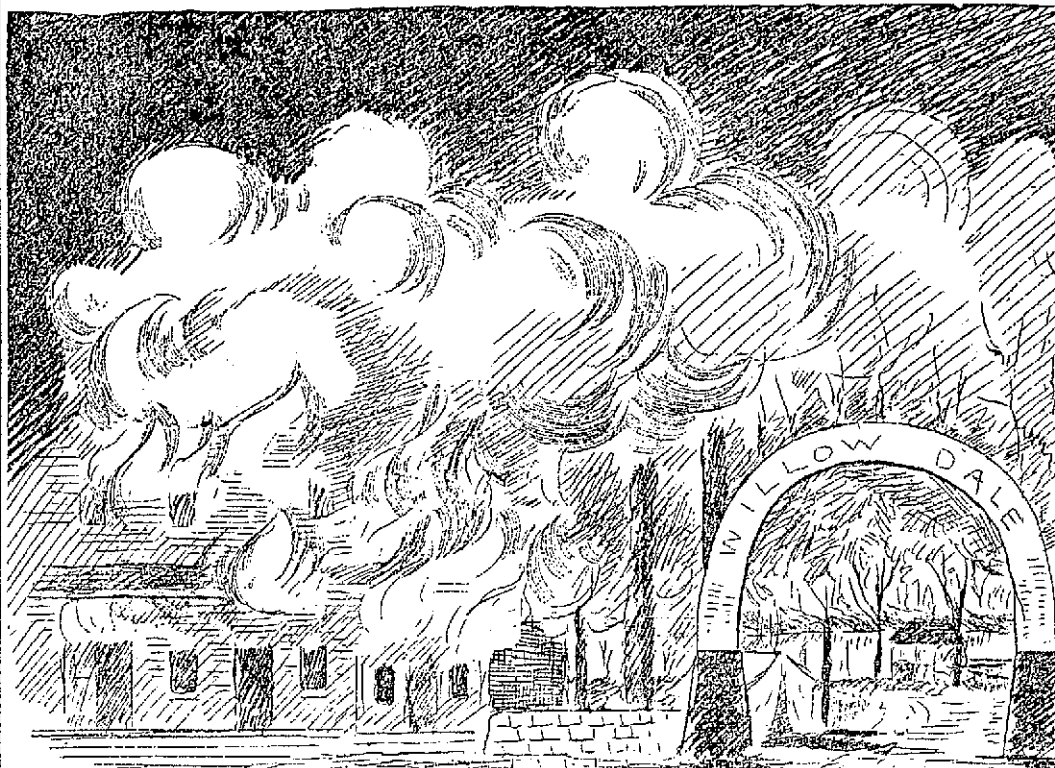

Rev. John J. McNamara, curate at St. John's, North Chelmsford and St. Catherine's, Graniteville, preached his farewell sermon at the latter church on Sunday morning.

At the conclusion of the mass J. A. Healy, sexton of the church, stepped forward and in behalf of the members of St. Catherine's parish presented Rev. Fr. McNamara a substantial purse of money. This act was a great surprise to Fr. McNamara and he was visibly affected. When he could find words to speak he said: "I have met with many surprises during the past few days but this is the climax. Words are but feeble to thank you for your kindness to me." After asking the congregation if they would kindly say a little prayer for his intention he bestowed his blessing upon the congregation.

After mass a long line of people filed into the vestry of the church to shake hands with Fr. McNamara, and extend their best wishes for his success in his new parish.

SUMMER HOTEL

ABOUT THE ONLY FIRE APPARATUS AVAILABLE

THE OLD MERCIER HOTEL AT THE ENTRANCE TO WILLOW DALE IN FLAMES

At Lakeview Laid in Ashes in Fierce Midnight Blaze

The large wooden building at the entrance to Willow Dale, which was commonly known as Mercier's hotel, was totally destroyed by fire last night and all that now remains to mark the site of the hotel is a mass of charred timbers.

A little, one-story building, close by, was also destroyed by fire.

It is thought that the fire was of incendiary origin, but owing to the fact that the whole structure was ablaze when discovered it will be difficult to tell where the fire started and how it spread.

The fire was discovered shortly after 11:30 o'clock and an alarm was raised which brought residents of Draught to the scene and later a special electric car containing Supt. Farrington and a number of the employees of the Boston & Northern Street Railway Co. was on the scene.

The blaze illuminated the sky in such a manner that people in this city were led to believe that there was a monster conflagration either in the Navy Yard or Collingwood. As it is difficult to tell the exact distance away that a fire is when visible to the eye, scores of people thinking that the mills in Draught were afire made their way to the Navy Yard.

Shortly after the discovery of the fire word was telephoned to Merrimack square and fearing that the fire might spread to Lakeside and destroy that property, a special car brought gang of railway men to the scene, but the fire was practically over when they arrived. They looked after the company's property.

By 12:15 o'clock this morning there was nothing left of the building but a mass of ruins. Little or no attempt was made to save the building, and those present were kept well away from the fire by the fact that the police bearing the heavy feed cables of the electric railway, and the trolley wires, were ablaze and threatened to fall at any moment.

The loss is roughly estimated between $2000 and $3000, the insurance on the hotel and furniture being carried through the agency of Fred C. Church. The building was three stories high and contained about 20 sleeping rooms, with on the first floor was a large public apartment and several small rooms.

The hotel was owned by John P. Nolan and was erected in 1900 by Joseph Mercier and occupied by him later by Arthur Nolan and then Joseph Murray, of the Navy Yard, who intended using it as a hotel this summer. There was no one in the hotel at the time the fire started.

CHOIR FESTIVAL

Has Raised Goodly Sum for Playgrounds

The receipts of the two nights of the choir festival in aid of public playgrounds in this city will amount to over $600 according to a report made by the committee in charge. A meeting of the committee was held yesterday afternoon and though all of the money has not as yet been turned in the committee is assured that the receipts will be more than $650.

Heretofore the receipts of the festival available to the College club by its own efforts, has raised $300 for the same purpose, making a total of about $900 for providing additional supervision and equipment for the playgrounds.

The park commission has already made provision for men supervisors, therefore it is thought that the greater part of the fund raised by the committee in charge of the festival will be used to provide equipment.

EX-SUPT. MAYBERRY

Defends His Administration at the City Farm

When Called Before the Appropriations Committee—The Law Authorizes Him to Exchange Products of Farm for Supplies, but He Sold Products and Used the Money for Purchase of Supplies

At a meeting of the appropriations committee, held last night, Solomon Mayberry, former superintendent of the city farm, read a type-written statement having to do with his administration. Mr. Mayberry had been criticised for failing to turn into the city treasury the money he received by the sale of farm products. Instead of turning the money into the city treasury, Mr. Mayberry purchased supplies required at the farm.

The committee voted to recommend to the city council that the "feeble minded" bill, so called, be held by the city department out of its regular appropriation. The bill amounts to $4286.92 and has been running for years.

Chairman Gray called to order at a little after eight o'clock. The first business attended to concerned Mr. Mayberry. A comparison between the conditions at the farm Jan. 1, 1909, and Jan. 1, 1910, had been asked for.

The following statement was read by Mr. Mayberry:

Gentlemen: I am asked to offer some explanation of transactions occurring at the city farm during my administration as superintendent. I cheerfully comply.

I understand that the criticism arises from the fact that certain products of the farm were sold and supplies for the institution purchased and paid for.

The whole question hangs upon the word "exchange."

Under the act of 1907, the superintendent has authority to dispose of the products of the farm. Under the city solicitor's opinion, he has authority to exchange products for supplies.

Products, consisting mostly of pigs, to the amount, in round numbers, of $1000 were disposed of.

In attempting to exchange these products, which was done in most cases, I found that, with the exception of articles like butterine, there was nothing needed which would be exchanged directly for the farm products. We required sugar, tea, coffee, rolled oats, grain and potatoes.

The surplus products had been raised on the farm at the expense of the department, and if the money was turned into the city treasury, the department as such was a loser at least to the amount expended by it on the production. I, therefore, under what I believed to be the authority of law, in certain cases, fixed a price upon surplus product, and immediately purchased with the medium of exchange supplies required by our needs.

Every transaction, with the amount received and expended, in detail, was recorded at the city farm, carefully and accurately, and is there preserved. An apparently accurate copy thereof is the list of collections and expenditures produced and criticized by the present charity board.

I believed that I was following a well established precedent, but the record of former transactions of exchanges or sales was not at the city farm and is not elsewhere, to my knowledge.

The legislature undoubtedly foresaw that there would be a surplus of certain products, and a shortage of other products and supplies.

Would it be better, under the law, to exchange in every case surplus products for supplies not needed at a bad bargain or sell at a fixed price, and buy immediately, advantageously, things required?

I confess that I believed that the department should have credit for any profitable farming. I made a special effort to increase the product of the farm in every direction. The records show the result. That my administration resulted in a very substantial saving to the city is easily ascertained by anyone who cares to examine the figures.

I have no disposition to dodge the fact of the exchange of products, or the sale of product, and the purchase of supplies. If the latter words are preferred by those accustomed to technicality.

Every act was open to the public and the charity board, and was properly and clearly recorded during my administration.

If my interpretation of legal opinions and somewhat cloudy legislative acts fails to coincide with that of men of greater ability, I wish it to be remembered that the charity department and the city have been the winners.

If the duties of superintendent were being performed by me, I should still be doing in my "ignorance" what I believed to be, and still believe to be, dictated by common sense.

During the first three months of this year, the department from its appropriations found it unnecessary to spend a dollar for sugar, tea, coffee, oats, rolled oats and potatoes. The history of the institution furnishes no precedent of such conditions.

I turned over to my successor full barrels, as the inventory will show. I received it with reduced appropriations, larders empty and many bills unpaid.

I fed well and cared well for the unfortunate under my charge, as I will show at any time and anywhere the occasion demands.

I invite your attention to the city auditor's office and the figures. They are too many to be referred to in detail here. The following will illustrate:

Total expended at farm:

1908, first four months.....	$20,593.56
1909, first four months.....	11,494.72
1910, first four months.....	13,893.35

These last four months are the period to which criticism is directed, I understand.

I followed to the best of my judgment the law as laid down by the city solicitor. I did my duty and am content.

Cross examined by committee members, Mr. Mayberry said he had left the larders well stocked and he said the hay he left was better than any he had used. He said there would any hay in the barn when he went there and he left the barn full of hay. He left 300 hogs at the farm, he said. He said there was a good crop at the farm last year. He said that all the coal he bought last year was paid for out of his appropriation. He said no sugar had been bought at the farm this year until he left. He said he spent about $75,000 last year, and that if he had remained at the farm it was his intention to pay the bill owed the Massachusetts Home for Feeble Minded Children.

The question of paying this bill was then taken up by the committee. The chairman said the bill should be paid. He said the bill had been considered when the appropriation was made. It was decided to report the facts to the city council with the recommendation that the charity board pay the bill.

In the matter of a loan of $55,000 for the purchase of a new pump for the Central pumping station it was voted to refer the matter to the city solicitor to see if bids can be asked for before the appropriation is made, that the exact cost may be known before money is appropriated. Referring the matter to the city solicitor was in accordance with a suggestion offered by Alderman C. H. French.

The joint order to appropriate $4000 for an increase of wages of street department employees was taken from the table. Mr. Flanagan said that every street employee should receive $2 a day. Mr. Dexter said it would mean that all employees would want an increase.

Mr. Davis moved that the order be not adopted. Mr. Patton seconded the motion, and it was carried. Mr. Flanagan voting against.

The request of the park committee for an appropriation of $4000 for moth extermination was brought up by Mr. Gray. State Forester F. W. Kane had stated that unless an appropriation was made he would be obliged to go before the governor and ask that the city be forced to spend money. Last year, $5000 was appropriated here for moth extermination. It cost Newton $30,000 last year to fight the moths, said the chairman.

Mr. Wainwright moved that an order be drawn recommending the expenditure of $3000 to fight the gypsy moths. It was carried.

Mr. Flanagan wanted to know about the $1000 which was appropriated to fix up the sidewalks on the North common. The chairman said that the matter is now up to the park commission; that it was asked for the board and was voted to them.

The order calling for $10,000 for repairs by the lands and buildings department was considered. Without opposition the item for $3200 to make additional sleeping rooms in the Protective house was carried. The item of $1500 for kalsomining at the high school was also favored, and on a vote, was carried. The next item, $1000 for a retaining wall at the Bartlett school, provoked some discussion. The wall is needed, it was said, to keep water from running into the school yard, and thence into the basement. Mr. Davis moved that the item be favored and it was recommended for adoption. It was also voted to allow $3000 for repairs at the city farm. The sum of $500 was asked for paving and concreting in school yards, and on motion of Mr. Jewett, it was passed. For bath room repairs in fire houses $500 was asked. It was recommended. For plastering a ceiling at the Varnum school $300 was asked and allowed. The loan order as a whole was then passed.

The joint communication from the park commission, on petition of Geo. T. Hooper and others for the purchase of the Livingston land for park purposes was referred to a sub-committee, consisting of Chairman Gray and Messrs. Davis and Flanagan, who were named to consult with the owners of the property relative to the price.

BIG BAZAAR

IN AID OF ST. MARY'S CHURCH OPENS THIS EVENING

At Associate hall, this Wednesday and Thursday evenings a bazaar will be run which is going to be the most attractive, and the most enjoyable of any that have been held in this city. The final details, after weeks of hustling by the promoters, are almost completed, and when the bazaar opens this evening its varied program will appeal to the taste of the most critical patron. A program has been arranged that will insure the attendance of young and old.

St. Mary's church of Collinsville is running the event and for the improvement of that church the proceeds will be used. The bazaar is the first entertainment of its kind that the parishioners, under the direction of their pastor, Rev. Thomas Walsh, have undertaken. They are confident of its success and they believe that it will be the most enjoyable and the most remunerative undertaking of its kind so far held in this city.

Not alone are residents of Collinsville interested in the success of the venture but those of Lowell who during the summer season have spent their Sundays in and about Dracut and who have attended St. Mary's church on that day, desire to see and will help to make the bazaar an enterprise which from its happy result will be long remembered in the history of the parish.

St. Mary's is growing rapidly; it has been raised recently to the standing of an independent parish; its people wish to improve their place of worship, and to do this, money must be raised. That the residents of Collinsville will, by their attendance, make every effort to crown with success the unceasing labor of Father Walsh and his assistants, is assured, and that the parishioners' friends in Lowell will aid them in their efforts, is confidently expected.

Dancing has been arranged and will be one of the most pleasing features of the festival. The orchestra has been engaged and will be on hand during the three evenings.

The price of admission has been placed at twenty-five cents and it is expected also that a large number of people will purchase the season tickets good for the three nights that can be had for fifty cents.

PILGRIM COMMANDERY, I. O. O. F.

The members of Pilgrim Commandery, I. O. O. F., held a "ladies' night" at Centralville Odd Fellows hall last night. There was a large attendance and the lady friends of the members were warmly entertained.

During the early part of the evening what was known as a strawberry supper was served, the principal dish on the menu being strawberries.

Then came an entertainment which was well arranged and carried out. There were songs by the Lyric Ladies' quartet, solos by Miss Edna Thompson, piano solos by George Willie and other musical selections. Miss Viola Marshall was accompanist of the evening.

There were also appropriate remarks by Rev. N. W. Matthews and Rev. J. M. Craig, George Taylor and others. Charles A. Glough was toastmaster.

The affair was under the direction of an able committee consisting of C. C. Thompson, chairman; W. S. Cross, W. A. Hall and A. O. Wheeler.

ECONOMIC CLUB

Entertained at the First Trinitarian Church

A party of 25 men, representing the economic department of Harvard university, which deals with the relation of the church to social questions, came to Lowell yesterday and toured the city on invitation of Rev. George F. Kennigott. After the tour, supper was served at the First Trinitarian church. Fifteen of the party are members of the graduate students of Harvard, and some of them instructors in the economic department. The club is a voluntary association, meeting once in two weeks, and discussing papers by the club members. The party visited the Textile school and the Merrimack mills.

The supper was served at 6.30, and was followed by speaking. Mr. Julius Klein, president of the visiting club, presided. The speakers were Mayor Martin on "The City," Dr. G. Forrest Martin on "Work of Health Department," Judge Pickman on "The Park Commission," Harvey B. Greene on "Work of Board of Trade," F. A. Bowser on "Our Manufacturers," Rev. Charles T. Billings on "The City Beautiful," L. E. Macbratney on "The Newspaper's Province."

AL DELMONT WON

NEW BEDFORD, May 24.—Al Delmont of Boston got the decision over Bobbie Tickle of Lawrence before the New Bedford Athletic association last night in a 12 round bout. Delmont clearly having the best of the go after the fifth round. The young fighters were evenly matched, and while it was not an exciting battle, there were plenty of punches and counter punches that kept the fighters on their noddies.

A SUGGESTION ON ECZEMA

It is suggested that eczema sufferers ask Carter & Burkhart, druggists, of this city what reports they are getting from patients who have used the oil of wintergreen liquid compound, D. D. D. LOST A HAND

DANVERS MAN CAUGHT IT IN ICE CREAM FREEZER

DANVERS, May 24.—Horace E. Emerson, while operating an ice cream freezer at his place on Maple street yesterday afternoon caught his left hand in the gearing. Before the machinery could be stopped the hand was severed from the arm.

With rare presence of mind, Mr. Emerson seized a towel, and, tightly wrapping it about his arm, succeeded in staying the flow of blood until he obtained surgical assistance. He walked to his home after the accident.

The accident was caused by an attempt on the part of Mr. Emerson to remove salt and other debris from the top of a large freezer, which was in rapid motion.

WEALTHY PUBLISHER WEDS

CHICAGO, May 24.—W. D. Boyce, a wealthy publisher and paper manufacturer, was married to Miss Virginia Lee yesterday. It had previously been arranged to hold the wedding on June 1. Boyce was attacked and beaten last Thursday night in a hotel by his son, Benjamin Boyce, who was subsequently arrested on complaint of the bridegroom. Young Boyce is said to have objected to his father's marriage to Miss Lee.

TUFTS MAN FELL DISTANCE OF 35 FEET

MEDFORD, May 24.—Edwin P. Dugbee of Methuen, president of the Tufts college aero club, had a narrow escape from serious injury late yesterday afternoon on the Tufts athletic field, when the club glider, Tufts 1, in which he was riding, plunged from a height of 35 feet to the ground.

The glider was being towed at the rate of 25 miles an hour by an automobile driven by Willibald C. Fackton of Roxbury and containing Alfred B. White of Taunton, Roy G. Nickerson of Braintree and Max G. Vincent of Girard, Pa.

The accident was the second of the afternoon and the glider was traveling in great shape behind the auto over the vastly baseball diamond, when the leads to the tow rope broke and the machine dashed to the ground.

The craft started to pitch before the ropes broke, but Dugbee kept his head well, and when the glider struck the earth the club president calmly picked himself out of the debris, uninjured, and unwound himself from the guy wires and cloth.

The glider was severely damaged, and although it may be repaired later, it is probable that glider work at Tufts will not be resumed this spring. The front elevating plane and the back plane were ground to pieces. The stays in the two main planes were almost without exception smashed and the cloth was completely destroyed.

The event aroused considerable excitement, as two baseball games were in progress on the athletic field diamonds and a large squad of track candidates was out on the track.

This is the second accident that has happened to the glider. A few weeks ago Merritt O. White of Clintonville, Ct., was sent to the earth, but escaped with a few cuts on his hands.

A HORSESHOE VICTORY

Lowell Lost Game and Then Won It Back

Finlayson Played Eight Great Innings and Threw the Game Away in the Ninth—Ainsmith Cuts Up Monkeyshines and Disgusts the Spectators

Lowell won from Lawrence at Spaulding park yesterday afternoon in a heart breaking finish, the home team having no license to pull off the victory, but getting it just the same.

Pitcher Finlayson of the visitors won the game himself and then threw it away. He held Lowell down well as to hits, struck out 10 men and batted magnificently, bringing in most of the visitors' runs with a home run, a triple and a single. But in the ninth inning, with two out, Bonties on third and Fitzpatrick on first, Finlayson threw to third to get Bonties and made a bad aim, the ball going clear in the left field fence, both men scoring and tying it up. He then lost his nerve and the rest was easy.

There was one unfortunate and one disgusting feature of the game. While running as fast as they could go after a long hit by Conney, Reynolds and Perrott ran into each other and both dropped to the ground unconscious, one on top of the other. They were out for several minutes and when they revived were too dazed to continue in the game. Reynolds was bruised over the eye, while Perrott received an injury to his leg. The accident might have been averted had anyone called to the fielders as to which should take the ball.

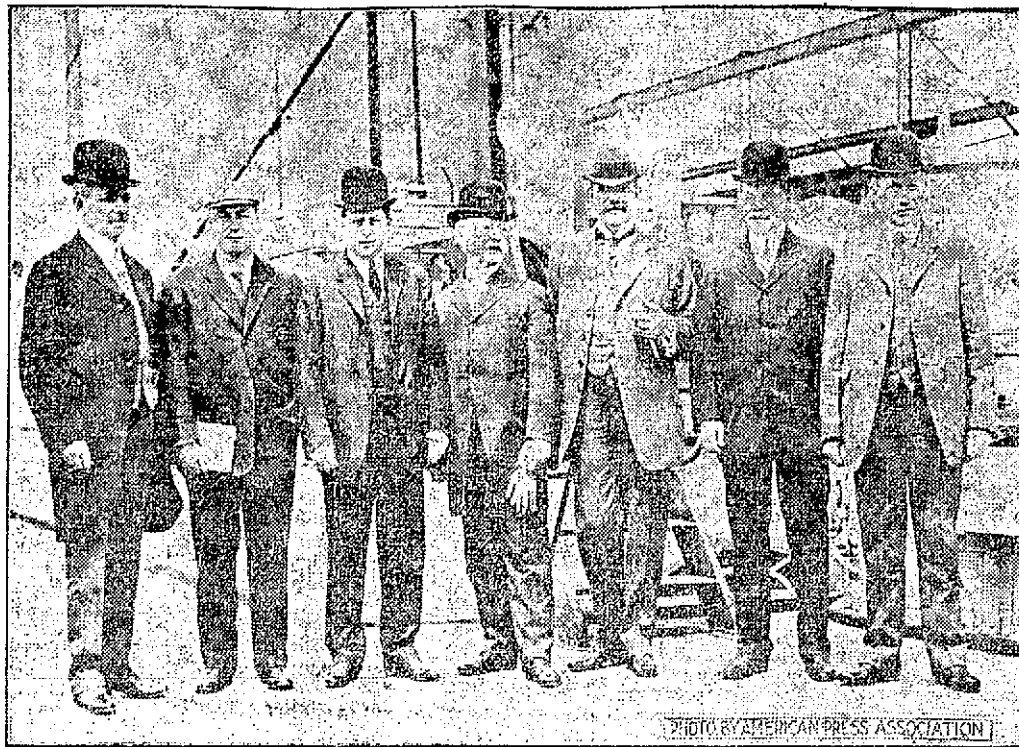

In the ninth inning Magee stole second base with the score tied and Ainsmith threw wild to second, allowing Magee to get third. To the surprise of all, Ainsmith ran over to Empire Lannigan and started to put on a howl about some alleged interference on the part of Finlayson, who was at bat. The outcome of it was that he was chased from the grounds. He started away, but came back and made a bluff attempt to assault the umpire, it taking several players to hold him. The crowd, particularly the ladies present, were disgusted at the rowdy actions of Ainsmith, for not only was there no occasion for them, but they came as an afterthought on the part of Ainsmith.

TWO OF DETROIT'S CLEVER YOUNG PITCHERS DOING GOOD WORK

Early games show that Hurlie Jennings' pitcher staff has been considerably strengthened by the addition of the three youngsters Stroud, Pernell, and Browning, whom the Tigers' manager obtained from the minor leagues last fall. Of the three the showing of Browning seems to be the best. This little mite, who does not weigh more than 125 pounds, has won two straight games from the Clevelanders recently by his clever pitching. In talking of this fellow the other day Jennings said: "Browning is little, but, oh me, oh my! He's another Charlie Griffith and will make a record for himself before the season ends." Stroud and Pernell have also won several games by their clever twirling. With these three cracks to

SEVEN ATTORNEYS TO DEFEND THE UNITED STATES IN FISHERY DISPUTE

NEW YORK, May 24.—The seven members of the boundaries commission from the United States who are to appear before the permanent international court of arbitration at The Hague in an effort to settle the Newfoundland fishery dispute are on the high seas, planning their case, which will be opened the first week in June. United States Senator Root goes as special counsel. A number of persons who will act as legal aids to Mr. Root in his presentation of the American case were also on board, including Chandler Anderson, special agent for the United States; George Turner of the state of Washington, Samuel J. Elder of Boston, Charles B. Warren of Detroit, Robert

Lansing of Watertown, N. Y., and James Brown Scott, solicitor of the state department. Mr. Root said that, although no definite limits could be set, he expected the conference would end in about three months. Whether he would meet Colonel Roosevelt, he said, he did not know, but that if he did, arrangements would be made by wire-

Ainsmith, Wolfgang struck out and Fitz foul flied to Noyes.

Score—Lowell 1, Lawrence 3.

Third Inning

The visitors went out in quick order in the third inning. Catterson bunted to Wolfgang and was out at first while Reynolds and Perrott struck out.

Lowell scored a run in the latter half of the inning as a result of two of the visiting batters colliding with each other. Vance hit to Finlayson and was out at first. Conney knocked a fly to deep left center field and Reynolds and Perrott started on the run for the ball. Owing to the fact that each had his eyes on the ball they collided with such force that both men were knocked out and Conney came all the way around and scored. When Reynolds and Perrott were picked up it was found that both were in bad condition, Reynolds having a bruise over the eye and they were retired from the game. Myers going to center field and Capt. Bannan to left field. After the game was restarted, Magee foul flied to Noyes, Fitzpatrick drew a base on balls and Jones closed the inning by striking out.

Score—Lowell 2, Lawrence 3.

Fourth Inning

In the fourth inning Crisham hit to Wolfgang and was out at first. Kruger hit to the center field fence for a three bagger. Noyes hit to Conney and the latter threw Kruger out at the plate. Ainsmith hit to Morse and was out at first.

In Lowell's half Hornelli drew a base on balls, but a few minutes later Ainsmith caught him napping off first and threw him out. Morse struck out. Wolfgang singled by short stop, but he failed to get beyond first for Fitzpatrick struck out.

Score—Lowell 2, Lawrence 4.

Fifth Inning

Finlayson, the home run hitter, sent the ball over Jones' head for a clean three bagger, but Jones threw and to Magee and Finlayson scored. Miller hit to Conney and was out at first. Catterson flied to Morse and Bannan drew a base on balls, but the latter was caught off first by Wolfgang.

Vance flied to Noyes, Conney foul flied to Ainsmith and Magee flied to Bannan.

Score—Lowell 2, Lawrence 4.

Sixth Inning

Lawrence scored another in the sixth inning. Myers bunted to Wolfgang for a single and the latter threw lead to first and the runner went to third. Crisham hit to Vance and the latter held the ball a little too long in order to keep Myers on third and Crisham reached first. Crisham and Myers then worked a double steal, the latter scoring. Kruger and Noyes struck out and Ainsmith hit to Fitz and was out at first.

In the latter half of the inning Fitzpatrick struck out. Jones followed with a single to center field, but Hornelli hit to Bannan and the latter tagged Jones and then threw to first for a double play.

Score—Lowell 2, Lawrence 5.

Seventh Inning

Finlayson made his third hit in this inning, making a single to right field. He went to second on Miller's sacrifice. Catterson hit along the first base line and was second out and Bannan was third out on strikes.

Morse hit to Miller and was out at first and Wolfgang hit to Finlayson and was second out at first. Fitzpatrick singled to left field. Vance hit to Noyes forcing Fitz at second.

Score—Lowell 2, Lawrence 5.

Eighth Inning

Myers hit to Vance but Morse on first dropped the ball and the runner was safe. Crisham hit to Fitz who fouled and the runner was safe at first while Myers went to third. Kruger hit to Wolfgang and was out at first. Noyes hit to Conney and was out at first, but Myers scored by slick base running. Ainsmith hit to Vance and was out at first.

Conney struck out. Magee foul flied to Ainsmith. Fitzpatrick hit to Miller who fumbled and he got on first. Jones hit a fly to Myers who fumbled it and Fluharty scored. Jones going to second. Hornelli hit to left field for two bases and Jones scored. Foye went to bat for Morse and striking at the first three balls was out.

Score—Lowell 4, Lawrence 5.

Ninth Inning

Finlayson hit to Vance and was out at first. Miller struck out. Catterson hit to center field for three bases. Bannan flied to Magee.

Bonties went to bat for Wolfgang and hit a grounder to Noyes which the latter could not handle and the runner reached first. Fitzpatrick hit to left field for a single, sending Bonties to third. Vance struck out. Finlayson threw to third to get Bonties and the ball went to the left field fence. Bonties and Fitz scored. Conney struck out. Magee drew a base on balls. Magee stole second and a bad throw by Ainsmith sent him to third. Ainsmith kicked that Fitzpatrick had interfered with his throw and the visiting catcher got to obstreperous that the umpire put him off the field. Ainsmith rushed back to the field to strike the umpire and it took three men to hold him and attempt to lead him from the grounds. The effort of the players to get the Lawrence catcher off the grounds were unavailing and Empire Lannigan said he would forfeit the game to the Lowell team if Ainsmith did not leave the grounds. Ainsmith was led from the grounds much against his will and Grant took his place behind the bat while Trainer took Fitzpatrick's place. Fitzpatrick got a single scoring. Magee.

DIAMOND NOTES

At Lawrence today.

Oedway and Morse were released last night while Hornelli goes back to Providence.

John Smith announced yesterday that he has signed Sam Stovell, the Lynn outfielder.

Blackley, the Brooklyn outfielder, and Cy McDonald of Washington are on the way, while Delaney, a catcher from Jamaica Plain, will catch at the game in Lawrence today.

The uncertainty of base ball was never better demonstrated than by the playing of Finlayson, the Lawrence pitcher. Fin had the game won himself and then threw it away. After striking out 10 men and making a homer, a triple and a single, he made a bad throw in the ninth that tied the score.

Talk about Lowell having a tough team for coaching, how about Lawrence allowing Reynolds and Perrott to almost kill each other in a head-on collision because nobody yelled to them as to who should take the ball?

Ainsmith should hold out his hand and let the teacher slap him on the wrist, or else be put to bed without his supper for his baby forehead toward the close of yesterday's game. After making the toughest kind of a throw to second he looked around for an excuse and finding nothing else for a kick got after Empire Lannigan claiming that Fitzpatrick, who was at bat interfered with him, which was by no means the case. Then Ainsmith turned his attention to Lannigan personally with the inevitable result: "Get off o' de grounds!" came the dulcet tones of "The Pin."

Ainsmith picked up his must and walked away as meekly as a spanked kid, but upon arriving at the bench he heard the sympathetic words of some Lawrence rooters of both sexes whereupon he saw a chance to be a hero and throwing down his protector made a rush back for Lannigan like an enraged mosquito. Finlayson grabbed him to restrain him, but he threw Fin over his head and then several players hauled him struggling to the bench. "Get out o' there or the game is off," said Lannigan, the immovable one. Ainsmith then tried on every coat and sweater on the bench and appeared about to go up in the grand stand and try on the spectators' outer garments when Bannan chased him to the dressing room. After the game a cop suggested that he would escort Lannigan to the car. "Don't mind me, brother," said Lannigan, "look after him." The game is over now and I'm plain Lannigan, with a bit of a wallop. Where is that kid? The crowd hinged around him and Ainsmith was under cover until Lannigan had taken the car.

We still maintain that "The Pin" Mr. Lannigan, has "The Half Pint." Mr. Byrne, beaten several gills as an umpire. In fact Lannigan gives the best measure of any of them.

"Oom Paa!" Kruger, the Lawrence short stop, can koppe the ball in fine style.

Finlayson and Conney will smoke "Ball" Durham for the next few days. Conney's was a phoney home run but it's the only way to score it.

Catcher Stone has been released.

We're in the first division for a few moments.

All scores by innings bat off the wire at Duff's, 17 Market street. Fall ticket service.

The Haverhill, Gazette, baseball writer saw several things at the game in Lowell on Thursday as witness the following: "Perhaps Byrne wasn't off on balls and strikes. Mike told him a few things on one occasion and he remembered. Byrne came back with the retort, 'Well, I've got to die some time and you might as well kill me as anyone.' The little 'ump' is no favorite in the Lowell dignities, and he got no sympathy from either club. Manager Fleming told him what he thought of him in the ninth and was given the high sign to retire. He came back but was again chased and sat on the end of the third base bleachers where he could direct the playing of his club."

Larry Temple is the highest priced pitcher in the New England league, but he got his bumps good and proper, at Ocean Park, in the game against New Bedford, Friday afternoon. He comes out of the middle west, having been spotted two years ago by a scout in the employ of the New York Giants, where he was working with Rube Marquard, also a slub artist. McGraw was induced to part with $11,000 for Marquard, while the New York manager gave up, at the same time, $3000 for Temple. The former pitcher is still working for the Giants, although he has not done anything as yet to set the base ball world on fire. Temple was tried out several times by McGraw, but was found wanting, so Muggsy decided to send Larry to the woods, where he could get a little more practice. He is believed to have something on the ball if given opportunity enough to work which will be given him by Manager Dowd. Temple's backstop on the Giants was Myers, the Indian, and they were known as the dark skin battery, because of their complexions. Temple, however, not an Indian, except when the raps give him the raw on balls and strikes.—Lynn Item.

HETTY GREEN ANGRY

Because the Jury Rendered Verdict Against Her

NEW YORK, May 24.—"Cat fits" and "blackmail" were terms used yesterday on the stand by Mrs. Hetty Green to characterize the efforts of the Safety Deposit company of 140 Broadway to recover $550 rentals from her. But the jury in the case, which was tried before Judge O'Dwyer in the city court, found against Mrs. Green after 12 minutes' deliberation, and she expressed her indignation in no uncertain terms.

"Outrage! Outrage!" she cried when the foreman announced that she had lost the suit. "Isn't there any justice for a woman who has money?"

The clerk of the court rapped sharply for order, and Mrs. Green's attorney, Lewis Doyle, appealed to her to be calm, but the woman financier continued to express her feelings on the "outrage." The clerk again rapped for order, and she finally subsided.

Mrs. Green had said before the jury went out:

"Juries have always been good to me, I have never lost a case," but half an hour later the "richest woman in the world" had lost her first suit.

Suit for Box Rent

The action was for the use of safe deposit boxes for a period of 10 years each. The original amount of the action was $550, but $12.25 was added for interest. Mrs. Green contended that she had not engaged the boxes after settling the amount due for their rental up to a time previous to the 10 years involved, but the safe deposit company alleged that she had entered into some agreement to continue their rental.

William A. Mitchell, president of the company, testified that on Dec. 1, 1903, Mrs. Green called at the company's offices with Edward R. Karsel, auditor of the Chemical National bank, and gave him a check for $600 for rent already due. He asserted further that she had agreed to rent the boxes for a further period and that a memorandum had been made to that effect. The boxes contained papers relating to Mrs. Green's father, Edward Mott Robinson, who died in 1865.

Mr. Mitchell denied that he had ever tried to have Mrs. Green make her headquarters in the company's offices, but admitted that she had been charged less for the use of the boxes than the usual rate. He explained this by saying that she was a good customer and he wished to retain her patronage.

Mrs. Green was emphatic when called as a witness. She brought two umbrellas and a maid to court and was dressed from head to foot in black, a veil doing duty as a hat. She carried a black bag and wore black gloves.

Says Boxes Were Stolen

When called to the stand she spoke in a very low tone, but very rapidly. "Those boxes were stolen out of my father's estate years ago," began the defendant.

"Father died 45 years ago, and I did it for my son, who is running a railroad and cannot be here. This is the third blackmailing suit that I've had. I was paying for my father's estate, of which my son, Edward H. Green, is the sole surviving trustee and my daughter is the executrix."

"Then you never agreed to pay any amount personally for the storage of the boxes?"

"No, I didn't," declared Mrs. Green, vigorously. "I wouldn't want to pay storage 45 years on a lot of things stolen out of my father's estate."

"They don't belong to me, according to God they do not belong to me," she declared. "According to law they belong to my son as trustee. I paid $2500 for the writing of the books, though."

"There has been a great deal of litigation over your father's estate, has there not?" asked Lawyer Doyle.

"Yes, there has," replied Mrs. Green. "They tried to steal my share in Chicago."

"Judge," said Mrs. Green, "they're trying to frighten me, but I won't let them. It would have been easier for me to pay the bill than to engage a lawyer. The expense that I have been put to will be double that which I would have been compelled to pay, but if I let this go there would be a lot more of the same thing."

The jury then took the case under consideration and returned their verdict in 12 minutes.

GIRLS CAPTURED

Escaped From George Junior Republic

ITHACA, May 24.—Two girls, citizens of the George Junior Republic at Freeville, successfully broke away from jail at midnight Sunday night and were on their way west when caught by the Ithaca chief of police. The girls are Florence Dougherty of Pittsburg and Carrie Hazely of Interlaken. Both are about 18 years of age and good looking.

They had been sent to jail after a hearing before the republic judge and convicted of misconduct. Confinement was irksome, however, and the Dougherty girl suggested the plan to escape. She engineered the deal, managing to get hold of $5 in real money, though the republic has its own currency, which is worthless outside.

About midnight the girls crawled through a narrow window out on the roof of the second story. There they found escape cut off, but a nearby pole proved their salvation. Without hesitation, both slid down this pole, though their hands were hurt in the descent. In order to get away without approaching too close to the republic walls, they had to wade through a swamp.

They stopped on the other side to put on dry stockings and the Dougherty girl found that her shoes had shrunk so that she could not put them on. She slid her feet into them as far as they could go and walked the 14 miles to Ithaca. Arriving early yesterday morning, they bought tickets for Trumansburg, but alarmed at the attention they attracted at the station,

RAPID CURES OF ECZEMA

All Skin Troubles Yield Readily to This New Healing Agent

In stopping the itching attending eczema, or any itching skin disease, with first application, poslam, the new skin dressing, and proves its wonderful healing properties. It is safe to say that poslam has cured more skin diseases than any remedy ever offered for these ills. The very worst cases of eczema, as well as acne, psoriasis, herpes, tetter, piles, salt rheum, rash, crusted humors, scaly scalp and every form of itch yield to it readily. Eruptions, such as pimples, red noses, muddy and inflamed skin disappear almost immediately when poslam is applied, the complexion being cleared over night.

Every druggist keeps both the 50-cent size (for minor troubles) and the $2 jar, and either of these may be obtained at Falls & Burkinshaw's, Carter & Sherburne's, and the Riker-Jaynes Drug Co's, as well as other reliable drug stores.

But no one is even asked to purchase poslam without first obtaining a sample package, which will be sent by mail, free of charge, upon request, by the Emergency Laboratories, No. 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York City.

DIVORCED WOMAN

Is Again Made a Lawful Wife

BROCKTON, May 24.—By a motion filed and granted in the Plymouth county superior court here yesterday, Judge William B. Stevens presiding, Lena M. Kennedy Marsh of Montello street, this city, is once more, by order of the court, the lawful wife of George Lawrence Marsh. Marsh is employed as a traveling salesman and his home is in this city.

The case is most unusual in the history of Plymouth county. Mrs. Marsh was granted a divorce November 8, 1903, because she would have become absolute on May 9 last, if objection had not been filed in superior court by Attorney Richard W. Nutter.

The latter, acting under appointment by Judge Lawton as special attorney, investigated certain claims made by Charles Laure of El Paso, Tex., where Mr. Marsh is alleged to have resided at one time.

He sent a communication to Clerk Edward E. Hobart, in which he set forth certain alleged actions of Mrs. Marsh when Laure knew her in Texas. Mrs. Marsh was known in Texas as "the mystery girl" according to Laure. In having the libel dismissed and the decree vacated, the charges made by Laure will not be heard in court.

DALMORE'S VOICE

Brings Him the Sum of $200,000

BERLIN, May 24.—Andreas Dippel, who is returning to the United States after a brief visit in Berlin, has just signed a remarkable contract with Charles Dalmore whereby the French tenor will receive the record sum of $200,000 for the period of a four years' engagement at the Metropolitan, New York, and the allied opera houses of Boston, Chicago and Philadelphia.

It is stated that the consummation of this contract will net the indemnity of $25,000 which Dalmore was required to pay the Metropolitan as a result of his last legal action against the management.

Dippel came to Europe this time primarily to see his wife, who was ill at Nice. He returns for his annual European hunt for talent and new operas some time next month. Dalmore's salary at the Manhattan was $600 a performance. Last season he sang at least 60 performances and the amount he made, therefore, was $36,000. As his new contract is probably arranged on a basis of 40 performances, if the amount named is the correct one, his new salary must be estimated as more than double that of his old one, or $1260 a performance. This is a larger amount than any tenor receives in America, with the exception of Caruso.

"JIM" JEFFRIES

Will Take Things Easy This Week

BEN LOMOND, Cal., May 24.—Jim Jeffries says he intends to take things easy this week. Road work accompanied by sprinting will be kept up regularly but it is thought likely that he will have to do little with the gloves until Jim Corbett arrives next week. The report that Corbett will not have his quarters at the camp here is denied by Jeffries' training companions. It is said that accommodations are now being prepared for him and that there is no likelihood of friction between Corbett and any other member of the camp. News from the city that Jack Johnson may be a spectator at Jeffries' boxing tournament in San Francisco next Friday night has stirred up considerable interest here, but the camp is not inclined to take Johnson's reported intention seriously. All, however, were anxious for the negro to be on hand. They assert that it would have a discouraging effect on Johnson for to see how fast the former champion is in his work.

Johnson is greatly pleased by the weight-reducing results of his daily workout and he says he intends to stick to that form of exercise. The negro champion who has taken much interest in the comet last night entertained a party of star-gazers at his training quarters but was disappointed by the heavy fog that veiled the sky.

CORBETT AND CHOYNSKI

CHICAGO, May 24.—Jim Corbett, former heavyweight champion, is staying here a couple of days on his way to California to help condition James

J. Jeffries for his fight with Jack Johnson. Asked concerning his old time feud with Joe Choynski, Corbett laughed and said: "No, I don't suppose we could be called friends for we've been enemies practically since we were boys but it should prove no obstacle to our mutual efforts to help Jeff. I've forgotten any hard feelings I ever had and I hope Joe has. This is too big a thing for petty bickering to enter into the plans. I will greet Joe just as cordially as I would if we never had any differences."

THE SPEECH OF CONGRESSMAN FOSS.

The maiden speech of Congressman Foss in congress Saturday was a rouser. It spread consternation in the republican ranks and the leaders vainly tried to confound him by asking questions.

He justly denounced the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill as "an intentional and deliberate blunder game from start to finish." He demanded that the tariff commission provided for in the present tariff law should report to congress and not to the president. He also demanded that a special session of congress be held next spring to revise the tariff so that the democratic party may do the work which the republican party failed to do in violation of its promises to the country.

The speech of Mr. Foss and another by Champ Clark of Missouri dealing more minutely with the tariff, sounded the keynote of the democratic campaign and both have caused great alarm among republicans who already foresee defeat in the fall elections.

The speech of Mr. Foss came to them like a bombshell, overwhelming in its force and its fierceness of assault upon the already discredited policy of the republicans.

Foss will hereafter be a great power in congress. Let there be no attempt to recall him for any other position. There is no place except that of United States senator or of president in which he can do more good than as congressman.

UNDER THE NEW KING.

The funeral of King Edward was probably one of the most gorgeous pageants in all history. It recalled the "Field of the Cloth of Gold," the historic phrase applied to the magnificent camp of Francis I of France and Henry VIII of England at Calais in 1520. The funeral had a long line of European sovereigns; principal among whom was William of Germany whose importance in European affairs has been greatly advanced by the death of his uncle, King Edward. During his short reign King Edward, on account of his age, his ability as a diplomat and a man of peace, managed to counter-check most of the Kaiser's ambitions in the line of conquest.

The death of King Edward has made England an intensely loyal nation; it has united the people with royalty in a common bond of love and sorrow, such as has seldom, if ever, been experienced in England on the death of a sovereign. The sorrow for the death of Queen Victoria lacked sincerity, one might almost say it was feigned to meet a public necessity. What the people really felt in regard to the aged queen was that her time had come and that she did not relinquish her grasp of the scepter until she was obliged to by death. Had she been unselfishly considerate for the country or its future, she would have abdicated many years before her death so as to allow her son, the late King Edward, a longer reign. But today the people, high and low, sincerely lament the death of King Edward, for all had reason to love him as the best of all modern sovereigns of England. Yet as the people deplore his death, and are prone to exclaim "We shall not soon see his like again," they may be mistaken in their estimate of King George V. So far as he has gone he has acted with great wisdom and discretion. His appeal to the people for cooperation and his act of clemency towards prisoners have already made him popular, and the prediction is freely made that he will prove to be a wise, faithful and popular sovereign.

THE NAVIGATION OF THE MERRIMACK.

The conference at the Board of Trade rooms Saturday with Col. Burr of the United States survey brought out in a very forcible manner the advantages to be derived from making the Merrimack river navigable, at least from Lowell to the sea. And when we say from Lowell only, we may be tacitly misrepresenting the river above Lowell which is at present navigable to Nashua, but it would be a very difficult matter to pass a canal scow through any of the local canals so closely are they covered over with bridges and buildings.

In view of what has been done in other places to deepen waterways, this matter of making the Merrimack navigable as far as Nashua seems trifling. There is no reason why it should not be done. Only let our congressmen from the Merrimack valley combine to push the matter and it will go through in spite of Joe Cannon and all the cohorts of the standpatters.

The movement is now well started; let it go on without interruption. This is a movement that means a great deal to the city of Lowell, to Lawrence, Haverhill and even Newburyport for the skippers in the last named city would be called upon to man the river craft conveying coal, cotton and lumber to Lowell and perhaps also to carry back to the sea board the manufactured products of our textile factories, our shoe shops and machine shops.

Now that motor boats are so common, the work of river navigation would be greatly facilitated.

General Butler was a great advocate of navigating the Merrimack, and during his day did much to promote that object. He had a great power wheel erected at one of the waterfalls below Lawrence to generate power sufficient to tow the boats up over the falls. That was an ingenious scheme but electricity was not then generally used as a motor power. Today wheels could be harnessed on all the waterfalls in the Merrimack to produce electricity, and this would run mills on the river banks.

The boats can generate their own power from gasoline and in that way carry all the freight that is consigned them either upward or downward. The larger vessels of course would use steam.

The question that now interests everybody in the Merrimack valley is to get a liberal appropriation to make the Merrimack navigable to Lowell or to Nashua. The advantages to be derived from such an improvement fully warrant the expense.

The abandonment of the old Middlesex canal was one of the worst things that ever happened to the cities and towns in the Merrimack valley.

The blunder cannot now be remedied in any other way than by making the Merrimack navigable.

Therefore, we call upon the people of Lawrence, Haverhill, Newburyport and all the other residents of the Merrimack valley to join their forces in carrying this movement to a final success. It is thoroughly practical; it will not cost very much; it is necessary to keep Lowell and Lawrence in line with seaboard cities in the manufacture of textiles. It means the salvation of the cities in the Merrimack valley. Then why should not all join in forcing action in the immediate future?

SEEN AND HEARD

A boy of 12 years of age, with an air of melancholy resignation, went to his teacher and handed in the following note from his mother before taking his seat:

Dear Sir—Please excuse James for not being present yesterday. He played truant, but you needn't mind him for it, as the boy he played truant with and him fell out, and he kicked James; and a man they threw stones at caught him and kicked him, and the driver of a cart they hung on to kicked him, and the owner of a cat they chased kicked him. Then I kicked him when he came home, after which his father kicked him, and I had to give him another for being impudent to me for telling his father. So you needn't kick him until next time.

A TALE OF THE TRAIL

This life's a middlin' crooked trail, an' after forty year Of knockin' round I'm free to say th' right ain't always clear. I've seen a lot of folks go wrong—git off the main high road, an' fetch up in a swamp somewhere, almost before they knowed. I don't pretend to be no judge of right an' wrong in men; I ain't been perfect all my life, an' may not be again; An' sometimes when I see a chap who seems plum go astray I think perhaps he started right, but somehow lost his way.

I like to think the good in 'em by far outweighs the ill; Th' trail of life is middlin' hard an' lots of it uphill; There's places where there ain't no guides or signboards up, an' so it's partly guess work an' part luck which way you chance to go. I've seen th' trails fork some myself an' when I had to choose I wasn't sure when I struck out if it was w'n or lose. So when I see a man who looks as though he'd gone astray, I like to think he started right an' only lost his way.

I've seen a lot of 'em start out with grit an' spunk to scale Th' hills that purple over there, an' somehow lose th' trail; I've seen 'em stop an' start again, not sure about th' road; An' found 'em lost on some blind trail almost before they knowed. I've seen 'em circlin' tired out, with every pathway blind, With cliffs before 'em, mountain high, an' slough an' swamp behind; I've seen 'em strainin' through th' duck, when twilight's gittin' gray.

A-lookin' for th' main high road—poor chaps who've lost their way. It ain't as far from right to wrong—th' trail ain't hard to lose; There's times, I'd almost give my horse to know which one to choose. There ain't no signboards on th' road, I keep you on th' track; Wrong's sometimes white as driven snow an' right looks awful black! I don't set up to be no judge of right an' wrong in men; I've lost th' trail sometimes myself—I may git lost, again. An' if I see some chap who looks as though he'd gone astray I want to shove my hand in his an' help him find th' way.

—J. W. Foley.

He was a good little boy and very thoughtful. He had heard about the scarcity of water throughout the country. He came to his mother and slipped his hand into hers:

"Mamma," he said, "is it true that in some places the little girls and boys have scarcely enough water to drink?"

"That is what the papers say, my dear."

"Mamma," he presently said, "I'd like to give up something for those poor little boys and girls."

His mother gave him a fond look.

"Yes, dear, and what would you like to give up?"

"Mamma," he said in his earnest way, "as long as the water is so very scarce, I think I ought to give up being washed."—Ladies' Home Journal.

"Yet such illusions are continually being made. I know a fat lady who, in one of our public parks, told a tramp, on a very hot afternoon, that if he didn't stop following her she would call the police."

"O, don't do that, ma'am," was the impudent reply. "Don't call the police. Don't send me away. Why, yer the only bit of shade in the hui park."

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Mr. King O'Malley, minister of home affairs in the new Australian cabinet, led and manned by the Labor party, is an Irish-American, known among his associates as the "Bald Eagle of the Rocky Mountains." He is said to be somewhat angular in person, whimsical in speech, and when a South Australian legislator, achieved eminence by introducing a bill for the abolition of barmalms.

Scottish folks are closely watching ex-president Roosevelt to see whether he journeys northward to the parish of Blairgowrie, where the Bullocks, from whom he is descended on his mother's side, originated, the best known of them being John Bulloch of Aberdeen, the Shakespearean scholar.

By making Gen. Botha first premier of the South African Republic, Gov. Gen. Clouston has shrewdly bid for loyal support of the Dutch element, which of late has shown signs of reasserting racial points of view that it had been hoped would never obtrude again.

T. H. S. Escott, in his recently issued life of Edward Bulwer, First Baron Lytton, calls attention to the distinct service Bulwer Lytton rendered to British journalism by his discovery of the merits of Antonio Gallenga, who for so many years was one of the ablest of the correspondents of the London Times, and afterward one of its valued leaders. Gallenga was one of the first of cultivated Italians to visit the United States, and there are few more interesting books about the New England of the middle period of the last century than the one which includes a record of his experiences in this country. It has delightful pictures of the academic circles of Cambridge, the friction that inevitably developed between him and the prim maidens and Puritan divines and educators of that city, and Boston.

RAILWAY REVALUATION

One finds oneself in a mist of confusion when the test of either equity or economics in railway revaluation is applied in such a case as the South station at Boston. Its cost of construction some twenty years ago was $15,015,000; it is capitalized at $600,000 in stock and $4,000,000 of three and one-half per cent. bonds under the title Boston Terminal company, the New York, New Haven and Hartford holding four-fifths of the stock and the Boston and Albany one-fifth. The former corporation pays seventy-five per cent. of the interest taxes and operating cost; the latter company, twenty-five per cent. During the last fiscal year those three items aggregated $989,060, while the income from concessions was $316,616, so the net loss to the two corporations was $672,445. Under the valuation of the New Haven, made by J. F. Stevens, the terminal probably goes in at an increase to $20,000,000, perhaps more. When it comes to revaluing upward such a property, there are several viewpoints. The two corporate railway owners may see with great scarcity of water throughout the country. He came to his mother and slipped his hand into hers:

"Mamma," he said, "is it true that in some places the little girls and boys have scarcely enough water to drink?"

"That is what the papers say, my dear."

"Mamma," he presently said, "I'd like to give up something for those poor little boys and girls."

His mother gave him a fond look.

SMITH KILLED

Was Shot By Miners' Union Official

DANVILLE, Ill., May 24.—Joseph Smith was shot and killed at Danville last night by John Welsh, secretary of the local miners' union. Welsh recently disarmed an Italian who had threatened to shoot John H. Walker, president of the United Mine Workers of Illinois. Last night's tragedy resulted from a quarrel over that incident. Welsh surrendered to the police. He was guarded by a strong force, owing to threats of vengeance made by Smith's friends.

OLD MANUSCRIPTS

SUGGESTIONS TO MAKE WASHINGTON A DUKE

Some new light, not on General Washington's character, but on certain English views of his character, is offered in a volume just presented to parliament by the historical manuscripts commission. It is volume II. of the report on the manuscripts of Mrs. Stanford-Sackville, of Draxton House, Northamptonshire, and deals with the most important part of the Stanford-Sackville collection, namely, state papers relating to the American war of independence. Lord George Sackville, to whom most of the letters and papers in the collection were addressed, was the British secretary of state for the colonies from 1775 to 1782. One of the papers is a long one by Sir John Dalrymple, written in 1775, and entitled "Thoughts on Instructions to the American Commissioners." Sir John having been, as he said, the first to suggest at the beginning of the trouble with the colonies that a commission be sent to America to deal with matters in his "Thoughts," he says:

"I presume to suggest another thing. From all accounts of General Washington's character there is a resemblance between his character and General Monk's, for he is silent, keeps his mind to himself, is plain understanding and is a man of principle. Besides this, he has no son, daughter, brother or sister, so that his ambition must be limited to himself. Charles II. owed his kingdom to his personal application to Monk, delivered by one of Monk's own friends.

"Might not the ministers treating by the king's command or the king himself write a private letter to Washington to remind him of the similarity between his situation and Monk's, desiring him to ask terms for America fair and just, and that the terms should be granted, and that the terms for himself should be the dukedom, that was given to Monk, and a revenue to support it in order to give dignity to the man who generously gave up his own power to save his country?"

"If the minister has no man he can trust with such a commission, I can find one, I mean Mr. Lloyd Belfry, the bosom friend of General Washington, a man of fortune in Maryland, now in London; two of whose family are now with General Howe, and who has given proofs of his secrecy, as he was one of those who knew of a scheme of mine relating to the paper money of America."

NORTH CHELMSFORD

At both masses in St. John's church Sunday, Rev. Edmund T. Schofield, the pastor, read a letter from Archbishop William H. O'Connell, which stated that one of the newly ordained priests would be sent here to take the place of Rev. John McNamara, who has been appointed pastor of a new parish which includes Salem, Pelham and Canby Lake, N. H. It is not known yet just which one of the recently ordained priests will be sent here, but it is expected the appointment will be made within a week or two.

At the 9.15 o'clock mass in St. John's church, the 40 hours' devotion opened, and will come to a close at the 7.30 o'clock mass Tuesday morning.

EVERYTHING IS A JOKE TO FUNNY FOLKS

BOY WHO READS THE PAPERS.

Senator Graft: "Be ever careful of your associates, my son. A man is known by the company he keeps."
Son: "And a senator is known by the company that keeps him, ain't he, papa?"

JOHNNY'S ADDITION.

Teacher—Johnny, if you were a man and had $5,000 and wanted to buy a $10,000 house, what would you need?
Johnny—A rich wife.

NOT THE OLD FOLKS' FAULT.
"You will never make a poet."
"Sir! A poet is born, not made."
"Oh, you can't shift the blame on your parents that way."

GETTING EVEN.
Wife (to judge)—Your honor, he smashed me.
Husband—Well, she broke me first.

A DECEITFUL APPLIANCE.

Mr. Strunghead (who has ordered a snapshot camera by express): "It's a gummed fraud, Betsey! I pulled the trigger 'cordin' ter directions, an' now I've been through every part of th' old blithered thing without findin' no derrotypal!"

AN EMERGENCY OUTING.

"Who was in Miss Allwise's auto party?"
"A lawyer, a surgeon, a nurse and a doctor."

THE WAY TO LIVE NOW.

Sawdust in the cereal,
Chicory in the soup,
Chew the rag for dinner
While the price is up.

NOT NOW, BUT SOON.

"Where are you going, my pretty maid?"
"Going to get married, sir," she said.
"And am I the one, my pretty maid?"
"When I am divorced, sir," she said.

A DIFFICULT MISSION.

Hogan (an hour later): "Here's five av thim, sor. Take yure pick!"

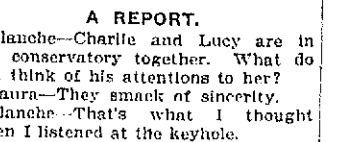

A BAD BEGINNING.

Plumber—Have you got all we want for Brown's job?
Boy—Yes.
Plumber—Well? You 'aven't forgot nothin'? Well, that's a good 'un! Haven't forgot nothin', and you learnin' to be a plumber!

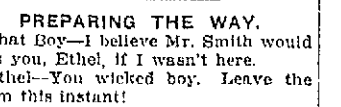

GREAT ACHIEVEMENT.

"And what do you regard as the greatest triumph of modern surgery?"
"Collecting the bills," promptly responded the great practitioner.

A REPORT.

Blanche—Charlie and Lucy are in the conservatory together. What do you think of his attentions to her?
Laura—They smack of sincerity.
Blanche—That's what I thought when I listened at the keyhole.

PREPARING THE WAY.

That Boy—I believe Mr. Smith would kiss you, Ethel, if I wasn't here.
Ethel—You wicked boy. Leave the room this instant!

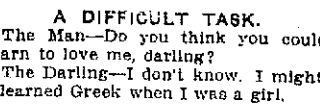

AN OLD GAME.

Tommy—Come on, Jennie; let's play Adam and Eve.
Jennie—How do you play it?
Tommy—You tempt me with an apple and I'll eat it.

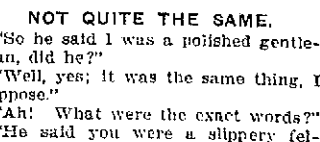

NEVER AGAIN.
"Curse my luck! I left my pocket-book under my pillow."
"Oh, well, your servant is honest."
"Yes, that's just it. She'll take it up to my wife."

A DIFFICULT TASK.
The Man—Do you think you could learn to love me, darling?
The Darling—I don't know. I might. I learned Greek when I was a girl.

AWFUL.
Auntie (to niece at the telephone)—To whom are you talking, Ethel?
Ethel—To Charley Beach.
Auntie—What! Without a chaperon in the room?

NOT QUITE THE SAME.
"So he said I was a polished gentleman, did he?"
"Well, yes; it was the same thing, I suppose."
"Ah! What were the exact words?"
"He said you were a slippery fellow."

Mr. Plymouth Rocke (time, 12:30 a. m.): "Sold again, Fanny. I've joined the Individual Protection club."

AN INTANGIBLE AFFAIR.
Bobby—What is the arctic circle, pa?
His Pa—The arctic circle, my son, is an imaginary line bounding a large area of uncorroborated evidence.

VERY COY.
Woman of the House—I'm afraid you don't love work.
Bangles—Deed, I do, mum, but I'm so bashful.

JOCKEYING FOR THE DUSKY DERBY.

Mr. Rushbone: "Dat 'pears to be a kinder skittish anemil, Mistah Watson, but I don't see no use starbin' de berry bones outen his hide."

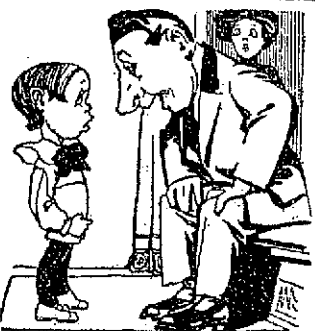

Mr. Watson (as the mule grows restless): "Yo' don't, don't yo'! Well, jes' look at dat, den. No goin' ober his head dar—"

An' de backward spring is jes' as good."

A NIGHTMARE.
She—Don't you think my hat is a dream?
He—Yes. But what did you eat the night before?

WISE CHILD.
Papa—Bobbie, what do you want for your birthday present?
Bobby—Get me a bank mamma can't take nickels out of with a halpin.

NOT A RISING YOUNG MAN.
His "get up" was magnificent; No chapple could outdo him. Yet when he stayed till one she said There was no get up to him.

MEN MUST USE CARE

When They Give Medicine to the Horse

In giving medicines by drench we should use care in selecting the vessel used for the purpose. Of course, one can secure a drenching horn which is by far the best but the expense and trouble can be saved by using a heavy glass bottle, no broken edges but smooth and strong, and to prevent trouble from breaking, the neck may be wound with a strip of cloth. The head should be elevated the same as in giving a ball. Don't try to make the horse swallow a quart at once for he can't do it and your time and medicine will be wasted. Rather allow it to run from the neck of the bottle, three or four ounces of the liquid, as far back on the tongue as possible. Allow the animal to swallow, and then repeat the dosage until the entire amount is given. Lower the head at once if you cause him to cough. Don't pull out the tongue, push, pinch or otherwise, maltreat the throat when giving the drench. It prevents rather than aids, and don't try to run a drench through the nose.

If you have occasion treat the lungs and air passages, you can do so by blowing powders into the nose though this is not often recommended.

Steaming may be done by inhaling, for instance, in Distemper, Severe cold and kindred ills. Scalded bran or hay or some remedy of a pungent nature is used to relieve and favor nasal discharge. Douches are used by veter-inaries but are not a success in the hands of the inexperienced. Applications to the skin must be used with care, for many of them if used upon a large portion of the body result in the death of the animal and only local applications should be made. The use of the hypodermic syringe must be left to the experienced surgeon.

Medicines can be given by the rectum to destroy worms, to stimulate action of the intestines to cause evacuation and to nourish the body. A veterinary syringe can be had for this purpose, varying in size from a few ounces to one holding two quarts, or one can easily be made by a common funnel to which about three feet rubber garden hose may be attached, syringe is complete. When using it the rubber hose end should be well oiled or lubricated and inserted about a foot into the rectum, elevating the funnel above the horse, pouring the desired enema into it. Gravitation will do the rest. A syringe of some sort should form part of every stable equipment. Suppositories are much used by veterinarians for allaying pain and irritation.

OFFICERS CHOSEN

By the Sunday School Convention

WASHINGTON, May 24.—When ex-Congressman Walter O. Hoffecker of Delaware rose last night for back in the great crowd that filled Convention hall, where last night's session of the World's Sunday school convention was held, and all by himself sang "Traveling Home," the audience applauded so long and so lustily that Mr. Hoffecker was compelled to go to the front, mount the platform and sing it again. This was during a song service led by Charles M. Alexander, the singing evangelist.

Officers of the association for the ensuing three years were elected last night as follows:

President, Dr. George W. Bailey, Philadelphia.

Joint general secretaries, the venerable archdeacon of London, Rev. Dr. J. Monaghan, Right Rev. Kinnaird, and W. H. Keser of Great Britain.

John W. Foster, ex-secretary of state; John W. Foster, ex-postmaster general; Revs. Dr. H. H. Bell and W. A. Wells of United States; Rev. E. I. Renford of Canada.

Joint secretaries, Marion Lawrence, for the United States, and Rev. Carey Bonner for England.

Statistical secretaries, Geo. Shipway for England, and Hugh Cork for the United States.

General treasurers, F. A. Wells, Chicago, for the United States, and Sir George White for England.

E. K. Warren of Three Oaks, Mich., a former president of the association, was made chairman of the executive committee.

Bishop Hartzell of Africa spoke on "The Moslem Peril in Africa," declaring that the Christian church has come to realize that in the conversion of Mohammedan world, the church faces the supreme crisis of its history.

It was essential, he said, that the children be taught in the Sunday school the need of further missionary work in Africa.

Rev. Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman spoke on some of the methods necessary in successful Sunday school work.

At the afternoon session there was "roll call of nations," delegates from all parts of the world speaking briefly of the work in their countries.

At one of the meetings Herman De Lagerantz, minister to the United States from Sweden, welcomed the delegates and expressed his sympathy with their work.

Dr. Carey Bonner of London, declared that the greatest field for Sunday school workers was to be found among boys between the ages of 12 and 14. Lads of that age were most difficult to hold to Sabbath devotion, he declared.

The race question has bobbed up frequently in committee meetings but the cooler heads succeeded in keeping it off the floor of the convention. A number of the delegates who come from outside the District of Columbia, criticized the local committee for its action. The fact is, however, the negroes were not directly barred from the floor of the convention. The District of Columbia Sunday School association, in picking its delegation, filled it with white men and women, claiming that the negro Sunday schools in the District of Columbia were not members of the association.

That action operated to keep the local negroes off the floor as delegates, although they were not refused admission to the sessions, but the feeling was intensified when the negro would-be delegates as spectators, saw seated delegates with credentials, negroes from West Indies, East Africa, and in several instances, negroes from states in the United States.

PRESIDENT TAFT

Got a Good Look at the Comet

WASHINGTON, May 24.—President Taft, in common with the rest of Washington's comet gazers, finally got a good look at Dr. Halley's wanderer last night. About 5.45 o'clock, the president was informed that the U. S. naval observatory had advised that the clouds were too heavy to permit of good "rubbernecking" at the comet. He left the White House for a ride in his motor car with Mrs. Taft, Charles P. Taft and Capt. Butt.

When they got to the front porch of the White House, an usher pointed out the comet. The comet did not look like much of a comet with the naked eye. But it encouraged the president.

"If I can see it from my front porch, I ought to see it at the observatory," he murmured. The chauffeur did the rest, and when the party reached the observatory they found all the government astronomers having a fine time observing the comet. President Taft was soon looking over the wanderer through the 26-inch equatorial telescope.

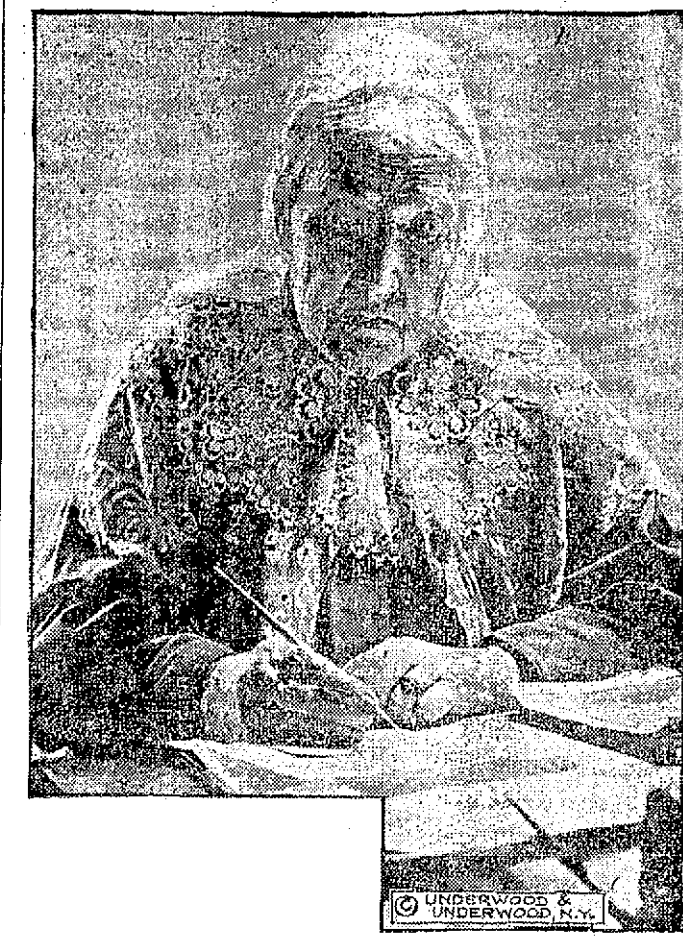

The party took turns at the big glass, and spent 30 minutes in the observatory. A few minutes before the moon's eclipse began at 10.15 o'clock, the president resumed his ride.

KING GEORGE'S MESSAGES

LONDON, May 24.—On the occasion of the anniversary of Empire day, King George has issued two gracious messages to the colonies and India, somewhat similar in style to the message which he addressed Saturday to the nation. In both he refers to his previous tours through the respective dominions, promises to follow in his father's footsteps, uphold his constitutional government, safeguard the liberties of the colonial empire and devote himself to the wellbeing of the Indian people.

With reference to the rumors that it is the intention of the queen mother, Alexandra, in the future to reside in Denmark, a court circular announces that Alexandra will always look upon England as her home.

BOSTON, May 24.—Julia Ward Howe will be ninety-one years old May 27. On that day a portrait of her by her son-in-law, John Elliott, will be hung in the New Art Museum. At her home, 241 Beacon street, Mrs. Howe talked for a time about the picture and herself. "This likeness is as I want to be known to my many friends whom I have not been able to see for some time," she said, "and I want it to be considered official."

SENATOR DEPEW

Says That War With Spain Was Unnecessary

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Voting down by 26 to 39 an amendment offered by Mr. Burton to authorize only one battleship instead of two, the senate yesterday passed the naval appropriation bill, which carries an appropriation of almost $134,000,000.

The debate was confined almost exclusively to the battleship question.

Two important amendments were adopted yesterday. One, offered by Senator Johnson, appropriates $45,000 for the purchase of torpedo boats "whose vitals are below the normal load line." The other, by Senator Jones, eliminates railroad, county and municipal bonds from the securities which may be deposited by contractors.

The naval increase for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1911, provided by the bill, is as follows:

Two first-class battleships, to cost not exceeding $6,000,000 each and when equipped with armor and armament about $12,500,000 each.

Two fleet collars to cost not exceeding a total of $2,500,000.

Six torpedo boat destroyers to cost not exceeding $750,000 each.

The house bill provided for only four submarines and no destroyers. The senate also added a provision that not more than one of the battleships shall be built by the same company.

The provision requiring that the battleships and fleet collars shall be built under the "eight-hour" law was retained by the senate.

During debate, Senator Depew said that popular demand forced the war with Spain on the country and that as favorable terms could have been obtained from Spain without war as were obtained with war.

"Does not the senator believe that but for the pressure of that time the president would have negotiated Spain off the American continent?" asked Mr. Hale.

"I do," responded the New York senator. "I know of my own knowledge that Spain was prepared to abandon Cuba and Porto Rico to prevent humiliation if she could be assured in advance of the acceptance of the proposition."

Mr. Depew also related some history concerning the Venezuelan episode of the second Cleveland administration.

"An intimate friend of mine who also was an intimate friend of Lord Salisbury said to me: 'I believe that on account of the ransom coming down from the Revolutionary war and accentuated by certain occurrences in the Civil war, America means to have a war with Great Britain at some time and I believe now is the best time, when America has no navy.'"

"The views of the prime minister were overruled by Queen Victoria, but if Lord Salisbury had had the powers possessed by some of the English prime ministers, the issue certainly would have been tried out."

The democrats voting for two battleships were: Clarke (Ark.), McEnery (La.), and Taylor.

The republicans voting for one battleship were: Bristol, Burton, Clapp, Crawford, Cummins, Dixon, Dooliver, Hale, La Follette and Page.

The administration railroad bill will come up again when the senate convenes today.

HIGHEST BIDDER

Gets Man's Interest in a Contingent Inheritance

BOSTON, May 24.—A man's interest in a contingent inheritance, estimated to be worth from $25,000 to $550,000, according to the number of other participants who may or may not survive the heir in question, was sold to the highest bidder for the sum of $225 by order of the court to satisfy a judgment of $500 in a local attorney's office last yesterday. It was the first instance of such a transaction in the commonwealth of Massachusetts.

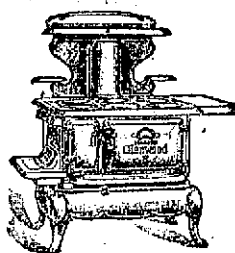

The judgment was secured against Franklin L. Fay, who, after his father's death will receive at least $25,000 from his grandfather's estate. He recently failed as a curb broker and the judgment was secured for money loaned.

Stephen R. Jones bid in the interest, it is understood, on behalf of members of the Fay family, which is an old and aristocratic one of Boston.

MATRIMONIAL

The marriage of Mr. Adelard Oscar Rivard and Miss Alice Rendou took place yesterday morning at St. Joseph's church, where a nuptial mass was celebrated by Rev. Fr. Baron, O. M. I. The young couple were attended by Mr. Pierre Rendou, the bride's father, and Mr. Arthur Rivard, brother of the bridegroom, as witnesses. Mr. Abraham Rendou, the bride's brother, was best man, and Miss Alice Paquin was bridesmaid. The bride wore white silk and the bridesmaid, white muslin with Valenciennes lace trimmings. After the wedding ceremony break-

FINE REDUCED

Because Man Made Restitution

BOSTON, May 24.—John Matherson, charged with embezzlement of $15.34 from the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, by which he was employed, was fined $40 yesterday by Judge Wait in the superior court.

In the Brighton court last year he was fined $75 and appealed. It was arranged that he should be fined $50 and time was given to him to get the money. He was in court yesterday and his case was called and Asst. Dist. Atty. Lavelle explained the situation to the court. He said the man had about $43 with him.

Clerk Manning asked Matherson how much money he had, and the defendant replied that he had $42.35. The judge then imposed a fine of $40, which the defendant paid, and the case was finally brought to a close. Full restitution had been made.

Florence Morrison, 25 years old, a shoplifter, was sentenced to the house of correction for four months. On her way to the detention room she fainted. She took about $50 worth of goods from different department stores during the Christmas season.

There were five counts of larceny against her. It was the first time she was arrested. She said she is married, but the police and the probation officers have been unable to ascertain her true address to verify her assertion as to her marriage.

LOST A LEG

YOUNG MAN FELL FROM A TRAIN

FITCHBURG, May 24.—Joseph Sweeney, 17 years old, fell off a west-bound freight train on the Boston & Maine railroad last night and his right leg was terribly crushed. His cries attracted people in the neighborhood of Kimball street to his assistance.

He was taken to the Burbank hospital, where the injured leg was amputated at the hip. Three fingers, which were badly mangled by the wheels of the cars, were also amputated.

Sweeney was stealing a ride, and crawling over the top of the cars lost his balance and fell. He lives in West Fitchburg.

KILPATRICK CHOSEN

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 24.—It was announced last night that John R. Kilpatrick, 1931 of New York city, has been elected a member of the Elihu club of Yale university.

Kilpatrick is prospective captain of the 1911 track team, and all-American football end. His failure to get an election on Tap Day to any of the three senior societies caused much comment.

NASHUA BRIDGE

IT IS TO BE A THIRTY-FOOT ONE

NASHUA, N. H., May 24.—The first meeting of the joint bridge committee of the town of Hudson and the city of Nashua since the special town meeting in Hudson was held at the city hall last evening. The plans and specifications made by the Fred T. Ley company of Springfield, Mass., were adopted with slight alterations.

A petition signed by 38 voters of Hudson requested that the bridge be 30 feet wide in the roadway instead of 25, that there be two sidewalks instead of one and that the electric car tracks be at one side instead of in the middle of the roadway.

After long discussion the committee voted to build a 30-foot bridge, no vote being taken on the placing of the car tracks. The matter of a second sidewalk was ignored entirely.

The committee will have the new plans and specifications on file this week and will advertise for bids to close June 5. The contract will be awarded and work will be commenced at once.

CHARITIES CONFERENCE

ST. LOUIS, May 24.—Freedom of contract between master and servant must be abridged, according to Paul C. Kellogg of New York, in an address last night before the National Conference of Charities and Correction.

"We must insure by law to American workmen," said Mr. Kellogg, "certain minimum standards of hours of labor and of rest, of safety, of health, of restitution, when the workman is killed or injured, or diseased through his work, and of current wages such as will sustain life amply."

BILLERICA

A hearing was given in the town hall last night upon the petition of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co. to erect poles on the following named thoroughfares: West Brook Hill road, from Mason's corner to Allen road, 18 poles; Allen road, from West Brook Hill road to residence of Mr. Tuttle, 17 poles; Pollard road, from residence of Mr. Chadwick to residence of Mr. Smith, three poles. Chairman Singh of the board of selectmen called the hearing from different department stores during the Christmas season.

There were five counts of larceny against her. It was the first time she was arrested. She said she is married, but the police and the probation officers have been unable to ascertain her true address to verify her assertion as to her marriage.

SETTLED WEATHER COMING

The predictions are for continued unsettled weather, however, cheer up for good weather is at hand. By and by one may forget that it always rains on wash-day, and that Saturday is likely to be a bad day for the shop people. The warm weather is right at hand. We remember a Memorial day some years ago, that was the warmest day of the year, and Memorial day is at hand. This leads up to the purpose of these few wisdom words. It is the opportune time to install the gas range in the kitchen. In these days when all try to live intelligently, to get what is in life out of life, to make the burdens fall as lightly as possible, it is really almost cruel to work in a hot kitchen made so unnecessarily by a wood or coal fire. Moreover every one must see at once that it is a great and needless waste of heat and heat costs money. A gas range at once meets the situation. A variety of styles and prices are shown at the Lowell Gas Light Appliance Store on John street.

STREET ELECTED

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 24.—At a meeting of the sophomore class of Yale university last night Henry A. Street of Pawtucket, R. I., was elected assistant manager of Yale boat club. The selection means that Street will become manager of the crew in his senior year.

THE WYMAN WILL

PRINCETON, N. J., May 24.—Copies of the will of Isaac C. Wyman of Salem, Mass., the bulk of whose estate was bequeathed to the graduate college of Princeton university, reached here yesterday. After reading a copy of the will and the formal notification of the bequest from the executors, President Woodrow Wilson said there was nothing to say by way of comment except to echo the general satisfaction that the university should have the benefit of so princely a gift.

Andrew C. Imbre, '95, financial secretary of the board of trustees of the university, said last night:

"While the amount of the bequest is not definitely known at the present time, it is undoubtedly the largest single benefaction that has ever come to the university. The friends of Princeton everywhere will rejoice at the prospect of a greater development which Mr. Wyman's generosity offers to the university."

DONALD MECK MONEY

Former Lowell Actor Had a Narrow Escape

BOSTON, May 24.—Donald Meck, formerly of the Academy of Music of Lowell, and George Hassell, members of the Castle Square Theatre stock company, were thrown from a phaeton yesterday afternoon and the horse they had been driving ran over two miles down the crowded streets until stopped by Patrolman Patrick J. McLaughlin of station 4.

When the horse came tearing along Tremont street the crowds rushed for the sidewalks with shouts of fright and warning. Patrolman McLaughlin, the crossing officer at Temple place, ran in to the middle of the street and sprang for the horse's bridle.

Pulling the head of the horse far to the side, McLaughlin threw all his weight against the animal's left side, and both man and horse fell heavily to the asphalted street. The horse struggled ferociously, and his heels narrowly missed the head of the policeman.

Spectators, including William Siegel, of 66 Pleasant street, ran up and held the horse securely. McLaughlin was severely shaken up and suffered minor injuries to his head and ankle.

Scores of people narrowly escaped being injured by the horse. Frightened at the corner of Columbus avenue and Tremont street, the animal kicked itself and ran along Chandler street to Clarendon, to Tremont, and along Tremont to Temple place. He crashed into the back of

Frank Pearson at Dover and Tremont streets, threw Pearson to the ground, knocked the horse over.

The horse was recently purchased by Mr. Meck. "Dan" was given his first try-out by his new owner yesterday.

On Columbus avenue a dray horse pushed his nose up against "Dan's" neck. "Dan" sprang forward at the touch, then stopped suddenly and threw out his heels. He caught the perch of the light phaeton with his hoofs and broke the shafts. With the sudden stop Meck and Hassell plunged head first over the dashboard and struck the ground.

Meck fell almost under the heels of the horse. As Hassell fell he reached out and grasped a rope hanging from the dray. The friction of the rope strands burned his palms almost to the bone. When Meck and Hassell scrambled to their feet, "Dan" was disappearing around the corner of Clarendon street. The actors brushed their clothes and refused the help of the crowd who rushed up. They had a soda. Hassell's hand was dressed and then Meck started to hunt for his horse.

At Castle Square and near the corner of Pleasant street, women narrowly escaped being struck by the horse. At the Pleasant street subway entrance the horse, with the broken shafts and harness dangling, rushed between two cars. When the horse was stopped, his hind shoes were gone and his legs were badly cut.

COLEMAN SENTENCE

Will be Used as Argument in Favor of Morse

BOSTON, May 24.—The question raised by George W. Coleman's sentence will be invoked, according to Walter E. Reid of Dorchester, a friend of Charles W. Morse, by the financier's counsel in seeking leave to file another writ of habeas corpus with the U. S. supreme court. Morse is serving a sentence of 15 years in the federal prison, Atlanta, Ga., and Reid has worked indefatigably to obtain a rehearing in the case, or pardon for his friend.

In the case of Coleman it was suggested that under section 3209 of the federal statutes he could not be sentenced to hard labor, so he was sent to jail at Greenfield, where hard labor is not a requirement, for a term of 15 years. Mr. Reid's counsel will now file a writ of habeas corpus in the case of Morse, who was committed under the same section to the prison at Atlanta, where hard labor is part of the punishment.

The supreme court has twice refused a writ of habeas corpus in the Morse case, but never upon the point which is now to be raised. Mr. Reid feels confident that if Morse can get his case reviewed by the highest court in the land he will regain his liberty. He says that owing to the absence on a European trip of Martin W. Littleton of New York, his associate counsel, ex-Gov. Hoke Smith of Georgia will take up the point raised in the Coleman case.

Mr. Reid, who visited Morse a month ago, says that he does not look well, but that he is in good spirits and has not lost hope. Morse's attorneys told Mr. Reid, he said, that they believe the banker innocent and a New York lawyer who was not connected with the case said that it was not only his opinion but that of other lawyers, that Morse "never had his day in court."

Mrs. Morse has thousands of petitions for executive clemency circulating in the country. Mr. Reid said that one Boston mail got 3800 names last week and another 1500.

STEAMERS COLLIDED

The Goodyear Was Struck Amidships, it is Reported

PORT HURON—Mich., May 24.—The big steel steamer Frank H. Goodyear, owned by Mitchell & Co., lies in forty fathoms of water in Lake Huron about 35 miles off Point Aux Barques and probably 18 persons met watery graves following a collision between that vessel and the steamer James B. Wood, another steel boat belonging to the Gilchrist fleet.

The collision occurred about six o'clock Monday morning in a heavy fog. When the two steamers came together the crew of the Goodyear which is reported to have been struck amidships had only time to seize life-preservers and only a few could jump overboard before the boat began to fill with water.

The cook had just sounded the second call for breakfast on the Goodyear when the crash came and many were in the messroom. All rushed on deck and then the boat began to sink. Some jumped into the water and managed to get out of reach of the boat which was fast filling.

Suddenly the Goodyear parted in the center and with a sound which could be heard above the whistling of the Wood, sank out of sight, carrying all but five down with her.

The bow of the Wood was badly stove in but she rested on her bulk-

Given in Superior Court at Today's Session

Court was obliged to suspend for a short time this morning as the result of two cases being out at the same time.

The jury in the case of Cunio vs. Boutwell, a Woburn case in which the ad damnum asked was $500, returned a verdict of $325 for the plaintiff.

Verdict Against City.

In the case of Josephine Nolet vs. City of Lowell, a judgment was ordered by agreement of counsel in the sum of $75 for the plaintiff. The plaintiff was riding in a carriage in Fremont street and in turning into Sixth street came across a steam roller which she alleged was not properly guarded and which started up, causing the horse to run away and injuring her. Farley and Tierney appeared for the plaintiff and the city solicitor for the defendant.

The case of Rose Blowers vs. James Smith went to trial this noon. This is an action of tort in the sum of $2000 in which the plaintiff claims damages in the result of injuries alleged to have been received as the result of a defective bulkhead on the premises of the defendant. Lawyer Tierney who appeared for the defendant requested that the case be held off for a short time to allow his client, who was out of town to arrive, but it was agreed that the case would not be closed without giving the defendant a chance to testify and the testimony was started.

A Small Verdict.

The jury in the case of Dodge Jr. vs. Douglass, a Wakefield case, to recover the amount of a grocery bill, returned a verdict of $8.21 for the plaintiff.

The Blowers vs. Smith case was on trial this afternoon.

MAYOR MEEHAN COMET AND MOON

Issues Statement in Reply to Both Were Obscured by the Clouds Last Night

Says Latter Had no Right to Sell City Property Without Turning Money Over to City Treasurer

In connection with the meeting of the committee on appropriations held last night and at which Solomon Mayberry, former superintendent of the charities department, appeared to explain alleged irregularities as to the sale of farm products and the disposition of the money received for same, during his administration, Mayor Meehan, today, gave a statement to the press in which he avers that Mr. Mayberry, by selling the products of the farm and failing to turn the money over to the city treasurer, ignored not only the city treasurer, but the chief of supplies and the mayor and that his act was contrary to the written instructions of the city solicitor. The mayor's statement:

"In going contrary to the written instructions of the city solicitor, Superintendent Mayberry showed that he was either ignorant in his construction of English, or was willing to assume the responsibility of violating the provisions of the charter. That was one reason for his removal.

"Under date of Dec. 8, 1909, City Solicitor Dineen in a written opinion informed Superintendent Mayberry that he could exchange products of the farm for other products, but that if he sold the products the money must be turned over to the city treasurer. To quote from the opinion:

"Under the authority of above statute, I am of the opinion that the superintendent may either sell said products and turn the proceeds over to the city treasurer, or if he deems best, exchange them for other materials, constantly or promptly in general as, in his opinion, can be profitably used in carrying on the business of the farm in a manner beneficial not only to the inmates, but also the city of Lowell."

"If anything could be plainer than the above, I would like to have it submitted. It seems to me that an opinion should not be necessary to define the rights of a department head in such a connection. Why, it is just as reasonable to think of a department head selling a piece of city property, taking the money and then buying another piece of property without going near the city treasurer's office.

"In his action, Mr. Mayberry ignored not only the city treasurer, but the chief of supplies and the mayor. He violated the conditions of his office, and the facts would have been made known at the time of his removal but for a desire to pass the matter over to his successor. I have in my desk bills from grocers that were paid by Mr. Mayberry when he made farm purchases. They are in black and white, and cannot be denied. I challenge the committee on appropriations or any individual to attempt to justify Mr. Mayberry's conduct in the matter of receiving money for city farm property without turning the same over to the city treasurer."

TAIL OF COMET

IS SAID TO BE FORTY DEGREES LONG

CHICAGO, May 24.—Forty degrees for the new born tail of the comet and a doubling of its luminosity owing to flaming hydro carbon gas, were recorded by the astronomers at Williams bay observatory last night after the spectrographic negatives had been developed. Prof. Frost, director of the observatory, announced the results of the computations.

"Four of us agree that the new tail of the comet is 40 degrees long," he said. "The tail was visible long after the head had set. The darkening of the sky by the eclipse of the moon helped greatly in the observations. Observations by the hand spectroscope showed carbon bands in the head of the comet. These were confirmed by the development of the negatives made with the 12 inch telescope. The internal activity of the comet is in full blast. It is making gas at a terrific rate."

Prof. Frost said he did not expect to see the old tail in the east this morning. "The old tail must disappear," he added. "When detached from its source it can only condense or fade away as the end of an active tail always does."

Fine weather for observations prevailed throughout most of the night at Williams bay, although it was cloudy and rainy in Chicago. During the total eclipse the moon presented the appearance of a dull red disc in the heavens. The comet was seen at the Yerkes observatory, was due to the red rays of the solar spectrum which had the property of bending inward,

MAYOR OF LAWRENCE

Wanted Governor Draper to Interfere in His Case

BOSTON, May 24.—Gov. Draper yesterday afternoon refused to interfere with the course of justice in the Essex county courts to secure a speedy trial for Mayor William P. White of Lawrence, under indictment for condemnation of bribery.

Mayor White visited the executive chambers late in the afternoon and eventually was taken into the governor's private room. He declared that the case against him was a "put up job" on the part of his political enemies, and that he was entitled to a trial immediately.

Gov. Draper listened to a recital of the circumstances leading up to the grand jury's action at Newburyport last week, after which he assured Mayor White that he could not help him in any way.

He told Mayor White that the courts of Essex county knew their own business better than he possibly could, and that they would have to assign a date for the mayor's trial just as they would assign dates for any other business that might come before them; and he made the point that whether or not they varied that course of procedure it would be entirely without any attempted interference on his part.

Mayor White declared that the courts and the governor owed it to his constituents to expedite matters, saying that the business of Lawrence is suffering while its mayor is under a cloud.

EDITOR BUPTON

WAS INJURED WHILE PASSENGER ON TRAIN

NEW YORK, May 24.—When the Colonial express of the New York, New Haven & Hartford road reached the Mott Haven yards early today it was stopped so that an ambulance surgeon could board it and dress cuts on the right hand of Frank E. Bupton, 33 years of age, an editor of Boston, who had thrust the member through a window of the sleeping car.

When the injury had been attended to, Bupton proceeded on to Washington. The accident occurred at Oak Point.

FELL DOWN STAIRS

Michael Lee, of Charles St., Met With a Fatal Accident

Michael J. Lee, aged 48 years, fell down a night of stairs at his home, 73 Charles street at 11:30 o'clock last night and met with injuries which resulted in his death at St. John's hospital at ten o'clock this morning. Dr. R. E. Bell, who examined the man at the hospital said that death was due to a fracture at the base of the skull.

The unfortunate man, who had been suffering with an affection of the heart for some time, was seized with an attack shortly after eleven o'clock last night and it is thought that while he was trying to make his way down stairs to the rooms of his family on the floor below, he was seized with the sudden shock which caused him to lose control of himself and fall down nearly the entire flight of stairs.

Inasmuch as the man had worked steadily every day and never showed a sign of illness other than that once in a while he complained of his heart, the fatal accident has greatly unnerved the members of his family.

Mr. Lee was about the house last night as usual and after reading the paper and conversing with the members of the household he retired for the night. He slept on the top floor of the house, while the other members of the family occupied sleeping rooms on the floor below. About 11:30 o'clock Mrs. Lee was awakened by a noise which sounded as though some person had fallen downstairs.

Mrs. Lee and her daughter, Anna, upon hearing the noise rushed to the hallway and found Mr. Lee lying on the floor. Dr. Edward Murphy was summoned and he attended the man and found that he was suffering from heart trouble, bruises about the head and body and was in a semi-conscious condition. Shortly before 6 o'clock this morning Mr. Lee's condition took a turn for the worse and the doctor advised that the man be taken to hospital.

The ambulance was summoned and Mr. Lee was taken to St. John's hospital where an examination showed that he was suffering from a fracture at the base of the skull.

Everything possible in the line of medical and surgical skill was brought to bear upon the man at the hospital but his condition gradually grew worse and he passed away at about ten o'clock.

Assistant Medical Examiner Robert E. Bell signed the death return "fracture of base of skull" after which the body was placed in the undertaking parlors of Undertakers Michael H. McDonough & Son and later to his home in Charles street.

The deceased was 48 years of age and a well known and highly respected resident of St. Peter's parish and was employed in the yard of the Appleton company. He leaves his wife, Mary, a wife, Mary A., and a daughter, Anna; three sisters, Mrs. Jane Hart, Mary Lee and Mrs. Michael Fox and a brother, Bernard, the latter of Boston.

He was a member of Court General Shields, Foresters of America.

Friends are requested not to send flowers.

THE COMET TONIGHT

Tonight the tail of Halley's comet may be visible for three hours and 40 minutes immediately following sunset.

The sun will set at 7.07 standard time.

The comet will set at 10.45 standard time.

The position of the comet will be in the west.

The weather bureau predicts unsettled weather for this evening.

Standard eastern time is 16 minutes slower than sun time in Boston.

OLD RESIDENT

MRS. JOHANNAH WALSH PASSED AWAY YESTERDAY

Mrs. Johannah Walsh, aged 60 years, and a resident of Lowell for 50 years, and a prominent member of the Sacred Heart parish since its establishment, died yesterday at her home, 5 Watson street. Her death had been expected for several days and she passed away thoroughly resigned and fortified with the last rites of the church of which she had been a faithful and devoted attendant throughout her life. She is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Michael Carey, and Misses Margaret, Catherine and Maria Walsh; three sons, Anthony, John and Michael Walsh; and one sister, Mrs. Catherine Moran.

A HORSESHOE VICTORY

Lowell Lost Game and Then Won It Back

Finlayson Played Eight Great Innings and Threw the Game Away in the Ninth—Ainsmith Cuts Up Monkeyshines and Disgusts the Spectators

Lowell won from Lawrence at Spalding park yesterday afternoon in a heart breaking finish, the home team having no license to pull off the victory, but getting it just the same.

Pitcher Finlayson of the visitors won the game himself and then threw it away. He held Lowell down well as to his, struck out 10 men and batted magnificently, bringing in most of the visitors' runs with a home run, a triple and a single. But in the ninth inning, with two out, Boudles on third and Fitzpatrick on first, Finlayson threw to third to get Boudles and made a bad aim, the ball going clear to the left field fence, both men scoring and tying it up. He then lost his nerve and the rest was easy.

There was one unfortunate and one disgusting feature of the game. While running as fast as they could go after a long hit by Cooney, Reynolds and Perrott ran into each other and both dropped to the ground unconscious, one on top of the other. They were out for several minutes and when they revived were too dazed to continue in the game. Reynolds was bruised over the eye, while Perrott received an injury to his leg. The accident might have been averted had anyone called to the fielders as to which should take the ball.

In the ninth inning Magee stole second base with the score tied and Ainsmith threw wild to second, allowing Magee to get third. To the surprise of all, Ainsmith ran over to Empire Lannigan and started to put up a howl about some alleged interference on the part of Finlayson, who was at bat. The outcome of it was that he was chased from the grounds. He started away, but came back and made a bluff attempt to assault the umpire, it taking several players to hold him. The crowd, particularly the ladies present, were disgusted at the rowdy actions of Ainsmith, for not only was there no occasion for them, but they came as an afterthought on the part of Ainsmith.

after he had accepted the umpire's penalty, an alibi started to leave the grounds. When he had been subdued, a new battery was put in and Fluharty singled to left, scoring Magee, and winning the game.

The game in detail:

First Inning

Lowell scored a run in the first inning while the visitors failed to send a man across the plate.

Miller was the first man up and he drew a base on balls. Catterson struck out and Miller went to second. Reynolds flied to Morse and Perrott flied to Jones.

In the latter half of the inning Fitz drew a base on balls and went to second on Vance's sacrifice. Cooney singled and Fitz scored. Cooney going to second on the throw home. Magee then drew a base on balls. Fluharty hit to Miller forcing Magee. Jones drew a base on balls filling the bases, but Hornell closed the inning by striking out.

Score—Lowell 1, Lawrence 0.

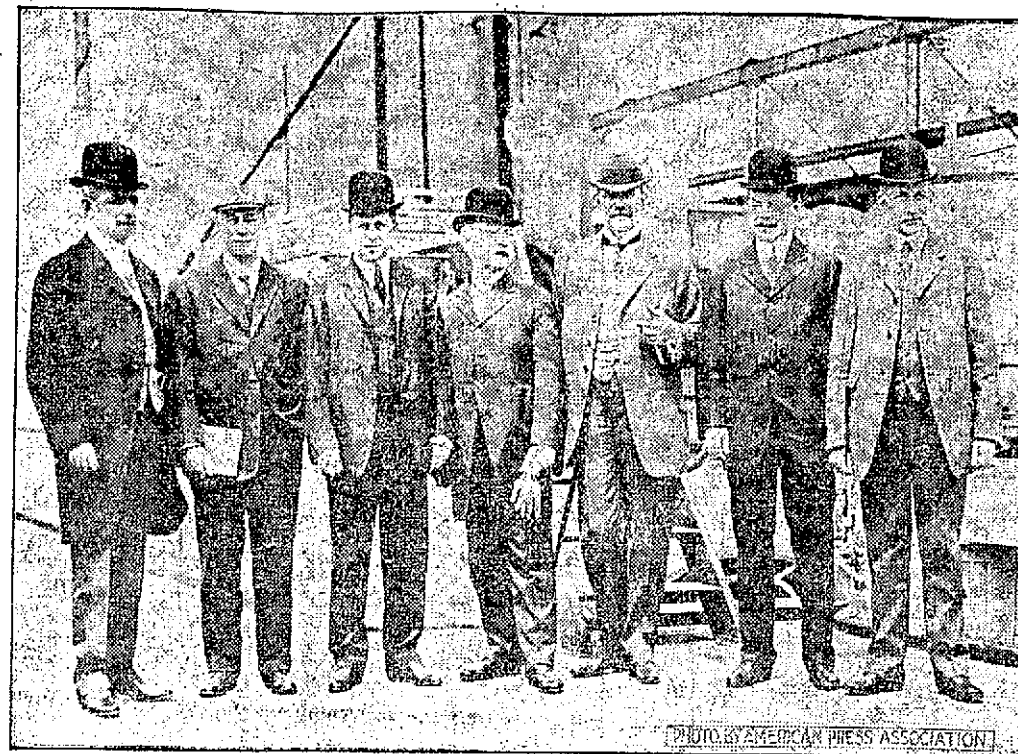

Second Inning

In the second inning Finlayson, the pitcher of the Lawrence team, cracked the ball out over the left fence for a home run, scoring three runs. Lowell was not so fortunate, however, and had to be contented with a goose egg.

Crisham opened the inning by hitting to Fitz and being retired at first. Kruger hit to Cooney, who stopped the ball but threw bad to first and Kruger went to second on the play. Noyes drew a base on balls and Ainsmith flied to Jones, Kruger going to third on the play. Finlayson sent the ball over the left field fence for a home run, scoring Kruger, Noyes and himself. Miller closed the inning by hitting to Vance and going out at first.

In Lowell's half Morse foul flied to

NEW YORK, May 24.—The seven members of the boundaries commission from the United States who are to appear before the permanent international court of arbitration at The Hague in an effort to settle the Newfoundland fishery dispute are on the high seas, planning their case, which will be opened the first week in June. United States Senator Root goes as special counsel. A number of persons who will act as legal aids to Mr. Root in his presentation of the American case were also on board, including Chandler Anderson, special agent for the United States; George Turner of the state of Washington, Samuel J. Elder of Boston, Charles B. Warren of Detroit, Robert

Lansing of Watertown, N. Y., and James Brown Scott, solicitor of the state department. Mr. Root said that, although no definite limits could be set, he expected the conference would end in about three months. Whether he would meet Colonel Roosevelt, he said, he did not know, but that if he did the arrangements would be made by wire-

Ainsmith, Wolfgang struck out and Fitz foul flied to Noyes.

Score—Lowell 1, Lawrence 3.

Third Inning

The visitors went out in quick order in the third inning. Catterson hit to Wolfgang and was out at first while Reynolds and Perrott struck out.

Lowell scored a run in the latter half of the inning as a result of two of the visiting fielders colliding with each other. Vance hit to Finlayson and was out at first. Cooney knocked a fly to deep left center field and Reynolds was found that both were in bad confusion. Reynolds having a bruise over the eye and they were retired from the game. Noyes going to center field and Capt. Bannan to left field. After the game was restarted, Magee foul flied to Noyes. Fluharty drew a base on balls and Jones closed the inning by striking out.

Score—Lowell 2, Lawrence 3.

Fourth Inning

In the fourth inning Crisham hit to Wolfgang and was out at first. Kruger hit to the center field fence for a three bagger. Noyes hit to Cooney and the latter threw Kruger out at the plate. Ainsmith hit to Morse and was out at first.

In Lowell's half Hornell drew a base on balls, but a few minutes later Ainsmith caught him napping off first and threw him out. Morse struck out, Wolfgang singled by short stop, but he failed to get beyond first for Fitzpatrick struck out.

Score—Lowell 2, Lawrence 3.

Fifth Inning

Finlayson, the home run hitter, sent the ball over Jones' head for a clean three bagger, but Jones threw bad to Magee and Finlayson scored. Miller hit to Cooney and was out at first. Catterson flied to Magee and Bannan drew a base on balls, but the latter was caught off first by Wolfgang.

Vance flied to Noyes. Cooney foul flied to Ainsmith and Magee flied to Bannan.

Score—Lowell 2, Lawrence 4.

Sixth Inning

Lawrence scored another in the sixth inning. Noyes hit to Wolfgang for a single and the latter threw bad to first and the runner went to third. Crisham hit to Vance and the latter held the ball a little too long in order to keep Myers on third and Crisham reached first. Crisham and Myers then worked a double steal, the latter scoring. Kruger and Noyes struck out and Ainsmith hit to Fitz and was out at first.

In the latter half of the inning Fluharty struck out. Jones followed with a single to center field, but Hornell hit to Bannan and the latter tagged Jones and then threw to first for a double play.

Score—Lowell 2, Lawrence 5.

Seventh Inning

Finlayson made his third hit in this inning, making a single to right field. He went to second on Miller's sacrifice. Catterson hit along the first base line and was second out and Bannan was third out on strikes.

Morse hit to Miller and was out at first and Wolfgang hit to Finlayson and was second out at first. Fitzpatrick singled to left field. Vance hit to Noyes forcing Fitz at second.

Score—Lowell 2, Lawrence 5.

Eighth Inning

Myers hit to Vance but Morse on first dropped the ball and the runner was safe. Crisham hit to Fitz who fumbled and the runner was safe at first while Myers went to third. Kruger hit to Wolfgang and was out at first. Noyes hit to Cooney and was out at first, but Myers scored by slick base running. Ainsmith hit to Vance and was out at first.

Cooney struck out. Magee foul flied to Ainsmith. Fluharty hit to Miller who fumbled and he got on first. Jones hit a fly to Myers who fumbled it and Finlayson scored, Jones going to second. Hornell hit to left field for two bases and Jones scored. Foy went to bat for Morse and striking at the first three balls was out.

Score—Lowell 4, Lawrence 6.

Ninth Inning

Finlayson hit to Vance and was out at first. Miller struck out. Catterson hit to center field for three bases. Bannan flied to Magee.

Boudles went to bat for Wolfgang and hit a grounder to Noyes which the latter could not handle and the runner reached first. Fitzpatrick hit to left field for a single, sending Boudles to third. Vance struck out. Finlayson threw to third to get Boudles and the ball went to the left field fence. Boudles scored. Cooney struck out.

Magee drew a base on balls. Magee stole second and a bad throw by Ainsmith sent him to third. Ainsmith kicked that Fluharty had interfered with his throw and the visiting catcher got to obstructerous that the umpire put him off the field. Ainsmith rushed back to the field to strike the umpire and it took three men to hold him and attempt to lead him from the grounds. The effort of the players to get the Lawrence catcher off the grounds were unavailing and Empire Lannigan said he would forfeit the game to the Lowell team if Ainsmith did not leave the grounds. Ainsmith was led from the grounds much against his will and Grant took his place behind the bat while Trainer took Finlayson's place. Fluharty got a single, scoring Magee.

DIAMOND NOTES

At Lawrence today.

Ordway and Morse were released last night while Hornell goes back to Providence.

John Smith announced yesterday that he has signed Sam Stovell, the Lynn outfielder.

Blakeley, the Brooklyn outfielder, and Cy McDonald of Washington are on the way, while Delaney, a catcher from Jamaica Plain, will catch at the game in Lawrence today.

The uncertainty of base ball was never better demonstrated than by the playing of Finlayson, the Lawrence pitcher. Fin had the game won himself and then threw it away. After striking out 10 men and making a homer, a triple and a single, he made a bad throw in the ninth that tied the score.

Talk about Lowell having a tough team for coaching, how about Lawrence allowing Reynolds and Perrott to almost kill each other in a head-on collision because nobody yelled to them as to who should take the ball?

Ainsmith should hold out his hand and let the teacher slap him on the wrist, or else be put to bed without his supper for his baby forehead toward the close of yesterday's game. After making the toughest kind of a throw to second he looked around for an excuse and finding nothing else for a kick got after Empire Lannigan claiming that Fluharty, who was at bat interfered with him, which was by no means the case. Then Ainsmith turned his attention to Lannigan personally with the inevitable result: "Get off o' de grounds!" came the dust fumes of "the kid." Ainsmith picked up his mask and walked away as noisily as a spanked kid, but upon arriving at the bench he heard the sympathetic words of some Lawrence rooters of both sexes whereupon he saw a chance to be a hero and throwing down his protector made a much better for Lannigan like an enraged manquin. Finlayson grabbed him to restrain him, but he threw him over his head and then several players hauled him struggling to the bench. "Get off o' there or the game is off," said Lannigan, the immovable one. Ainsmith then tried on every coat and sweater on the bench and appeared about to go up in the grand stand and try on the spectators' outer garments when Bannan chased him to the dressing room. After the game a cop suggested that he would escort Lannigan to the car. "Don't mind me, brother," said Lannigan, "look after him." The game is over now and I'm plain Lannigan with a bit of a wallop. Where is that kid? The crowd fingered around but Ainsmith was under cover until Lannigan had taken the car.

We still maintain that "The Pint" Mr. Lannigan, has "The Half Pint," Mr. Byrne, beaten several gits as an umpire. In fact Lannigan gives the best measure of any of them.

"Oom Paul" Kruger, the Lawrence short stop, can koppe the ball in fine style.

Finlayson and Cooney will smoke "Ball" Durham for the next few days. Cooney's was a phoney home run but it's the only way to score it.

Catcher Stone has been released.

We're in the first division for a few moments.

All scores by innings hot off the wire at Duffy's, 17 Market street. Full tick-or service.

The Haverhill Gazette baseball writer saw several things at the game in Lowell on Thursday as witness the following: "Perhaps Byrne wasn't off on balls and strikes. Mike told him a few things on one occasion and he remembered. Byrne came back with the retort, 'Well, I've got to die some time and you might as well kill me as anyone.' The little 'ump' is no favorite in the Lowell dregs, and he got no sympathy from either club. Manager Fleming told him what he thought of him in the ninth and was given the high sign to retire. He came back but was again chased and sat on the end of the third base bleachers where he could direct the playing of his club."

Larry Temple is the highest priced pitcher in the New England league, but he got his bumps good and proper, at Ocean Park, in the game against New Bedford, Friday afternoon. He comes out of the middle west, having been spotted two years ago by a scout in the employ of the New York Giants, where he was working with Rube Marquard, also a star artist. McGraw was induced to part with $11,000 for Marquard, while the New York manager gave up at the same time, $4000 for Temple. The former pitcher is still working for the Giants, although he has not done anything as yet to set the base ball world on fire. Temple was tried out several times by McGraw, but was found wanting, so Muggs decided to send Larry to the woods, where he could get a little more practice. He is believed to have something on the ball if given opportunity enough to work, which will be given him by Manager Dowd. Temple's backstop on the Giants was Myers, the Indian, and they were known as the dark skin battery, because of their complexions. Temple, however, is not an Indian, except when the umps give him the raw on balls and strikes—Lynn item.

HETTY GREEN ANGRY

Because the Jury Rendered Verdict Against Her

NEW YORK, May 24.—"Cat fits" and "blackmail" were terms used yesterday on the stand by Mrs. Hetty Green to characterize the efforts of the Safety Deposit company of 149 Broadway to recover $500 rentals from her. But the jury in the case, which was tried before Judge O'Dwyer in the city court, found against Mrs. Green after 12 minutes' deliberation, and she expressed her indignation in no uncertain terms.

"Outrage! Outrage!" she cried when the foreman announced that she had lost the suit. "Isn't there any justice for a woman who has money?"

The clerk of the court rapped sharply for order, and Mrs. Green's attorney, Lewis Doyle, appealed to her to be calm, but the woman financier continued to express her feelings in no uncertain terms. The clerk again rapped for order, and she finally subsided.

Mrs. Green had said before the jury went out: "Juries have always been good to me. I have never lost a case," but half an hour later the "richest woman in the world" had lost her first suit.

Suit for Box Rent

The action was for the use of safe deposit boxes for a period of 10 years each. The original amount of the action was $550, but $19.25 was added for interest. Mrs. Green contended that she had not engaged the boxes after selling the amount due for their rental up to a time previous to the 10 years involved, but the safe deposit company alleged that she had entered into some agreement to continue their rental.

William A. Mitchell, president of the company, testified that, on Dec. 1, 1903, Mrs. Green called at the company's offices with Edward R. Kausel, auditor of the Chemical National bank, and gave him a check for $600 for rent already due. He asserted further that she had agreed to rent the boxes for a further period and that a memorandum had been made to that effect. The boxes contained papers relating to Mrs. Green's father, Edward Mott Robinson, who died in 1865.

Mr. Mitchell denied that he had ever tried to have Mrs. Green make her headquarters in the company's offices, but admitted that she had been charged loss for the use of the boxes at the usual rate. He explained this by saying that she was a good customer and he wished to retain her patronage.

Mrs. Green was emphatic when called as a witness. She brought two umbrellas and a maid to court and was dressed from head to foot in black, a veil doing duty as a hat. She carried a black bag and wore black gloves.

Says Boxes Were Stolen

When called to the stand she spoke in a very low tone, but very rapidly. "Those boxes were stolen out of my father's estate years ago," began the defendant.

"Father died 45 years ago, and I did it for my son, who is running a railroad and cannot be here. This is the third blackmailing suit that I've had. I was paying for my father's estate, of which my son, Edward H. Green, is the sole surviving trustee and my daughter is the executrix."

"Then you never agreed to pay any amount personally for the storage of the boxes?"

"No, I didn't," declared Mrs. Green, vigorously. "I wouldn't want to pay storage 45 years on a lot of things stolen out of my father's estate."

"They don't belong to me, according to God they do not belong to me," she declared. "According to law they belong to my son as trustee. I paid $2500 for the writing of the books, though."

"There has been a great deal of litigation over your father's estate, has there not?" asked Lawyer Doyle.

"Yes, there has," replied Mrs. Green.

"They tried to steal my share in Chicago."

"Judge," said Mrs. Green, "they're trying to frighten me, but I won't let them. It would have been easier for me to pay the bill than to engage a lawyer. The expense that I have been put to will be double that which I would have been compelled to pay, but if I let this go there would be a lot more of the same thing."

The jury then took the case under consideration and returned their verdict in 12 minutes.

GIRLS CAPTURED

Escaped From George Junior Republic

ITHACA, May 24.—Two girls, citizens of the George Junior Republic at Freeville, successfully broke away from jail at midnight Sunday night and were on their way west when caught by the Ithaca chief of police. The girls are Florence Dougherty of Pittsburgh and Carrie Hazely of Interlaken. Both are about 18 years of age and good looking.

They had been sent to jail after a hearing before the reputable judge and convicted of misconduct. Confinement was irksome, however, and the Dougherty girl suggested the plan to escape. She engineered the deal, managing to get hold of $5 in real money; though the republic has its own currency, which is worthless outside.

About midnight the girls crawled through a narrow window out on the roof of the second story. There they found escape cut off, but a nearby pole proved their salvation. Without hesitation, both slid down this pole, though their hands were hurt in the descent. In order to get away without any prospecting too close to the republic walls, they had to wade through a swamp.

They stopped on the other side to put on dry stockings and the Dougherty girl found that her shoes had shrunk so that she could not put them on. She slid her feet into them as fast as they could go and walked the 14 miles to Ithaca. Arriving early yesterday morning, they bought tickets for Trumansburg, but alarmed at the attention they attracted at the station,

RAPID CURES OF ECZEMA

All Skin Troubles Yield Readily to This New Healing Agent

In stopping the itching attending eczema, or itching skin disease, with first application, poslam, the new skin remedy, at once eases all physical distress and proves its wonderful healing properties. It is safe to say that poslam has cured more skin diseases than any remedy ever offered for these ills. The very worst cases of eczema, as well as acne, psoriasis, herpes, tetter, piles, salt rheum, rash, crusted humors, scaly scalp and every form of itch yield to it readily. Blemishes, such as pimples, red noses, muddy and inflamed skin disappear almost immediately when poslam is applied, the complexion being cleared over night.

Every druggist keeps both the 50-cent size (for minor troubles) and the $2 jar, and either of these may be obtained at Falls & Durkin's, Carter & Sherburne's, and the Riker-Jaynes Drug Co.'s, as well as all other reliable drug stores.

But no one is even asked to purchase poslam without first obtaining a sample package, which will be sent by mail, free of charge, upon request, by the Emergency Laboratories, No. 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York City.

started to walk to Willow Creek, a distance of seven miles, where they planned to take a train.

DIVORCED WOMAN

Is Again Made a Lawful Wife

BROCKTON, May 24.—By a motion filed and granted in the Plymouth county superior court here yesterday, Judge William B. Stevens presiding, Lena M. Kennedy Marsh of Montello street, this city, is again made a lawful wife of the late George Lawrence Marsh. Marsh is employed as a traveling salesman and his home is in this city.

The case is most unusual in the history of Plymouth county. Mrs. Marsh was granted a divorce November 9, 1908. She was divorced absolutely on May 9 last, if objections had not been filed in superior court by Attorney Richard W. Nutter.

The latter, acting under appointment by Judge Lawton as special attorney, investigated certain claims made by Charles Laure of El Paso, Tex., where Mrs. Marsh is alleged to have resided at one time.

He sent a communication to Clerk Edward E. Hobart, in which he set forth certain alleged actions of Mrs. Marsh when Laure knew her in Texas. Mrs. Marsh was known in Texas as "the mystery girl," according to Laure. In having the libel dismissed and the decree vacated, the charges made by Laure will not be heard in court.

DALMORE'S VOICE

Brings Him the Sum of $200,000

BERLIN, May 24.—Andreas Dippel, who is returning to the United States after a brief visit in Berlin, has just signed a remarkable contract with Charles Dalmore whereby the French tenor will receive the record sum of $200,000 for the period of a four years' engagement at the Metropolitan, New York, and the allied opera houses of Boston, Chicago and Philadelphia.

It is stated that the consummation of this contract nullifies the indemnity of $25,000 which Dalmore was required to pay the Metropolitan as a result of his last legal action against the management.

Dippel came to Europe this time primarily to see his wife, who was ill at Nice. He returns for his annual European hunt for talent and new operas some time next month.

Dalmore's salary at the Manhattan was $6000 a performance. Last season he sang at least 60 performances and the amount he made, therefore, was $36,000. As his new contract is probably arranged on a basis of 40 performances, if the amount named is the correct one, his new salary must be estimated as more than double that of his old one, or $1500 a performance. This is a larger amount than any tenor receives in America, with the exception of Caruso.

"JIM" JEFFRIES

Will Take Things Easy This Week

BEN LOMOND, Cal., May 24.—Jim Jeffries says he intends to take things easy this week. Road work accompanied by sprinting will be kept up regularly but it is thought likely that he will have to discontinue with the gloves until Jim Corbett arrives next week. The report that Corbett will not have his quarters at the camp here is denied by Jeffries' training companions. It is said that accommodations are now being prepared for him and that there is no likelihood of friction between Corbett and any other member of the camp. News from the city that Jack Johnson may be a spectator at Jeffries' boxing tournament in San Francisco next Friday night has stirred up considerable interest here, but the camp is not inclined to take Johnson's reported intention seriously. All, however, were anxious for the negro to be on hand. They assert that it would have a discouraging effect on Johnson for to see how fast the former champion is in his work.

Johnson is greatly pleased by the weight-reducing results of his daily roadwork and he says he intends to stick to that form of exercise. CORBETT AND CHOYNSKI

CHICAGO, May 24.—Jim Corbett, former heavyweight champion, is staying here a couple of days on his way to California to help condition James

J. Jeffries for his fight with Jack Johnson. Asked concerning his old time feud with Joe Choynski, Corbett laughed and said: "No, I don't suppose we could be called friends for we've been enemies practically since we were boys but it should prove no obstacle to our mutual efforts to help Jeff. I've forgotten any hard feelings I ever had and I hope Joe has. This is too big a thing for petty bickering to enter into the plans. I will greet Joe just as cordially as I would if we never had any differences."

BOMB EXPLODEDIt Was Thrown From
Subway Train

NEW YORK, May 24.—The explosion of a bomb thrown from a train on a subway system as the train was passing through the surface yards of the road on the edge of the Harlem ship canal today seriously injured a watchman, broke the hawsers of a wrecking tug in the canal and set her adrift and created a panic among the tenants of a big apartment house nearby. The police are trying to find out if labor troubles had anything to do with the outrage. The missile is believed to have been hurled from an open rear window of a train where the thrower had no difficulty in escaping detection. Construction work by a Pennsylvania company is progressing in the subway yards and about 75 men are working there on the "open shop" system. Little damage was done to the company's property in the yards.

GRAND PROCESSIONIN HONOR OF FETE DIEU NEXT SUNDAY

A grand Fete Dieu procession in honor of the feast of Corpus Christi will be held in the open next Sunday in the vicinity of St. Jean Baptiste church, a beautiful feature of which will be the dissolving view of the Blessed Sacrament as it is carried through the streets. A group of 52 tiny girls from St. Joseph's convent will precede the host, carrying baskets of flowers. The girls scattering the flowers will walk backwards before the host, while another group will walk behind and gather up the flowers, exchanging places with the others as their baskets become empty, thus making the supply of flowers inexhaustible. Other groups of girls will also appear in the procession, some carrying the gold chalice on a white satin cushion, and others holding white ribbons. Besides these, the whole school will form a cortege to the host, all of the little girls wearing white.

PRESENTED PURSEGRANITEVILLE PARISHIONERS
SURPRISE FR. McNAMARA

Rev. John J. McNamara, curate at St. John's, North Chelmsford and St. Catherine's, Graniteville, preached his farewell sermon at the latter church on Sunday morning.

At the conclusion of the mass J. A. Healy, sexton of the church, stepped forward and in behalf of the members of St. Catherine's parish presented Rev. Fr. McNamara a substantial purse of money. This act was a great surprise to Fr. McNamara and he was visibly affected. When he could find words to speak he said: "I have met with many surprises during the past few days but this is the climax. Words are but feeble to thank you for your kindness to me." After asking the congregation if they would kindly say a little prayer for his intention he bestowed his blessing upon the congregation.

After mass a long line of people filed into the vestry of the church to shake hands with Fr. McNamara, and extend their best wishes for his success in his new parish.

SUMMER HOTELTHE OLD MERCIER HOTEL AT THE ENTRANCE TO WILLOW DALE IN FLAMES*At Lakeview Laid in Ashes in Fierce Midnight Blaze

The large wooden building at the entrance to Willow Dale, which was commonly known as Mercier's hotel, was totally destroyed by fire last night and all that now remains to mark the site of the hotel is a mass of charred embers.

A little one-story building, close by, was also destroyed by fire.

It is thought that the fire was of incendiary origin, but owing to the fact that the whole structure was ablaze when discovered it will be difficult to tell where the fire had its origin until it is investigated by the state police.

The fire was discovered shortly after 11:30 o'clock and an alarm was raised which brought residents of Dracut to the scene and later a special electric car containing Supt. Farrington and a number of the employees of the Boston & Northern Street Railway Co. was on the scene.

The blaze illuminated the sky in such a manner that people in this city were led to believe that there was a monster conflagration either in the Navy Yard or Collinsville. As it is difficult to tell the exact distance away that a blaze is when visible to the eye, scores of people thinking that the mills in the Navy Yard.

Shortly after the discovery of the fire word was telephoned to Merrimack square and fearing that the fire might spread to Lakeview and destroy that property, a special car brought a gang of railway men to the scene, but the fire was practically over when they arrived. They looked after the company's property.

By 12:15 o'clock this morning there was nothing left of the building but a mass of ruins. Little or no attempt was made to save the building, and those present were kept well away from the fire by the fact that the poles of the electric railway, and the trolley wire itself, were ablaze and threatened to fall at any moment.

The loss is roughly estimated between $2000 and $3000, the insurance on the hotel and furniture being carried through the agency of Fred C. Church. The building was three stories high and contained about 20 sleeping rooms while on the first floor was a large public apartment and several small rooms.

The hotel was owned by John P. Nolan and was erected in 1900 by Joseph Morde and occupied by him, later by Arthur Nolin and then Joseph Gagnon. It was recently leased by Charles Murray, of the Navy Yard, who intended using it as a hotel this summer. There was no one in the hotel at the time the fire started.

CHOIR FESTIVALHas Raised Goodly Sum
for Playgrounds

The receipts of the two nights of the choir festival in aid of public playgrounds in this city will amount to over $650 according to a report made by the committee in charge. A meeting of the committee was held yesterday afternoon and though all of the money has not as yet been turned in, the committee is assured that the receipts will be more than $650.

Besides the receipts of the festival available the College club by its own efforts has raised $200 for the same purpose, making a total of about $1000 for providing additional supervision and equipment for the playgrounds.

The park commission has already made provision for men supervisors, therefore it is thought that the greater part of the fund raised by the committee in charge of the festival will be used to provide equipment.

LICENSE BOARDFOR THE CITY OF RUTLAND NAMED

RUTLAND, Vt., May 24.—After many weeks of waiting and after mandamus proceedings had been brought against Assistant County Judges F. M. Plumley and H. M. Redfield of Hubbardston, these two officials got together yesterday afternoon and agreed upon a liquor license commission for the city of Rutland, as follows: Frank H. Chapman, republican; Wm. F. Burditt, republican, and James A. Lillis, democrat. Plumley named Burditt and Redfield named Chapman. Then the former suggested Lillis, and after an hour's debate Judge Redfield acquiesced and the commission was named.

are meeting with general favor. The mandamus proceedings against the assistant judges will be dropped. Under the law the commission should have been appointed not later than March 17th.

Roth Judge Plumley and Judge Redfield are candidates for re-election, both claiming that the public should support them in view of the stand each has taken relative to the appointment of license commissioners. Frank Allen of Fair Haven is also a candidate.

TO BE ARBITRATED
HOLYOKE, May 24.—With only ten of the 170 members present the Holyoke Street Railways Employees' Union voted today after four hours' deliberation to accept the proposition of the Holyoke Street Railway Co. MEN MUST USE CARE

When They Give Medicine to the Horse

In giving medicines by drench we should use care in selecting the vessel used for the purpose. Of course, one can secure a drenching horn which is by far the best but the expense and trouble can be saved by using a heavy glass bottle, no broken edges but smooth and strong, and to prevent trouble from breaking, the neck may be wound with a strip of cloth. The head should be elevated the same as in giving a ball. Don't try to make the horse swallow a quart at once for he can't do it and your time and medicine will be wasted. Rather allow it to run from the neck of the bottle, three or four ounces of the liquid, as far back on the tongue as possible. Allow the animal to swallow, and then repeat the dosage until the entire amount is given. Lower the head at once if you cause him to cough. Don't pull out the tongue, push, pinch or otherwise maltreat the throat when the head is down. It prevents rather than aids, and don't try to run a drench through the nose.

If you have occasion treat the lungs and air passages, you can do so by blowing powders into the nose through this is not often recommended.

Steaming may be done by inhaling, for instance, in Distemper, Sore throat and kindred ills. Scalded horn or hay or some remedy of a pungent nature is used to relieve and favor nasal discharge. Douches are used by veter-inaries but are not a success in the hands of the inexperienced. Applications to the skin must be used with care, for many of them if used upon a large portion of the body result in the death of the animal and only local applications should be made. The use of the hypodermic syringe must be left to the experienced surgeon.

Medicines can be given by the rectum to destroy worms, to stimulate action of the intestines, to cause evacuation and to nourish the body. A veterinary syringe can be had for this purpose, varying in size from a few ounces to one holding two quarts, or one can easily be made by a common funnel to which about three feet rubber garden hose may be attached, smoothing off one end and your syringe is complete. When using it the rubber hose end should be well oiled or lubricated and inserted about a foot into the rectum, elevating the funnel above the horse, pouring the desired amount into it. Gravitation will do the rest. A syringe of some sort should form part of every stable equipment. Suppositories are much used by veterinaries for allaying pain and irritation.

OFFICERS CHOSEN

By the Sunday School Convention

WASHINGTON, May 24.—When ex-Congressman Walter O. Hoeffcker of Delaware rose last night for back in the great crowd that filled Convention hall, where last night's session of the World's Sunday school convention was held, and all by himself sang "Traveling Home, Led by Jesus I am Traveling Home," the audience applauded so long and so lustily that Mr. Hoeffcker was compelled to go to the front, mount the platform and sing it again. This was during a song service led by Charles M. Alexander, the singing evangelist.

Officers of the association for the ensuing three years were elected last night as follows:

President, Dr. George W. Bailey, Philadelphia.

Vice-presidents, Sir John Kirk, England; Justice J. J. MacLaren, Canada; Bishop J. C. Hartzell, Africa.

Honorary vice-presidents, the venerable archbishop of London, Rev. Dr. J. Monaghan, Right Rev. the Cardinal, and W. H. Keiser of Great Britain; John W. Foster, ex-secretary of state; John W. Wainwright, ex-postmaster general; Revs. Dr. H. H. Bell and W. A. Wilson of United States; Rev. E. I. Rexford of Canada.

Statistical secretaries, Geo. Shipway for England, and Hugh Cork for the United States.

Joint general treasurers, F. A. Wells, Chicago, for the United States, and Sir George White for England.

E. K. Warren of Three Oaks, Mich., a former president of the association, was made chairman of the executive committee.

Bishop Hartzell of Africa spoke on "The Christian Church's duty in the world," and declared that the church has come to realize that in the conversion of Mohammedan world, the church faces the supreme crisis of its history.

It was essential, he said, that the children be taught in the Sunday school the need of further missionary work in Africa.

Rev. Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman spoke on some of the methods necessary in successful Sunday school work.

At the afternoon session there was "roll call of nations," delegates from all parts of the world speaking briefly of the work in their countries.

At one of the meetings Herman De Lagercrantz, minister to the United States from Sweden, welcomed the delegates and expressed his sympathy with their work.

Dr. Carey Bonner of London, declared that the greatest field for Sunday school workers was to be found among boys between the ages of 12 and 14. Lads of that age were most difficult to hold to Sabbath devotion, he declared.

The race question has bobbed up frequently in committee meetings but the cooler heads succeeded in keeping it off the floor of the convention. A number of the delegates who come from outside the District of Columbia, criticized the local committee for its action.

The fact is, however, the negroes were not directly barred from the floor of the convention. The District of Columbia Sunday School association, in picking its delegation, filed it with white men and women, claiming that the negro Sunday schools in the District of Columbia were not members of the association.

That action operated to keep the local negroes off the floor as delegates, although they were not refused admission to the sessions, but the feeling was intensified when the negro would-be delegates as spectators, saw seated with credentials, negroes from the West Indies, East Africa, and in several instances, negroes from states in the United States.

PRESIDENT TAFT

Got a Good Look at the Comet

WASHINGTON, May 24.—President Taft, in common with the rest of Washington's comet gazers, finally got a good look at Dr. Halley's wanderer last night. About 8:45 o'clock, the president was informed that the U. S. naval observatory had advised that the clouds were too heavy to permit of good "rubbernecking" at the comet. He left the White House for a ride in his motor car with Mrs. Taft, Charles P. Taft and Capt. Butt.

When they got to the front porch of the White House, an usher pointed out the comet. The comet did not look like much of a comet with the naked eye. But it encouraged the president.

"If I can see it from my front porch, I ought to see it at the observatory," he murmured. The chauffeur did the rest, and when the party reached the observatory they found all the government astronomers having a fine time observing the comet. President Taft was soon looking over the wanderer through the 26-inch equatorial telescope.

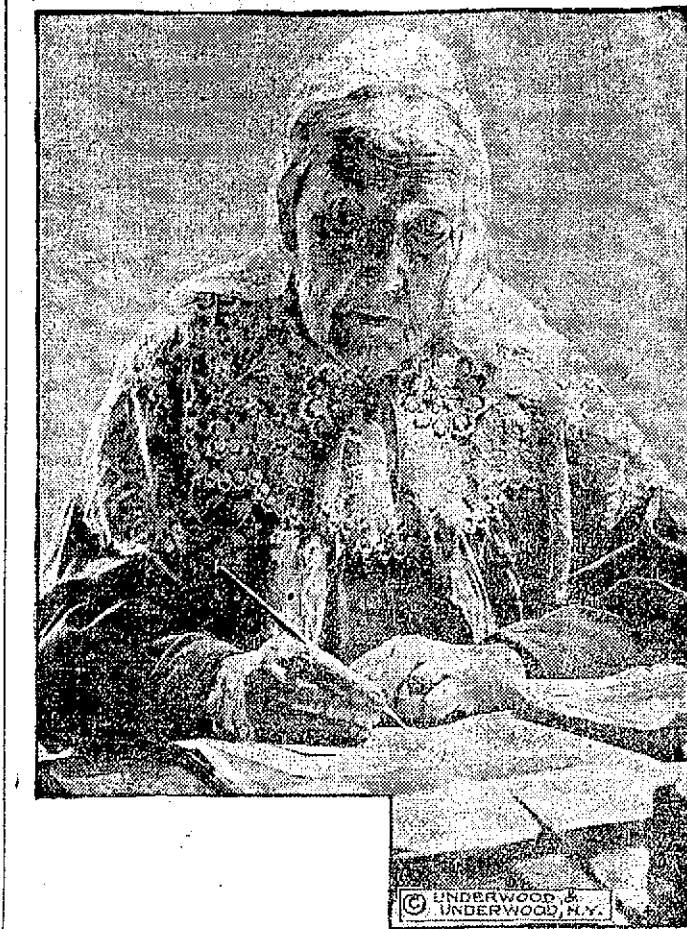

The party took turns at the big glass, and spent 60 minutes in the observatory. A few minutes before the moon's eclipse began at 10:15 o'clock, the president resumed his ride.

KING GEORGE'S MESSAGES

LONDON, May 24.—On the occasion of the anniversary of Empire day, King George has issued two gracious messages to the colonies and India, somewhat similar in style to the message which he addressed Saturday to the nation. In both he refers to his previous tours through the respective dominions, promises to follow in his father's footsteps, upholds constitutional government, safeguard the liberties of the colonial empire and devote himself to the wellbeing of the Indian people.

With reference to the rumors that it is the intention of the queen mother, Alexandra, in the future to reside in Denmark, a court circular announces that Alexandra will always look upon England as her home.

BOSTON, May 24.—Julia Ward Howe will be ninety-one years old May 27. On that day a portrait of her by her son-in-law, John Elliott, will be hung in the New Art Museum. At her home, 241 Beacon street, Mrs. Howe talked for a time about the picture and herself. "This likeness is as I want to be known to my many friends whom I have not been able to see for some time," she said, "and I want it to be considered official."

SENATOR DEPEW

Says That War With Spain Was Unnecessary

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Voting down by 26 to 39 an amendment offered by Mr. Burton to authorize only one new battleship instead of two, the senate yesterday passed the naval appropriation bill, which carries an appropriation of almost $134,000,000.

The debate was confined almost exclusively to the battleship question. Two important amendments were adopted yesterday. One, offered by Senator Johnson, appropriates $450,000 for the purchase of torpedo boats "whose vitals are below the normal load line." The other, by Senator Jones, eliminates railroad, county and municipal bonds from the securities which may be deposited by contractors.

The naval increase for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1911, provided by the bill, is as follows:

Two first-class battleships, to cost not exceeding $6,000,000 each and when equipped with armor and armament, about $12,500,000 each.

Two fleet colliders to cost not exceeding a total of $2,500,000.

Six torpedo boat destroyers to cost not exceeding $750,000 each.

The house bill provided for only four submarines and no destroyers. The senate also added a provision that not more than one of the battleships shall be built by the same company.

The provision requiring that the battleships and fleet colliders shall be built under the "eight-hour" law was retained by the senate.

During debate, Senator Depew said that popular demand forced the war with Spain on the country and that as favorable terms could have been obtained from Spain without war as were obtained with war.

"Does not the senator believe that but for the pressure of that time the president would have negotiated Spain off the American continent?" asked Mr. Hale.

"I do," responded the New York senator. "I know of my own knowledge that Spain was prepared to abandon Cuba and Porto Rico to prevent humiliation if she could be assured in advance of the acceptance of the proposition."

Mr. Depew also related some history concerning the Venezuelan episode of the second Cleveland administration.

"An intimate friend of mine who also was an intimate friend of Lord Salisbury, then the British prime minister," he said, "told me that when the president's message was promulgated Lord Salisbury said to him: 'I believe that from the Revolutionary war and accentuated by certain occurrences in the Civil war, America means to have a war with Great Britain at some time, and I believe now is the best time, when America has no navy.'"

"The views of the prime minister were overruled by Queen Victoria, but if Lord Salisbury had had the powers possessed by some of the English prime ministers, the issue certainly would have been tried out."

The democrats voting for two battleships were: Clarke (Ark.), McHenry (La.) and Taylor.

The republicans voting for one battleship were: Brewster, Burton, Chapp, Crawford, Cummins, Dixon, Dooliver, Hale, La Follette and Page.

The administration railroad bill will come up again when the senate convenes today.

HIGHEST BIDDER

Gets Man's Interest in a Contingent Inheritance

BOSTON, May 24.—A man's interest in a contingent inheritance, estimated to be worth from $35,000 to $650,000, according to the number of other participants who may or may not survive the heir in question, was sold to the highest bidder for the sum of $2225 by order of the court to satisfy a judgment of $500 in a local attorney's office late yesterday.

It was the first instance of such a transaction in the commonwealth of Massachusetts.

The judgment was secured against Franklin L. Fay, who, after his father's death will receive at least $26,000 from his grandfather's estate. He recently sold his curb broker and the judgment was secured for money loaned.

Stephen R. Jones bid in the interest, it is understood, on behalf of members of the Fay family, which is an old and aristocratic one of Boston.

MATRIMONIAL

The marriage of Mr. Adeline Oscar Rivard and Miss Alice Rondau took place yesterday morning at St. Joseph's church, where a nuptial mass was celebrated by Rev. Fr. Barry, O. M. I. The young couple were attended by Mr. Pierre Rondau, the bride's father, and Mr. Arthur Rivard, brother of the bridegroom, as witnesses. Mr. Abraham Rondau, the bride's brother, was best man, and Miss Alice Rondau was bridesmaid. The bride wore white silk and the bridesmaid, white muslin with Valenciennes lace trimmings. FINE REDUCED

Because Man Made Restitution

BOSTON, May 24.—John Matherson, charged with embezzlement of $15.34 from the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, by which he was employed, was fined $40 yesterday by Judge Wait in the superior court.

In the Brighton court last year he was fined $75 and appealed. It was arranged that he should be fined $50 and time was given to him to get the money. He was unable to pay the amount. He was in court yesterday and his case was called and Asst. Dist. Atty. Lavelle explained the situation to the court. He said the man had about $42 with him.

Clerk Manning asked Matherson how much money he had, and the defendant replied that he had $42.50. The judge then imposed a fine of $40, which the defendant paid, and the case was finally brought to a close. Full restitution had been made.

Florence Morrison, 25 years old, a shoplifter, was sentenced to the house of correction for four months. On her way to the detention room she fainted. She took about $50 worth of goods from different department stores during the Christmas season.

There were five counts of larceny against her. It was the first time she was arrested. She said she is married, but the police and the probation officer have been unable to ascertain her true address to verify her assertion as to her marriage.

LOST A LEG

FITCHBURG, May 24.—Joseph Sweeney, 17 years old, fell off a west-bound freight train on the Boston & Maine railroad last night and his right leg was terribly crushed. His cries attracted people in the neighborhood of Kimball street to his assistance.

He was taken to the Burbank hospital, where the injured leg was amputated at the hip. Three fingers, which were badly mangled by the wheels of the cars, were also amputated.

Sweeney was stealing a ride, and crawling over the top of the cars lost his balance and fell. He lives in West Fitchburg.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 24.—It was announced last night that John R. Kilpatrick, 1911, of New York city, has been elected a member of the Elks club of Yale university. Kilpatrick is prospective captain of the 1911 track team, and all-American football end. His failure to get an election on Tap Day to any of the three senior societies caused much comment.

NASHUA BRIDGE

IT IS TO BE A THIRTY-FOOT ONE

NASHUA, N. H., May 24.—The first meeting of the joint bridge committees of the town of Hudson and the city of Nashua since the special town meeting in Hudson was held at the city hall last evening. The plans and specifications made by the Fred T. Ley company of Springfield, Mass., were adopted with slight alterations.

A petition signed by 33 voters of Hudson requested that the bridge be 30 feet wide in the roadway instead of 28, that there be two sidewalks instead of one and that the electric car tracks be at one side instead of in the middle of the roadway.

After long discussion the committee voted to build a 30-foot bridge, no vote being taken on the placing of the car tracks. The matter of a second sidewalk was ignored entirely.

The committee will have the new plans and specifications on file this week and will advertise for bids to close June 6. The contract will be awarded and work will be commenced at once.

"I do," responded the New York senator. "I know of my own knowledge that Spain was prepared to abandon Cuba and Porto Rico to prevent humiliation if she could be assured in advance of the acceptance of the proposition."

Mr. Depew also related some history concerning the Venezuelan episode of the second Cleveland administration.

"An intimate friend of mine who also was an intimate friend of Lord Salisbury, then the British prime minister," he said, "told me that when the president's message was promulgated Lord Salisbury said to him: 'I believe that from the Revolutionary war and accentuated by certain occurrences in the Civil war, America means to have a war with Great Britain at some time, and I believe now is the best time, when America has no navy.'"

"The views of the prime minister were overruled by Queen Victoria, but if Lord Salisbury had had the powers possessed by some of the English prime ministers, the issue certainly would have been tried out."

The democrats voting for two battleships were: Clarke (Ark.), McHenry (La.) and Taylor.

The republicans voting for one battleship were: Brewster, Burton, Chapp, Crawford, Cummins, Dixon, Dooliver, Hale, La Follette and Page.

The administration railroad bill will come up again when the senate convenes today.

"BILLY" MADDEN

CHARGED WITH ABETTING A PRIZE FIGHT

NEW YORK, May 24.—"Billy" Madden and Al Benedict, a middleweight whom his managers, were arrested yesterday in Brooklyn on bench warrants, charged with aiding and abetting a prize fight. Benedict was badly beaten by Jack (Twin) Sullivan at the Marathon A. C. on May 2nd. Sullivan was arrested lately and released for appearance in $500 bail. The same bail was required yesterday for Madden and Benedict.

THE WYMAN WILL

PRINCETON, N. J., May 24.—Copies of the will of Isaac C. Wyman of Salem, Mass., the bulk of whose estate was bequeathed to the graduate college of Princeton university, reached here yesterday. After reading a copy of the will and the formal notification of the bequest from the executors, President Woodrow Wilson said there was nothing to say by way of comment except to echo the general satisfaction that the university should have the benefit of so princely a gift.

"While the amount of the bequest is not definitely known at the present time, it is undoubtedly the largest single benefaction that has ever come to the university," The friends of Princeton everywhere will rejoice at the prospect of a greater development which Mr. Wyman's generosity offers to the university.

SETTLED WEATHER COMING

The predictions are for continued unsettled weather, however, cheer up for good weather is at hand. By and by one may forget that it always rains on wash-day, and that Saturday is likely to be a bad day for the shop people. The warm weather is right at hand. We remember a Memorial day some years ago, that was the warmest day of the year, and Memorial day is at hand. This leads up to the purpose of these few wisdom words. It is the opportune time to install the gas range in the kitchen. In these days when all try to live intelligently, to get what is in life out of life, to make the burdens fall as lightly as possible, it is really almost cruel to work in a hot kitchen made so unnecessarily by a wood or coal fire. Moreover every one must see at once that it is a great and needless waste of heat and heat costs money. A gas range at once meets the situation. A variety of styles and prices are shown at the Lowell Gas Light Appliance Store on John street.

STREET ELECTED

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 24.—At a meeting of the sophomore class of Yale university last night Henry A. Street of Pawtucket, R. I., was elected assistant manager of Yale boat club. The selection means that Street will become manager of the crew in his senior year.

OLD CHURCH BURNED

EXTRA
DESTROYED BY FIREBuilding in Tyngsboro Was Reduced to Ashes

A fire that started on the second floor of the old Universalist church in Tyngsboro about 1.30 o'clock this afternoon reduced the building to ashes. The church was sold at auction seven years ago and was purchased by Alvin Sherburne, then a selectman of the town. Last July Mr. Sherburne sold the building to Daniel Shea of Tyngsboro and for the last three months the lower portion of the building has been occupied by Charles Allgrove who kept a meat and provision market. Mr. Allgrove estimates his loss at about $500 and Mr. Shea allows that his loss will exceed $1000. The building and contents were partially insured.

The building was 50 by 40 feet, three and one-half stories in front and an extra story in the rear. It was situated a short distance from the bridge and near Flint's box shop. Fred Andrews was first to discover the fire, and flames bursting their way through the windows attracted his attention. Mr. Andrews gave the alarm and in a few minutes a gang of men from the box shop had stretched two lines of hose and two well directed streams were playing on the fire. Lowell was telephoned to for assistance and the protective engine 2 with four horses, hose wagon from engine 3, hose 7 and first Assistant Engineer Norton responded. The fire, however, had things all its own way and the building was a mass of smouldering ruins when the apparatus arrived from Lowell, despite the fact that the auto fire patrol made the trip in 14 minutes.

WITNESS TESTIFIES

That Mrs. Richmond Sent Him to Boston for Liquor

CAMBRIDGE, May 24.—The prosecution called its first witness, Wilfrid McWilliams, when the trial of Mrs. Elizabeth Richmond, charged with the murder of Stewart McTavish in East Cambridge last July, was resumed today. McTavish testified that he was a friend of the murdered man, both having been born in the same town in Prince Edward Island. On Tuesday night, July 20, he said he met McTavish and both went to the Hotel Florence, of which Mrs. Richmond was the proprietress. A bottle of whiskey was produced and Mrs. Richmond joined in the drinking. McTavish told McWilliams at that time that he was working at the insane hospital at Gardner and that he was to be best man at his sister's wedding the next day.

McWilliams came to the house two nights later, but saw neither McTavish nor Mrs. Richmond and on Thursday night found McTavish's room locked. He identified a revolver which he said he saw Mrs. Richmond handling.

The blood-stained clothing of McTavish was introduced as an exhibit and was examined by the jury. Cross-examined by Attorney Clegg for the defense, McWilliams said that when he went to bed with McTavish the door was open and there was no way to lock it. The attorney tried to bring out evidence tending to show affection between McTavish and Mrs. Richmond but it was ruled out. McWilliams was also questioned regarding a boarder named Clifford.

The second witness was John Ahern, a boarder at the Richmond house and the last man to see McTavish alive. He said he had frequently been sent to Boston by Mrs. Richmond for liquor.

INJURIES FATAL

Boy Was Struck by

MEDFORD, May 24.—While attempting to cross the street in front of a rapidly moving auto today, Wallace Phillips, aged 5, of this city was struck by the car and fatally injured. The police state that the machine is owned by Otis Brown, president of the Lechmere National bank of Cambridge. The boy was taken in the automobile to the Malden hospital where he died a short time later. The chauffeur, Wilmer Renney, went to the police station and gave himself up. He was released on bonds furnished by his employer.

CHARGES AGAINST GOVERNOR

WASHINGTON, May 24.—An investigation expected to emphasize the bitterness among Alaskan republicans was begun today before a sub-committee of the senate committee on judiciary. Charges were made against Gov. Clark, ex-Gov. Hoggatt and Louis Shackelford, republican national committeemen from Alaska, by Delegate Wickersham, who sought to connect them with the Guggenheim interests.

CONFERENCE OF CHARITIES

ST. LOUIS, May 24.—The reformation of lawbreakers, supervision of poor houses and eleemosynary institutions and public health, were the themes discussed at the sectional meetings of the national conference of charities and correction this morning. Clifford W. Brown, executive secretary of the Connecticut Society for Mental Hygiene, advocated a system of social service in asylums and a compulsory education for the general public.

WILD RUNAWAY

EAST BOSTON GIRL WAS BADLY INJURED

BOSTON, May 24.—Miss Marian Weyhe, a 16-year-old East Boston girl, living at 150 Mythen street, was thrown like a shot from a car about 20 feet through the air yesterday afternoon when, after a wild runaway ride through the residential section of Winthrop, the frightened horses drawing the wagon in which she was riding crashed into a tree on Main street.

The girl struck the ground with such force that she was rendered unconscious and sustained injuries so severe that at first it was feared that she would not live.

Dr. B. H. Metcalf, who attended Miss Weyhe and dressed her wounds, last night stated that her youth would aid her recovery.

JUST IN TIME

Reprieve Granted to Cecil LaGrange

PHILADELPHIA, May 24.—Carrying a reprieve, a messenger arrived at Moyamensing prison today from Harrisburg, a few hours ahead of the time set for the execution of Cecil LaGrange of Johnstown, N. Y., who was to have been put to death for murdering Paul Miller during a brawl here two years ago. An attorney representing LaGrange went to Harrisburg late last night and interviewed Gov. Stewart. A reprieve was asked for on the ground that new evidence favorable to the condemned had been discovered. Gov. Stewart reprieved LaGrange until June 23.

PRESIDENT TAFT

AGAIN MADE HONORARY PRESIDENT OF UNITARIAN LEAGUE

BOSTON, May 24.—At the meeting of the National League of Unitarian Laymen the following communication from President Taft was read:

"My dear Mr. Burdett: In accepting for another year the position of honorary president of the National League of Unitarian Laymen, I am glad to express my sense of the responsibility devolving upon the laymen not only of our own church, but of all the churches, as churchmen, to uphold the religious and ethical principles for which the church stands and to apply these principles actively to the solution of the civic, social and industrial problems that today are confronting our country. We look to the churches and kindred organizations for the preservation of these ideals and we should hail every instrumentality which is adopted for their promulgation.

"One of the most pleasing signs of the times is the rise of organizations within the church by which earnest men combine for the purpose of increasing the strength of the church as a body making it a power for the amelioration of social conditions and carrying its message into all lands. By such organizations, properly directed, can the ideals for which we stand, such as charity, forbearance, civic righteousness and human brotherhood be applied to the working out of our national destiny.

"Sincerely yours,
"W. H. Taft."

FELL DOWN

Michael Lee, of Charles St., Met
With a Fatal Accident

Michael J. Lee, aged 48 years, fell down a flight of stairs at his home, 73 Charles street at 11.30 o'clock last night and met with injuries which resulted in his death at St. John's hospital at ten o'clock this morning. Dr. R. E. Bell, who examined the man at the hospital said that death was due to a fracture at the base of the skull.

The unfortunate man, who had been suffering with an affection of the heart for some time, was seized with an attack shortly after eleven o'clock last night and it is thought that while he was trying to make his way down stairs to the rooms of his family on the floor below, he was seized with the sudden shock which caused him to lose control of himself and fall down nearly the entire flight of stairs.

Inasmuch as the man had worked steadily every day and never showed a sign of illness other than that once in a while he complained of his heart, the fatal accident has greatly unmoved the members of his family.

Mr. Lee was about the house last night as usual and after reading the paper and conversing with the members of the household he retired for the night. He slept on the top floor of the house, while the other members of the family occupied sleeping rooms on the floor below. About 11.30 o'clock Mrs. Lee was awakened by a noise which sounded as though some person had fallen downstairs.

Mrs. Lee and her daughter, Anna, upon hearing the noise rushed to the hallway and found Mr. Lee lying on the floor. Dr. Edward Murphy was summoned and he attended the man and found that he was suffering from heart trouble, bruises about the head and body and was in a semi-conscious condition. Shortly before o'clock this morning Mr. Lee's condition took a change for the worse and the doctor advised that the man be taken to a hospital.

The ambulance was summoned and Mr. Lee was taken to St. John's hospital where an examination showed that he was suffering from a fracture at the base of the skull.

Everything possible in the line of medical and surgical skill was brought to bear upon the man at the hospital but his condition gradually grew worse and he passed away at about ten o'clock.

Assistant Medical Examiner Robert E. Bell signed the death return "Fracture of base of skull" after which the body was removed to the undertaking parlors of Undertakers Michael H. McDonough & Son and later to his home in Charles street.

The deceased was 48 years of age and a well known and highly respected resident of St. Peter's parish and was employed in the yard of the Appleton company. He leaves to mourn his loss a wife, Mary A., and a daughter, Anna, three sisters, Mrs. Jane Hart, Mary Lee and Mrs. Michael Fox and a brother, Bernard, the latter of Boston.

He was a member of Court General, Shields, Foresters of America. Friends are requested not to send flowers.

KELIHER ON TRIAL

Charged With Aiding Coleman in Larceny of $309,000

BOSTON, May 24.—Efforts were made to show through Wilson Lockhart that the impending crash of the National City bank of Cambridge was expected by William J. Keliher, who is on trial in the United States circuit court for aiding George W. Coleman in the larceny of $309,000 of the bank's funds, the greater part of which it was claimed, was lost in gambling. Lockhart who is also under indictment in the same case testified today that he was with Coleman and Keliher on the night Coleman started for Kansas City. Lockhart took Coleman's place as bookkeeper of the bank until the crash came and he said that Keliher was frequently in communication with him and was very anxious to learn how matters were going at the bank. At last Lockhart reported that the books were under examination and two days later the bank was closed. Keliher offered to get Lockhart a job and did not seem surprised on learning that the bank had failed.

Under cross examination, Lockhart denied all knowledge of late supper parties in which Coleman and Keliher were said to have figured.

In the course of his direct examination Lockhart testified in spite of the objections by the defense that he saw Coleman hand Keliher money in New York with the remark: "There goes $3000." He heard Keliher tell Coleman that "Jack had lost it." Coleman swore when he heard that the money had been lost.

JULIA WARD HOWE

APPEARED BEFORE THE MILK
INVESTIGATION COMMITTEE

BOSTON, May 24.—The venerable Mrs. Julia Ward Howe appeared today in the interest of the babies before the milk investigation committee of the legislature. She entered the room on the arm of her daughter and was escorted to a seat by Attorney A. D. Hill, who is representing the milk consumers. Mrs. Howe addressed the committee, saying, in part:

"The object of this investigation interests and concerns many and especially infants, for it seems to be actually a question of life and death. I desire that the producers shall have a fair price for their milk and hope that the trouble will be settled in justice to all."

The witnesses today included several scientific men, who have made a special study of the milk situation. Prof. Theobald Smith of the Harvard Medical school spoke at length regarding the dangerous bacilli which lurk in the otherwise wholesome beverage. He said he was in favor of pasteurization but that it should be done under official supervision. Dr. Milton Rosenau, a pathologist of the Harvard Medical school, and Charles E. Whistler, professor of sanitary science at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, both recommended that the state and city boards of health should be given a wider scope and better facilities for protecting the public health through the inspection of milk. They also strongly endorsed pasteurization.

DEATHS

HOLT.—Mrs. Carrie M. Holt, wife of Arthur H. Holt, died at Houghs Neck, Mass., this afternoon at 2.30. She was formerly a resident of this city. Besides her father, E. N. Lechance, she is survived by one brother, George H. Hanaford and a sister, Blanche Hanaford, all of this city.

LASTERS DISCHARGED

It is Feared That Shoe Factories
May be Closed

MARLBORO, May 24.—It is feared that 1200 shoe factory employees may be made idle as a result of the recent discharge of two lasters from the Middlesex factory, one of the three shoe manufacturing shops of Rice & Hutchins in this city. The lasters, claiming that the men were discharged because of their union affiliations, demanded their reinstatement, and the demand being refused by the manager, C. W. Curtis, the lasters struck last Wednesday. John Flynn, representing the United Shoe Workers of America, stated today that unless the matter is settled immediately to the satisfaction of the lasters there will be a general strike of lasters in the three Rice & Hutchins' factories in Marlboro. While only 140 lasters would be directly affected by the strike order, some 1200 operators in other departments of the factory would be thrown out of work. The mayor and a member of the board of trade have been working vainly to settle the dispute.

HALLEY'S COMET

PORTSMOUTH WOMAN SAW PREVIOUS APPEARANCE

PORTSMOUTH, May 24.—The most remarkable phenomena associated with Halley's comet of seventy five years ago are still visible in the mind of Mrs. Hannah (Nason) Treadwell of 13 Ladd street.

An unknown substance falling like a white blanket of snow from a starlight sky overhead and which disappeared as if by magic at the slightest touch, she recalls as one of the apparitions that startled the superstitious people of her childhood. A more terrible deposit of the dread night was the deposit of two meteoric stones, described by her as jelly-like things, which were speedily consumed by their own heat in the yard adjoining her home at Elliot, Me.

Mrs. Treadwell was 89 years old yesterday. In the presence of a group of friends, who called to pay the compliments of the day, she reviewed the comet of seventy-five years ago. Her faculties are excellent and her face lighted with pleasure as she assumed the role of story teller.

"It was in June, seventy years ago," she said, "I remember the night well. We were living in Elliot, and I was the house of a woman whom I slept with for company. I was 14 years old then.

"There was no sleep in the house that night. We had no astronomers to quiet our fears in those days. The people were excited and doubtful as to what would be the ending of it all.

"The night was clear and the sky was lighted bright with stars. About midnight a strange substance began to fall over the country, at least that part of it which held us. It was like snow and each piece was about the size of a flake of snow, though falling more closely, like a blanket, than in the ordinary storm.

"The fall lasted perhaps two or three hours. We never knew what the substance was. It was a nothingness. It had no weight. There was no dampness. It was more like a vapor. When we touched it it disappeared. There was no deposit on the ground. It went as if by magic.

"We remained in the house that night, awake. Early in the morning, when the fall ceased, we saw two objects, each about the size of a bushel basket in the field nearby. We did not approach too closely to them but from the distance they appeared to be soft like jelly. There was steam arising from them and a slight reflection from them as if of heat. As we watched them they melted away, as if by their own heat. I do not know whether there was a residue."

THE BOUNDARY DISPUTE

WASHINGTON, May 24.—The government of Peru has formally accepted without reserve the mediation of the United States, Brazil and Argentina in the boundary dispute between Peru and Ecuador.

THE COMET TONIGHT

Tonight the tail of Halley's comet may be visible for three hours and 40 minutes immediately following sunset.

The sun will set at 7.07 standard time.

The comet will set at 10.45 standard time.

The position of the comet will be in the west.

The weather bureau predicts unsettled weather for this evening.

Standard eastern time is 16 minutes slower than sun time in Boston.

OLD RESIDENT

MRS. JOHANNAH WALSH PASSED AWAY YESTERDAY

Mrs. Johannah Walsh, aged 89 years, and a resident of Lowell for 50 years, and a prominent member of the Sacred Heart parish since its establishment, died yesterday at her home, 5 Watson street. Her death had been expected for several days and she passed away thoroughly resigned and fortified with the last rites of the church of which she had been a faithful and devout attendant throughout her life. She is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Michael Caray and Misses Margaret, Catherine and Maria Walsh; three sons, Anthony, John and Michael Walsh; and one sister, Mrs. Catherine Moran.

NIGHT EDITION

STEAMERS COLLIDED

The Goodyear Was Struck Amidships, it is Reported

PORT HURON—Mich., May 24.—The big steel steamer Frank H. Goodyear, owned by Mitchell & Co., lies in forty fathoms of water in Lake Huron about 35 miles off Point Aux Barques and probably 18 persons met watery graves following a collision between that vessel and the steamer James B. Wood, another steel boat belonging to the Gilchrist fleet.

The collision occurred about six o'clock Monday morning in a heavy fog. When the two steamers came together the crew of the Goodyear which is reported to have been struck amidships had only time to seize life-preservers and only a few could jump overboard before the boat began to fill with water.

The cook had just sounded the second call for breakfast on the Goodyear when the crash came and many were in the messroom. All rushed on deck and then the boat began to sink. Some jumped into the water and managed to get out of reach of the boat which was fast filling.

Suddenly the Goodyear parted in the center and with a sound which could be heard above the whistling of the Wood, sank out of sight, carrying all but five down with her.

The bow of the Wood was badly stove in but she rested on her bulk-

MAYOR OF LAWRENCE

Wanted Governor Draper to Interfere in His Case

BOSTON, May 24.—Gov. Draper yesterday afternoon refused to interfere with the course of justice in the Essex county courts to secure a speedy trial for Mayor William P. White of Lawrence, under indictment for condemnation of bribes.

Mayor White visited the executive chambers late in the afternoon, and eventually was taken into the governor's private room. He declared that the case against him was a "put up job" on the part of his political enemies, and that he was entitled to a trial immediately.

Gov. Draper listened to a recital of the circumstances leading up to the grand jury's action at Newburyport last week, after which he assumed

MAYOR MEEHAN

Issues Statement in Reply to Ex-Supt. Mayberry

In connection with the meeting of the committee on appropriations held last night and at which Solomon Mayberry, former superintendent of the charities department, appeared to explain alleged irregularities as to the sale of farm products and the disposition of the money received for same, Mayor Meehan, today gave a statement to the press in which he avers that Mr. Mayberry, by selling the products of the farm and failing to turn the money over to the city treasurer, ignored not only the city treasurer, but the chief of supplies and the mayor and that his act was contrary to the written instructions of the city solicitor. The mayor's statement:

In going contrary to the written instructions of the city solicitor, Superintendent Mayberry showed that he was either ignorant in his construction of English, or was willing to assume the responsibility of violating the provisions of the charter. That was one reason for his removal.

"Under date of Dec. 8, 1909, City Solicitor Duncan in a written opinion informed Superintendent Mayberry that he could exchange products of the farm for other products, but that if he sold the products the money must be turned over to the city treasurer. To quote from the opinion:

"Under the authority of above statute, I am of the opinion that the superintendent may either sell said products and turn the proceeds over to the city treasurer, or if he deems best, exchange them for such other materials, utensils or property in general use, in his opinion, can be profitably used in carrying on the business of the farm in a manner beneficial not only to the inmates, but also the city of Lowell."

"It seems to me that an opinion should not be necessary to deny the rights of a department head in such a connection. Why, it is just as rea-

BOSTON, May 24.—There were very few orders for local copper stocks today, but the tone was generally firm for the first hour. At noon the market was still dull with a lower tendency. A demand for silver stocks caused another rise in Nippling and Kerr Lake.

NEW YORK, May 24.—More than three hundred employees of the United States Rubber Co. plant in New Brunswick, N. J., went on strike today when they were informed by Sup. Desher that he had no authority to grant their demand for an increase in wages, but would have to consult the company's officers in New York. The strikers resolved not to go to work until their demands were granted. On the other hand, the company's officers are at the plant where about six hundred persons are employed are practically at a standstill.

NEW YORK, May 24.—A brief telegram has been received at the state department from Consul Moffatt at Beloit, Wis., dated yesterday evening in which he states that General Rivas and his forces were attacking the city of Beloit, and that the army of the United States was engaged in a battle with them.

HETTY GREEN ANGRY

Because the Jury Rendered Verdict Against Her

NEW YORK, May 24.—"Cat fits" and "blackmail" were terms used yesterday on the stand by Mrs. Hetty Green to characterize the efforts of the Safety Deposit company of 149 Broadway to recover $550 rentals from her. But the jury in the case, which was tried before Judge O'Dwyer in the city court, found against Mrs. Green after 12 minutes' deliberation, and she expressed her indignation in no uncertain terms.

"Outrage! Outrage!" she cried when the foreman announced that she had lost the suit. "Isn't there any justice for a woman who has money?"

The clerk of the court rapped sharply for order, and Mrs. Green's attorney, Lewis Doyle, appeared to her to be calm, but the woman flung her arms out to express her feelings on the "outrage." The clerk again rapped for order, and she finally subsided.

Mrs. Green had said before the jury went out:

"Juries have always been good to me. I have never lost a case, but half an hour later the 'highest justice' in the world had lost her first suit."

Suit for Box Rent

The action was for the use of safe deposit boxes for a period of 10 years each. The original amount of the action was $550, but $19.25 was added for interest. Mrs. Green contended that she had not engaged the boxes after settling the amount due for her rental up to a time previous to the 10 years involved, but the safe deposit company alleged that she had entered into some agreement to continue their rental.

William A. Mitchell, president of the company, testified that on Dec. 1, 1903, Mrs. Green called at the company's offices with Edward H. Kinsel, auditor of the Chemical National bank, and gave him a check for $600 for rent already due. He asserted further that she had agreed to rent the boxes for a further period and that a memorandum had been made to that effect. The boxes contained papers relating to Mrs. Green's father, Edward Mott Robinson, who died in 1865.

Mr. Mitchell denied that he had ever tried to have Mrs. Green make her headquarters in the company's offices, but admitted that she had been charged less for the use of the boxes than the usual rate. He explained this by saying that she was a good customer and he wished to retain her patronage.

Mrs. Green was emphatic when called as a witness. She brought two umbrellas and a maid to court and was dressed from head to foot in black, a veil doing duty as a hat. She carried a black bag and wore black gloves.

Says Boxes Were Stolen

When called to the stand she spoke in a very low tone, but very rapidly.

"Those boxes were stolen out of my father's estate years ago," began the defendant.

"Father died 45 years ago, and I did it for my son, who is running a railroad and cannot be here. This is the third blackmailing suit that I've had. I was paying for my father's estate, of which my son, Edward H. Green, is the sole surviving trustee and my daughter is the executrix."

"Then you never agreed to pay any amount personally for the storage of the boxes?"

"No, I didn't," declared Mrs. Green, vigorously. "I wouldn't want to pay storage 45 years on a lot of things stolen out of my father's estate."

"They don't belong to me, according to God they do not belong to me," she declared. "According to law they belong to my son as trustee. I paid $2500 for the writing of the books, though."

"There has been a great deal of litigation over your father's estate, has there not?" asked Lawyer Doyle.

"Yes, there has," replied Mrs. Green. "They tried to steal my share in Chicago."

"Judge," said Mrs. Green, "they're trying to frighten me, but I won't let them. It would have been easier for me to pay the bill than to engage a lawyer. The expense that I have been put to will be doubled that which I would have been compelled to pay, but if I let this go there would be a lot more of the same thing."

The jury then took the case under consideration and returned their verdict in 12 minutes.

GIRLS CAPTURED

Escaped From George Junior Republic

ITHACA, May 24.—Two girls, citizens of the George Junior Republic at Freeville, successfully broke away from jail at midnight Sunday night and were on their way west when caught by the Ithaca chief of police. The girls are Florence Dougherty of Pittsburg and Carrie Hazely of Interlaken. Both are about 18 years of age and good looking.

They had been sent to jail after a hearing before the republic judge and convicted of misconduct. Confinement was irksome, however, and the Dougherty girl suggested the plan to escape. She engineered the deal, managing to get hold of $5 in real money, though the republic has its own currency, which is worthless outside.

About midnight the girls crawled through a narrow window out on the roof of the second story. There they found escape cut off, but a nearby pole proved their salvation. Without hesitation, both slid down this pole, though their hands were hurt in the descent. In order to get away without approaching too close to the republic walls, they had to wade through a swamp.

They stopped on the other side to put on dry stockings and the Dougherty girl found that her shoes had shrunk so that she could not put them on. She slid her feet into them as far as they could go and walked the 14 miles to Ithaca. Arriving early yesterday morning, they bought tickets for Tremontsburg, but alarmed at the attention they attracted at the station,

RAPID CURES OF ECZEMA

All Skin Troubles Yield Readily to This New Healing Agent

In stopping the itching attending eczema, or any itching skin disease, with first application, poslam, the next remedy, at once cures all physical distress and proves its wonderful healing properties. It is safe to say that poslam has cured more skin diseases than any remedy ever offered for these ills. The very worst cases of eczema, as well as acne, psoriasis, herpes, tetter, piles, salt rheum, crusts, crusts, humors, scaly scalp and every form of itch yield to it readily. Blemishes, such as pimples, red noses, muddy and inflamed skin disappear almost immediately when poslam is applied, the complexion being cleared over night.

Every druggist keeps both the 50-cent size (for minor troubles) and the $2 jar, and either of these may be obtained at Falls & Burkinshaw's, Carter & Sherburne's, and the Riker-Jaynes Drug Co.'s, as well as other reliable drug stores.

But no one is even asked to purchase poslam without first obtaining a sample package, which will be sent by mail, free of charge, upon request, by the Emergency Laboratories, No. 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York City.

started to walk to Willow Creek, a distance of seven miles, where they planned to take a train.

DIVORCED WOMAN

Is Again Made a Lawful Wife

BROCKTON, May 24.—By a motion filed and granted in the Plymouth county superior court here yesterday, Judge William B. Stevens presiding, Lena M. Kennedy Marsh of Montello street, this city, is once more, by order of the court, the lawful wife of George Lawrence Marsh. Marsh is employed as a traveling salesman and his home is in this city.

The case is most unusual in the history of Plymouth county. Mrs. Marsh was granted a divorce November 9. The decree would have become absolute on May 9 last, if objections had not been filed in superior court by Attorney Richard W. Nutter.

The latter, acting under appointment by Judge Lawton as special attorney, investigated certain claims made by Charles Laure of El Paso, Tex., where Mrs. Marsh is alleged to have resided at one time.

He sent a communication to Clerk Edward B. Babart, in which he set forth certain alleged actions of Mrs. Marsh when Laure knew her in Texas. Mrs. Marsh was known in Texas as "the mystery girl," according to Laure.

In having the libel dismissed and the decree vacated, the charges made by Laure will not be heard in court.

DALMORE'S VOICE

Brings Him the Sum of $200,000

BERLIN, May 24.—Andreas Dippel, who is returning to the United States after a brief visit in Berlin, has just signed a remarkable contract with Charles Dalmore whereby the French tenor will receive the record sum of $200,000 for the period of a four years' engagement, at the Metropolitan, New York, and the allied opera houses of Boston, Chicago and Philadelphia.

It is stated that the consummation of this contract nullifies the indemnity of $25,000 which Dalmore was required to pay the Metropolitan as result of his last legal action against the management.

Dippel came to Europe this time primarily to see his wife, who was ill at Nice. He returns for his annual European tour for talent and new operas some time next month.

Dalmore's salary at the Manhattan was $600 a performance. Last season he sang at least 60 performances and the amount he made, therefore, was $36,000. As his new contract is probably arranged on a basis of 40 performances, if the amount named is the correct one, his new salary must be estimated as more than double that of his old one, or $1250 a performance. This is a larger amount than any tenor receives in America, with the exception of Caruso.

"JIM" JEFFRIES

Will Take Things Easy This Week

BEX LOMOND, Cal., May 24.—Jim Jeffries says he intends to take things easy this week. Road work accompanied by sprinting will be kept up regularly but it is thought likely that he will have to do little with the gloves until Jim Corbett arrives next week. The report that Corbett will not have his quarters at the camp here is denied by Jeffries' training companions. It is said that accommodations are now being prepared for him and that there is no likelihood of friction between Corbett and any other member of the camp. News from the city that Jack Johnson may be a spectator at Jeffries' boxing tournament in San Francisco next Friday night has stirred up considerable interest here, but the camp is not inclined to take Johnson's reported intention seriously. All, however, were anxious for the negro to be on hand. They assert that it would have a discouraging effect on Johnson to see how fast the former champion is in his work.

CORBETT AND CHOYNSKI

CHICAGO, May 24.—Jim Corbett, former heavyweight champion, is staying here a couple of days on his way to California to help condition James

J. Jeffries for his fight with Jack Johnson. Asked concerning his old time feud with Joe Choyinski, Corbett laughed and said: "No, I don't suppose we could be called friends for we've been enemies practically since we were boys but it should prove no obstacle to our mutual efforts to help Jeff. I've forgotten any hard feelings I ever had and I hope Joe has. This is too big a thing for petty bickering to enter into the plans. I will greet Joe just as cordially as I would if we never had any differences."

THE SPEECH OF CONGRESSMAN FOSS.

The maiden speech of Congressman Foss in congress Saturday was a rouser. It spread consternation in the republican ranks and the leaders vainly tried to confound him by asking questions.

He justly denounced the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill as "an intentional and deliberate buncie game from start to finish." He demanded that the tariff commission provided for in the present tariff law should report to congress and not to the president. He also demanded that a special session of congress be held next spring to revise the tariff so that the democratic party may do the work which the republican party failed to do in violation of its promises to the country.

The speech of Mr. Foss and another by Champ Clark of Missouri dealing more minutely with the tariff, sounded the keynote of the democratic campaign and both have caused great alarm among republicans who already foresee defeat in the fall elections.

The speech of Mr. Foss came to them like a bombshell, overwhelming in its force and its fierceness of assault upon the already discredited policy of the republicans.

Foss will hereafter be a great power in congress. Let there be no attempt to recall him for any other position. There is no place except that of United States senator or of president in which he can do more good than as congressman.

UNDER THE NEW KING.

The funeral of King Edward was probably one of the most gorgeous pageants in all history. It recalled the "Field of the cloth of gold," the historic phrase applied to the magnificent camp of Francis I of France and Henry VIII of England at Calais in 1520. The funeral had a long line of European sovereigns; principal among whom was William of Germany whose importance in European affairs has been greatly advanced by the death of his uncle, King Edward. During his short reign King Edward, on account of his age, his ability as a diplomat and a man of peace, managed to counter-check most of the kaiser's ambitions in the line of conquest.

The death of King Edward has made England an intensely loyal nation; it has united the people with royalty in a common bond of love and sorrow, such as has seldom, if ever, been experienced in England on the death of a sovereign. The sorrow for the death of Queen Victoria lacked sincerity, one might almost say it was feigned to meet a public necessity. What the people really felt in regard to the aged queen was that her time had come and that she did not relinquish her grasp of the sceptre until she was obliged to by death. Had she been unselfishly considerate for the country or its future, she would have abdicated many years before her death so as to allow her son, the late King Edward, a longer reign. But today the people, high and low, sincerely lament the death of King Edward, for all had reason to love him as the best of all modern sovereigns of England. Yet as the people deplore his death, and are prone to exclaim "We shall not soon see his like again," they may be mistaken in their estimate of King George V. So far as he has gone he has acted with great wisdom and discretion. His appeal to the people for cooperation and his act of clemency towards prisoners have already made him popular, and the prediction is freely made that he will prove to be a wise, tactful and popular sovereign.

THE NAVIGATION OF THE MERRIMACK.

The conference at the Board of Trade rooms Saturday with Col. Burr of the United States survey brought out in a very forcible manner the advantages to be derived from making the Merrimack river navigable, at least from Lowell to the sea. And when we say from Lowell only, we may be tacitly misrepresenting the river above Lowell which is at present navigable to Nashua, but it would be a very difficult matter to pass a coal scow through any of the local canals so closely are they covered over with bridges and buildings.

In view of what has been done in other places to deepen waterways, this matter of making the Merrimack navigable as far as Nashua seems trifling. There is no reason why it should not be done. Only let our congressmen from the Merrimack valley combine to push the matter and it will go through in spite of Joe Cannon and all the cohorts of the standpatters.

The movement is now well started; let it go on without interruption. This is a movement that means a great deal to the city of Lowell, to Lawrence, Haverhill and even Newburyport for the skippers in the last named city would be called upon to man the river craft conveying coal, cotton and lumber to Lowell and perhaps also to carry back to the sea board the manufactured products of our textile factories, our shoe shops and machine shops.

Now that motor boats are so common, the work of river navigation would be greatly facilitated.

General Butler was a great advocate of navigating the Merrimack, and during his day did much to promote that object. He had a great power wheel erected at one of the waterfalls below Lawrence to generate power sufficient to tow the boats up over the falls. That was an ingenious scheme but electricity was not then generally used as a motor power. Today wheels could be harnessed on all the waterfalls in the Merrimack to produce electricity, and this would run mills on the river banks.

The boats can generate their own power from gasoline and in that way carry all the freight that is consigned there either upward or downward. The larger vessels of course would use steam.

The question that now interests everybody in the Merrimack valley is to get a liberal appropriation to make the Merrimack navigable to Lowell or to Nashua. The advantages to be derived from such an improvement fully warrant the expense.

The abandonment of the old Middlesex canal was one of the worst things that ever happened to the cities and towns in the Merrimack valley.

The blunder cannot now be remedied in any other way than by making the Merrimack navigable.

Therefore, we call upon the people of Lawrence, Haverhill, Newburyport and all the other residents of the Merrimack valley to join their forces in enjoining this movement to a final success. It is thoroughly practical; it will not cost very much; it is necessary to keep Lowell and Lawrence in line with seaboard cities in the manufacture of textiles. It means the salvation of the cities in the Merrimack valley. Then why should not all join in forcing action in the immediate future?

SEEN AND HEARD

A boy of 12 years of age, with an air of melancholy resignation, went to his teacher and handed in the following note from his mother before taking his seat:

Dear Sir—Please excuse James for not being present yesterday. He played truant, but you needn't whip him for it, as the boy he played truant with and him fell out, and he licked James; and a man they threw stones at caught him and licked him, and the driver of a cart they hung on to, licked him, and the owner of a cat they chased licked him. Then I licked him when he came home, after which his father licked him, and I had to give him another for being impudent to me for telling his father. So you needn't lick him until next time.

A TALE OF THE TRAIL

This life's a middlin' crooked trail, an' after forty year
Of knockin' round I'm free to say th' right ain't always clear.
I've seen a lot of folks go wrong—git off the main high road
An' fetch up in a swamp somewhere, almost before they knowed.
I don't pretend to be no judge of right an' wrong in men;
I ain't been perfect all my life, an' may not be again;
An' sometimes when I see a chap who seems plumb gone astray
I think perhaps he started right, but somehow lost his way.

I like to think the good in 'em by far outweighs the ill;
Th' trail of life is middlin' hard an' lots of it uphill;
There's places where there ain't no guides or signboards up, an' so it's partly guess work an' part luck which way you chance to go.
I've seen th' trails fork some myself an' when I had to choose
I wasn't sure when I struck out if it was win or lose.
So when I see a man who looks as though he'd gone astray
I like to think he started right an' only lost his way.

I've seen a lot of 'em start out with grit an' spunk to scale
Th' hills that purple over there, an' somehow lose th' trail;
I've seen 'em stop an' start again, not sure about th' road;
An' found 'em lost on some blind trail almost before they knowed.
I've seen 'em circle 'round, with every pathway blind,
With cliffs before 'em, mountain high, an' slough an' swamps behind.
I've seen 'em straggle through th' dusk, when twilight's gittin' gray,
A-lookin' for th' main high road—poor chaps who've lost their way.

It ain't so far from right to wrong—th' trail ain't hard to lose;
There's times I'd almost give my horse to know which one to choose.
There ain't no signboards on th' road to keep you on th' track;
Wrong's sometimes white as driven snow an' right looks awful black!
I don't set up to be no judge of right an' wrong in men;
I've lost th' trail sometimes myself—I may git lost again.
An' if I see some chap who looks as though he'd gone astray
I want to shove my hand in his an' help him find th' way.

—J. W. Foley.

He was a good little boy and very thoughtful. He had heard about the great scarcity of water throughout the country. He came to his mother and showed his hand into hers.

"Mamma," he said, "is it true that in some places the little girls and boys have scarcely enough water to drink?"

"That is what the papers say, my dear."

"Mamma," he presently said, "I'd like to give up something for those poor little boys and girls."

"His mother gave him a fond look.

"Yes, dear, and what would you like to give up?"

"Mamma," he said in his earnest way, "as long as the water is so very scarce, I think I ought to give up bein' washed."—Ladies' Home Journal.

"An actor in a Washington play," said Mayor Meals of Haverhill, "had the opportunity, the other night, to address President Taft in his box as 'Your royal highness.'"

The president laughed, but I am sure he was annoyed. The fact informs me that nothing is more offensive to them than allusions to their size.

"Yet such illusions are continually being made. I know a fat lady who, in one of our public parks, told a tramp, on a very hot afternoon, that if he didn't stop following her she would call the police."

"O, don't do that, ma'am," was the impudent reply. "Don't call the police. Don't send me away. Why, yer the only bit o' shade in the hull park!"

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Mr. King O'Malley, minister of home affairs in the new Australian cabinet, led and manned by the Labor party, is an Irish-American, known among his associates as the "Dad Eagle of the Rocky Mountains." He is said to be somewhat angular in person, whimsical to speech, and when a South Australian legislator, achieved prominence by introducing a bill for the abolition of bachelors.

Scottish folks are closely watching ex-president Roosevelt to see whether he journeys northward to the parish of Blairgowrie, where the Bulloch, from whom he is descended on his mother's side, originated, the best known of them being John Bulloch of Aberdeen, the Shakespearean scholar.

By making Gen. Botha first premier of the South African Republic, Gov. Gen. Gladstone has showed his for loyal support of the Dutch element, which of late has shown signs of re-assembling racial points of view that it had been hoped would never obtrude again.

T. H. S. Escott, in his recent illustrated life of Edward Bulwer, first Baron Lytton of Knebworth, calls attention to the distinct service Bulwer Lytton rendered to British journalism by his discovery of the merits of Antonio Gallenga, who for so many years was one of the ablest of the correspondents of the London Times, and afterward one of its valued leaders. Gallenga was one of the first of cultivated Italians to visit the United States, and there are few more interesting books about the New England of the middle period of the last century than the one which includes a record of his experiences in this country. It has delightful pictures of the academic circles of Cambridge, and the friction that inevitably developed between him and the prim maidens and Puritan divines and educators of that city and Boston.

RAILWAY REVALUATION

One finds oneself in a mist of confusion when the test of either equity or economics in railway revaluation is applied in such a case as the South station at Boston. Its cost of construction some twelve years ago was $15,015,000. It is capitalized at $500,000 in stock and $14,000,000 of free and one-half per cent. bonds under the title Boston Terminal company, the New York, New Haven and Hartford holding four-fifths of the stock and the Boston and Albany one-fifth. BOMB EXPLODEDIt Was Thrown From
Subway Train

NEW YORK, May 24.—The explosion of a bomb thrown from a train on a subway system as the train was passing through the surface grade of the road on the edge of the Harlem river canal today seriously injured a watchman, broke the hawsers of a wrecking tug in the canal and set her adrift and created a panic among the tenants of a big apartment house nearby. The police are trying to find out if labor troubles had anything to do with the outrage. The missile is believed to have been hurled from an open rear window of a train, where about 75 men are working there on the "open shop" system. Little damage was done the company's property in the yards.

GRAND PROCESSIONIN HONOR OF FETE DIEU NEXT SUNDAY

A grand Fete Dieu procession in honor of the feast of Corpus Christi will be held in the open next Sunday in the vicinity of St. Jean Baptiste church, a beautiful feature of which will be the throwing of flowers before the Blessed Sacrament as it is carried through the streets. A group of 62 tiny girls from St. Joseph's convent will precede the host, carrying baskets of flowers. The girls scattering the flowers will walk backwards before the host, while another group will walk behind and gather up the flowers, exchanging places with the others as their baskets become empty, thus making the supply of flowers inexhaustible.

Other groups of girls will also appear in the procession, some carrying the gold chalice on a white satin cushion, and others holding white ribbons. Besides these, the whole school will form a cortege to the host, all of the little girls wearing white.

PRESENTED PURSEGRANITEVILLE PARISHIONERS
SURPRISE FR. McNAMARA

Rev. John J. McNamara, curate at St. John's, North Chelmsford and St. Catherine's, Graniteville, preached his farewell sermon at the latter church on Sunday morning.

At the conclusion of the mass J. A. Healy, sexton of the church, stepped forward and in behalf of the members of St. Catherine's parish presented Rev. Fr. McNamara a substantial purse of money. This act was a great surprise to Fr. McNamara and he was visibly affected. When he could find words to speak he said: "I have met with many surprises during the past few days but this is the climax. Words are but feeble to thank you for your kindness to me." After asking the congregation if they would kindly say a little prayer for his intention he bestowed his blessing upon the congregation.

After mass a long line of people filed into the vestry of the church to shake hands with Fr. McNamara, and extend their best wishes for his success in his new parish.

SUMMER HOTEL

THE OLD MERCIER HOTEL AT THE ENTRANCE TO WILLOW DALE IN FLAMES

At Lakeview Laid in Ashes in Fierce Midnight Blaze

The large wooden building at the entrance to Willow Dale, which was commonly known as Mercier's hotel, was totally destroyed by fire last night and all that now remains to mark the site of the hotel is a mass of charred embers.

A little one-story building, close by, was also destroyed by fire. It is thought that the fire was of incendiary origin, but owing to the fact that the whole structure was ablaze when discovered it will be difficult to tell where the fire had its origin until it is investigated by the state police.

The fire was discovered shortly after 11:30 o'clock and an alarm was raised which brought residents of Dracut to the scene and later a special electric car containing Supt. Farrington and a number of the employees of the Boston & Northern Street Railway Co. was on the scene.

The blaze illuminated the sky in such a manner that people in this city were led to believe that there was a monstrous conflagration either in the Navy Yard or Collinsville. As it is difficult to tell the exact distance away that a blaze is when visible to the eye, scores of people thinking that the mills in Dracut were afire made their way to the Navy Yard.

Shortly after the discovery of the fire word was telephoned to Merrimack square and fearing that the fire might spread to Lakeview and destroy that property, a special car brought a gang of railway men to the scene, but the fire was practically over when they arrived. They looked after the company's property.

By 12:15 o'clock this morning there was nothing left of the building but a mass of ruins. Little or no attempt was made to save the building, and those present were kept well away from the fire by the fact that the poles bearing the heavy feed cables of the electric railway, and the trolley wire itself, were ablaze and threatened to fall at any moment.

The loss is roughly estimated between $2000 and $3000, the insurance on the hotel and furniture being carried through the agency of Fred C. Church. The building was three stories high and contained about 20 sleeping rooms while on the first floor was a large public apartment and several small rooms.

The hotel was owned by John P. Nolan and was erected in 1900 by Joseph Mercier and occupied by him, later by Arthur Nollin and then Joseph Gagnon. It was recently leased by Charles Murray, of the Navy Yard, who intended using it as a hotel this summer. There was no one in the hotel at the time the fire started.

are meeting with general favor. The mandamus proceedings against the assistant judges will be dropped. Under the law the commission should have been appointed not later than March 17th.

Both Judge Plumley and Judge Redfield are candidates for re-election, both claiming that the public should support them in view of the stand each has taken relative to the appointment of license commissioners. Frank Allen of Fair Haven is also a candidate.

TO BE ARBITRATED

HOLYOKE, May 24.—With only ten of the 170 members present the Holyoke Street Railway Employees' Union voted today after four hours' deliberation to accept the proposition of the Holyoke Street Railway Co. This proposition is that the company and its employees shall abide by the decision of the special board of arbitration which is now considering the demands of the Springfield carmen.

There has been no strike here. This week employees made a demand about three weeks ago for a maximum rate of $2.70 a day for nine hours.

No Heat Except Where Needed

CHOIR FESTIVAL

Has Raised Goodly Sum

for Playgrounds

The receipts of the two nights of the choir festival in aid of public playgrounds in this city will amount to over $600 according to a report made by the committee in charge. A meeting of the committee was held yesterday afternoon and though all of the money has not as yet been turned in the committee is assured that the receipts will be more than $600.

Besides the receipts of the festival available the College club by its own efforts has raised $300 for the same purpose, making a total of about $900 for providing additional supervision and equipment for the playgrounds.

The park commission has already made provision for men supervisors, therefore it is thought that the greater part of the fund raised by the committee in charge of the festival will be used to provide equipment.

DONALD MEEK

Former Lowell Actor Had a Narrow Escape

BOSTON, May 24.—Donald Meek, formerly of the Academy of Music of Lowell, and George Hassell, members of the Castle Square Theatre stock company, were thrown from a phaeton yesterday afternoon and the horse they were driving ran over two miles through crowded streets until stopped at Tremont street and Temple place by Patrolman Patrick J. McLaughlin of station 4.

When the horse came tearing along Tremont street the crowds rushed to the sidewalk with shouts of fright and warning. Patrolman McLaughlin, the crossing officer at Temple place, ran into the middle of the street and sprang for the horse's bridle.

Pulling the head of the horse far to the side, McLaughlin threw all his weight against the animal's left side and both man and horse fell heavily to the asphalted street. The horse struggled fiercely, and his heels narrowly missed the head of the policeman.

Spectators, including William Slagle of 55 Pleasant street, ran up and held the horse securely. McLaughlin was severely shaken up and suffered minor injuries to his head and ankle.

Scores of people narrowly escaped being injured by the horse. Frightened at the corner of Columbus avenue and Chandler street, the animal kicked itself free and ran along Chandler street to Clarendon, to Tremont, and along Tremont to Temple place. He crashed into the back of

Frank Pearson at Dover and Tremont streets, threw Pearson to the ground, knocked the horse over.

The horse was recently purchased by Mr. Meek. "Dan" was given his first try-out by his new owner yesterday.

On Columbus avenue a dray horse pushed his nose up against "Dan's" neck. "Dan" sprang forward at the touch, then stopped suddenly and threw out his heels. He caught the perch of the light phaeton with his hoofs and broke the shafts. With the sudden stop Meek and Hassell plunged head first over the dashboard and struck the ground.

Meek fell almost under the heels of the horse. As Hassell fell he reached out and grasped a rope hanging from the dray. The friction on the rope strands burned his palms almost to the bone. When Meek and Hassell scrambled to their feet, "Dan" was disappearing around the corner of Clarendon street. The actors brushed their clothes and refused the help of the crowd who rushed up. They had a soda. Hassell's hand was dressed and then Meek started to hunt for his horse.

At Castle Square and near the corner of Pleasant street, women narrowly escaped being struck by the horse. At the Pleasant street subway entrance the horse, with the broken shafts and harness dangling, rushed between two horses. When the horse stopped, his hind hoofs were gone and his legs were badly cut.

PRESIDENT TAFT

INVITED TO VISIT BOSTON ON JULY FOURTH

WASHINGTON, May 24.—The Boston 1915 committee wants President Taft to participate in a safe and sane celebration of the Fourth of July at Boston. Senator Lodge received a letter from the committee yesterday asking him to extend the invitation.

Mr. Lodge expects to receive the president's reply today. President Taft is scheduled to address the teachers convention at Boston on July 4.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

The new program seen at the Opera House yesterday for the first three days of this week is a diversified one and includes comedy, good singing and sensational features in the vaudeville acts and strong dramatic features and good comedy in the motion picture part of the bill. Grace LaVelle and Co. are seen in a comedy, offering called "The Electric Doll," which Miss LaVelle is seen as the "doll," looks handsome and is the possessor of a fine soprano voice that is heard to advantage in several selections. The comedy of the act is supplied by Jimmie Callahan, a clever comedian, who is a big local favorite and kept the audience in roars of laughter. The sensational part of the program was

Dr. Temple's Treatment Free to the Sick

THIS IS THE OFFER
Anyone applying for treatment at the office of Dr. Temple, 111 Central street, on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday, Sunday, or on any day of the week, will be treated free, that is, without charge or compensation whatsoever for medicines, office treatment or advice. No money will be asked or accepted under any circumstances. This is absolutely and positively free to all sufferers with any form of a nervous or chronic disease of the stomach, liver, kidneys, bladder, blood or rectum. The offer is limited in time only. You must come this week.

THE FREE TREATMENT PLAN is not a philanthropic or charity offer, but simply a business proposition, made for the purpose of bringing quickly acquainted with the stock, to introduce this new and progressive method of treatment and to prove this wonderful system of healing; therefore, all who call, the high, the low, the rich, the poor, without fear or favor. The doctor believes that the grateful testimonials of the many who will be relieved and cured will attract public attention to his office and system of treatment and bring sufficient patronage to repay for the great outlay and expense entailed by this offer.

Observe the days and hours which the Free Treatment is given: Mondays and Wednesdays, 10 a. m. to 12 p. m.; 2 to 5 p. m.; Sundays, 10 a. m. to 12 p. m.; 2 to 5 p. m. to 8 p. m. only.

THEATRE VOYONS

A lesson to husbands direct to the point is contained in the story of "The Danger Line" shown today at the Theatre Voyons. It is a picture strong in dramatic force and one that drives home the danger of neglecting one's wife for business. "Race for a Bride" is an interesting subject and "An Indian Girl's Romance" is a clever picture of Indian life. The comedy "Marmaduke Water" is a real hit and the musical selections are unequalled. The recent funeral of King Edward was the most important event and the motion picture makers got several good pictures. The Theatre Voyons will show the best of these within the next two weeks just as soon as they can be marketed in this country.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

The American Cowboy Quartet at the Academy this week are making a decided hit with the patrons of this popular playhouse.

Miss Claudine Green is a dainty little singer and dancer, charming and is doing some very clever dancing. Miss Claudia Bessette is singing illustrated songs in her pleasing way and the views of ancient Greece are instructive and entertaining.

The prices remain the same, five and ten cents.

STAR THEATRE

Amateurs, young and old, will participate in the second evening's show at the Star theatre tonight, and a lot of fun is in store for the attendants. The amateur shows at this theatre possess a great deal of originality and there is always a goodly number of would-be actors on hand. The show consisting of talking pictures, motion pictures and illustrated songs is "the biggest and best in Lowell," and the admission of five cents includes a seat. Women and children are tendered special attention.

EMPIRE THEATRE

Palmer & Lewis head the vaudeville bill at the Empire in their one act play, "Footlight Flashers." Miss Lewis is a graceful dancer and assisted by Mr. Palmer makes a hit with several dances and songs, using eight changes of costume from a fine wardrobe. The Japanese dance, one that is encored several times, is a new and novel feature. The show is of high quality and is well worth the price of the ticket. Carl Statzer, the black face comedian, is funny enough to make the most sedate laugh. He is a clean-cut comedian with new comedy, songs and stories.

The moving pictures are new and for the next three days have been selected especially for children. The Wizard of Oz, showing the scare crow, the soldier and all the wild animals, seems to be most interesting for the little ones.

EARL OF STAMFORD DEAD

LONDON, May 23.—The Earl of Stamford died today. He was born in St. Johns, N. F. in 1850, a son of Rev. William Grey and Harriet, daughter of Rev. Francis Henry White. In 1885 he married Elizabeth L. Penelope, daughter of Rev. Theobald, rector of Lasham, Hants. A son, Lord Grey Groby, and a daughter, Lady Jane, survive.

In politics the earl was a liberal unionist. His home was Dunham Massey hall near Altrincham in Cheshire. He was at one time professor of classics and philosophy at Cambridge college of Barbadoes.

COLEMAN SENTENCE

Will be Used as Argument in Favor of Morse

BOSTON, May 24.—The question raised by George W. Coleman's sentence will be invoked, according to Walter E. Reid of Dorchester, a friend of Charles W. Morse, by the financier's counsel in seeking leave to file another writ of habeas corpus with the U. S. supreme court. Morse is serving a sentence of 15 years in the federal prison, Atlanta, Ga., and Reid has worked indefatigably to obtain a rehearing in the case, or pardon for his friend.

In the case of Coleman it was suggested that under section 320 of the federal statutes he could not be sentenced to hard labor, so he was sent to jail at Greenfield, where hard labor is not a requirement, for a term of 15 years. Mr. Morse's counsel will now ask the court to set aside the sentence of Morse, who was committed under the same section to the prison at Atlanta, where hard labor is part of the punishment.

The supreme court has twice refused a writ of habeas corpus in the Morse case, but never upon the point which is now to be raised. Mr. Reid feels confident that if Morse can get his case reviewed by the highest court in the land he will regain his liberty. He says that owing to the absence on a European trip of Martin W. Littleton of New York, his associate counsel, ex-Gov. Hoke Smith of Georgia will take up the point raised in the Coleman case.

INJURIES WERE FATAL

MAYOR MEEHAN FELL DOWN STAIRS RIOT WAS FEARED

Issues Statement in Reply to Michael Lee, of Charles St., Met Ex-Supt. Mayberry With a Fatal Accident

Both Were Obscured by the Clouds Last Night

Says Latter Had no Right to Sell City Property Without Turning Money Over to City Treasurer

In connection with the meeting of the committee on appropriations held last night and at which Solomon Mayberry, former superintendent of the charities department, appeared to explain alleged irregularities as to the sale of farm products and the disposition of the money received for same, during his administration, Mayor Meehan, today, gave a statement to the press in which he avers that Mr. Mayberry, by selling the products of the farm and failing to turn the money over to the city treasurer, ignored not only the city treasurer, but the chief of supplies and the mayor and that his act was contrary to the written instructions of the city solicitor. The mayor's statement:

"In going contrary to the written instructions of the city solicitor, Superintendent Mayberry showed that he was either ignorant in his construction of the English, or was willing to assume the responsibility of violating the provisions of the charter. That was one reason for his removal.

"Under date of Dec. 3, 1905, City Solicitor Duncan in a written opinion informed Superintendent Mayberry that he could exchange products of the farm for other products, but that if he sold the products the money must be turned over to the city treasurer. To quote from the opinion:

"Under the authority of above statute, I am of the opinion that the superintendent may either sell said products and turn the proceeds over to the city treasurer, or if he deems best, exchange them for such other materials, utensils or property in general as, in his opinion, can be profitably used in carrying on the business of the farm in a manner beneficial not only to the inmates, but also the city of Lowell.

"If anything could be plainer than the above, I would like to have it submitted. It seems to me that an opinion should not be necessary to define the rights of a department head in such a connection. Why, it is just as reasonable to think of a department head selling a piece of city property, taking the money and then buying another piece of property without going near the city treasurer's office.

"In his action, Mr. Mayberry ignored not only the city treasurer, but the chief of supplies and the mayor. He violated the conditions of his office, and the facts have been made known at the time of his removal but for a desire to pass the matter over for his sake. I have in my desk bills from grocers that were paid by Mr. Mayberry when he made farm purchases. They are in black and white, and cannot be denied. I challenge the committee on appropriations or any individual to attempt to deny Mr. Mayberry's conduct in the matter of receiving money for city farm property without turning the same over to the city treasurer."

When Crowd Got Excited on Market St.

There was considerable excitement in upper Market street last evening in which several hundred people participated. It all developed from a heated controversy on the sidewalk which it is said ended in blows. A squad of police assisted by several inspectors were hustled to the scene and dispersed the crowd. During the excitement a telephone fire alarm was sent in and six pieces of apparatus and the chief and assistant of the department were given a needless journey.

As a result of the trouble one man was arrested and booked at the police station for assault with a dangerous weapon. So far as can be learned no one was injured, though it is stated that there were several fist encounters before the police arrived on the scene.

It was during sidewalk discussions that the people grew loud in their talk, threats were made and it is said that there were several exchanges of blows and then there came a general demonstration in which hundreds took part. It was about 7.30 o'clock when the police learned of the excitement and Lieutenant Freeman and a squad of police were sent to the scene and for over an hour they were kept busy quelling the excited ones and as the latter dispersed the police found it necessary to make a general patrol of the entire colony to see that quietness was restored.

During the excitement which attracted hundreds to the scene the cry of "a big fight" led some person to interpret it "a big fire" and the latter sent a telephone alarm into the police station and in a minute or more the automobile protective came through Market street at a mile a minute halt and in less than five minutes there were, besides the protective, three fire engines, a truck, a chemical, Chief Hosmer and Assistant Chief Norton, on the scene.

It did not take the firemen long to realize that there was no fire and they returned to their respective quarters.

James Gargulakos was singled out as the chief disturber, but he eluded the police. He was arrested later, charged with assault on Antonio Sampanatos.

COMET AND MOON

Both Were Obscured by the Clouds Last Night

The great celestial spectacle billed for last night, with Halley's comet and the moon for chief actors in a jolt performance, was prohibited at the final moment by the meteorological censor, "B. A. D. Weather," and thousands who had gathered for the sight again went home disappointed. It was discouraging enough to miss the comet in the early morning hours, but to be balked of the evening view after nearly a week of anticipation turned the popular feeling into something like disgust. There was certainly a pretence of clear sky soon after 7 p. m. just to whet the appetite for more, and by 7.30 everybody was looking for the flaming scimitar which was to emerge into the sky after sundown. But before 8 o'clock the hope had vanished. The firmament was then overcast. Great cloud galleons were sailing across it bound for the northwest. They were relieved at 8.10 by a pea-soup fog which for hours blanketed the heavens from horizon to horizon.

The comet was, doubtless, there behind the screen, but whether bright or faint, with a tail curved or straight, bifurcated or fan-shaped, or with no tail at all, nobody could tell. Even the astronomers lost their patience. At 10.45 p. m. the business end of Halley's descended below the horizon as full of mystery as Tom Moore's "Volled Prophet of Khorassan" and twice as exasperating.

The moon did not shroud her face last night in awe at sight of the comet's tail. But there was a lunar eclipse all that. It was scheduled for totality, and during most of the time was "total" in more senses than one. Such predictions as were made of it had none of the uncertainty which attends predictions of the shapes and movements of comets' tails. The moon in its eastward motion reached the penumbra of the earth's shadow at 10.46 p. m., the time for the beginning of the eclipse, and left the penumbra on the other side at 2.22 a. m. the phenomenon of obscuration lasting 3 hours and 36 minutes. The moon was in the umbra, or darkest part of the earth's shadow, from about midnight to 1 a. m., and this formed what would have been the most spectacular phase of the eclipse had the meteorological conditions been favorable.

TAIL OF COMET
IS SAID TO BE FORTY DEGREES LONG

CHICAGO, May 24.—Forty degrees for the new born tail of the comet and a doubling of its luminosity owing to flaming hydro carbon gas, were recorded by the astronomers at Williams bay observatory last night after the spectrographic negatives had been developed. Prof. Frost, director of the observatory, announced the results of the computations.

"Four of us agree that the new tail of the comet is 40 degrees long," he said. "The tail was visible long after the head had set. The darkening of the sky by the eclipse of the moon helped greatly in the observations. Observations by the hand spectroscope showed carbon bands in the head of the comet. These were confirmed by the development of the negatives made with the 12 inch telescope. The internal activity of the comet is in full blast. It is making gas at a terrific rate."

Prof. Frost said he did not expect to see the old tail in the east this morning. "The old tail must disappear," he added. "When detached from its source it can only condense or fade away as the end of an active tail always does."

Fine weather for observations prevailed throughout most of the night at Williams bay, although it was cloudy and rainy in Chicago. During the total eclipse the moon presented the appearance of a dull red disc in the heavens. This, according to Prof. Barnard of Yerkes observatory, was due to the red rays of the solar spectrum which had the property of bending inward.

DEATHS

FUNERALS

O'NEIL—The funeral of John J. O'Neil took place yesterday afternoon from his home, 49 Union street, and was largely attended. There were many beautiful floral tributes including a large pillow surmounted with a cross and inscribed "Resting" from Mrs. McFarland and son, and a large spray from a friend. The bearers were John McFarland, John Griffin, George Dow, James Monahan, Lewis Baker and John Ducharme. At the grave Rev. Denis Murphy of St. Michael's church read the committal prayers. The burial was in the Catholic cemetery in charge of Undertakers J. F. O'Donnell & Sons.

SAWYER—The funeral of Harry T. Sawyer, aged 21 years, the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Sawyer, who was accidentally drowned while boating last Friday afternoon in Boston harbor, took place from his residence, 101 Trenton street, East Boston, Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock and was largely attended. There were many beautiful floral offerings. The services were conducted by Rev. Charles Jones, pastor of the Trinity Baptist church. The body was forwarded to Lowell on the 3 o'clock train from Boston, arriving in this city at 3.37. The burial was in the family lot in the Edison cemetery in charge of Undertakers J. B. Currier Co.

PARKER—The funeral of Willard S. Parker took place yesterday afternoon from the residence on the Boston road, with a large attendance of relatives and friends. The services were conducted by Rev. L. L. Greene, pastor of the Unitarian church. Among the many beautiful floral offerings were a pillow inscribed "Papa" from the family, and a pillow bearing the grana emblem from the members of Chelsea Grange. The bearers were J. C. Sweetser, E. W. Sweetser, F. A. Hazen and George M. Wright. Burial was in Forefathers cemetery in charge of Undertaker Perham.

CHENEY—The funeral of LaRoy Arthur Cheney was held yesterday afternoon from his late home on the Lowell road, attended by a great many relatives and friends. The services were conducted by Rev. J. C. Wilson of the Chelmsford Street Baptist church at Lowell and Rev. Henry A. Cornwell of Groton, a former pastor of the Central Baptist church at Chelmsford. The selections, "Lead, Kindly Light," "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" and "Sometime We'll Understand" were sung by Miss Hattie Perkins, Miss Marion Warren, Fred Warren and Percy A. Yarnold, members of the choir at the Chelmsford Street Baptist church. The bearers were Sherwood Coggin, William Scott, Herbert Draper and Alfred Lovejoy. The arrangements were in charge of William H. Hall, and burial was in Forefathers cemetery, under the direction of Undertaker C. M. Young. There were many beautiful flowers.

A NEW REMEDY FOR ALL SKIN DISEASES

Stops the Itching and Begins Healing Immediately

The discovery by a chemist of the new remedy Cadum is recognized as one of the most important advances in medical circles in recent years. Cadum is made of one of Nature's medicinal plants, the extract of which has been combined with other ingredients, each possessing in a marked degree valuable therapeutic properties. The proportion of each ingredient has been so adjusted that the product, after careful experimentation and investigation, is a perfected product for the treatment of skin diseases has been the result. Cadum is the most effective agent known in the treatment of eczema, two to four weeks' time being sufficient to cure ordinary cases. From the first moment when applied, the itching and rapid relief is felt, and where the disease presents an unsightly appearance, the thin coating of Cadum almost conceals the sore. This wonderful compound is equally effective in other skin troubles, such as salt rheum, ringworm, itch, acne, scabs, itching piles, shaving, prickly heat, boils, inflamed skin, red noses, pimples, blackheads, psoriasis, herpes, tetter, etc. Cadum is entirely free from any mercury or other poisonous and dangerous admixtures or animal fats or greases. Every ingredient of Cadum for which a standard of purity is set by the U. S. Pharmacopoeia, complies with that standard, so as to insure the greatest efficiency. In color, Cadum so nearly matches that of the skin that an application is scarcely noticeable. An important feature to be noted in connection with Cadum is that it stops the terrible itching of eczema at once, and begins the healing process with the first application. It is, moreover, a harmless preparation and cannot injure the most delicate skin. Many of the results achieved by Cadum may be truly described as remarkable, and have exceeded the expectations of the chemist who gave it to the world. It is a powerful antiseptic that destroys disease-producing germs, allays inflammation and exerts a wonderfully soothing and healing influence on the skin tissues. It is a regrettable fact that skin affections are still much misunderstood, and often the most complicated treatment is undertaken at great expense, whereas such a simple and inexpensive remedy as Cadum would have saved time and expense. AN ASSAULT CASE

Man Fined $12 For Assaulting Special Officer

Thomas Goulas was arraigned before Judge Hadley in police court this morning on a complaint charging him with assault and battery on John V. Mahan, a special police officer of the Tremont & Suffolk mills. The alleged assault took place Sunday afternoon shortly after 3.30 o'clock while Mahan was trying to place Goulas under arrest after it is alleged he had attempted to assault an unknown young woman.

James Stuart Murphy conducted the defense, the prosecution being presented by Major Edward J. Noyes.

Special Officer John V. Mahan, of the Tremont & Suffolk mills, and the first witness for the government, testified that about 3.35 o'clock Sunday afternoon while he was standing in front of the mill office in Suffolk street his attention was attracted by the street by the defendant and a young woman struggling. Witness said that he saw Goulas take a heavy wrench out of his pocket and aim a blow at the woman, but the latter avoided the blow and ran up the street.

Officer Mahan produced a wrench, which he claimed was the one used by the defendant, and said that as soon as he saw the trouble he rushed to the scene and after showing Goulas his badge placed the defendant under arrest. Mahan said that Goulas kicked him and then taking the wrench struck him with it in the back of the neck. He finally succeeded in placing the man under arrest.

Harry A. Thibault, of 62 Race street, said that he was present and saw the trouble between Goulas and the woman and also the assault on Mahan by the defendant. The witness corroborated the testimony of Mr. Mahan in almost every particular.

Thomas Goulas, the defendant, when placed on the stand said he had known the girl in question for about a year and a half. He met her in Manchester and was keeping company with her. She came to Lowell about three days before the alleged assault and he met her, by accident, at the depot and during the three days that she was in Lowell the pair had been to the show 15 different times.

He knew that her first name was Annie, but he did not know what her nationality was. He said that he met her in Suffolk street Sunday afternoon and was fooling with her. He admitted that he had grabbed her by the shoulder, but that it was done only in a spirit of fun. After she left him he said that Officer Mahan came up to him and wanted to know what he was doing with the girl and when he told him that she was his girl the officer struck him.

Continuing the defendant said: "When he struck me I took the wrench out of my pocket and was about to hit him when he showed me his badge and I turned the wrench over to him and submitted to arrest without any further trouble."

Several witnesses corroborated in part the testimony offered by the defendant.

At the conclusion of the case the defendant was found guilty and a fine of $12 was imposed. He appealed.

BOMB EXPLODEDIt Was Thrown From
Subway Train

NEW YORK, May 24.—The explosion of a bomb thrown from a train on a subway system as the train was passing through the surface yards of the road on the edge of the Harlem district today seriously injured a watchman, broke the hawesers of a wrecking tug in the canal and set her adrift, and created a panic among the tenants of a big apartment house nearby. The police are trying to find out if labor troubles had anything to do with the outrage. The missile is believed to have been hurled from an open rear window of a train, where the thrower had no difficulty in escaping detection. Construction work by a Pennsylvania steel concern is progressing in the subway yards and about 75 men are working there on an "open shop" system. Little damage was done the company's property in the yards.

SUNDAY

A grand Fete Dieu procession in honor of the feast of Corpus Christi will be held in the open next Sunday in the vicinity of St. Jean Baptiste church, a beautiful feature of which will be the throwing of flowers before the Blessed Sacrament as it is carried through the streets. A group of 52 tiny girls from St. Jean's convent will precede the host, carrying baskets of flowers. The girls scattering the flowers will walk backwards before the host, while another group will walk behind and gather up the flowers, exchanging places with the others as their baskets become empty, thus making the supply of flowers inexhaustible.

Other groups of girls will also appear in the procession, some carrying the gold chalice on a white bath cushion, and others holding white ribbons. Besides these the whole school will form a cortege to the host, all of the little girls wearing white.

PRESENTED PURSEGRANITEVILLE PARISHIONERS
SURPRISE FR. McNAMARA

Rev. John J. McNamara, curate at St. John's, North Chalmersford and St. Catherine's, Graniteville, preached his farewell sermon at the latter church on Sunday morning.

At the conclusion of the mass J. A. Lively, sexton of the church, stepped forward and in behalf of the members of St. Catherine's parish presented Rev. Fr. McNamara a substantial purse of money. This act was a great surprise to Fr. McNamara and he was visibly affected. When he could find words to speak he said: "I have met with many surprises during the past few days but this is the climax. Words are but feeble to thank you for your kindness to me." After asking the congregation if they would kindly say a little prayer for his intention he bestowed his blessing upon the congregation.

After mass a long line of people filed into the vestry of the church to shake hands with Fr. McNamara, and extend their best wishes for his success in his new parish.

SUMMER HOTEL

ABOUT THE ONLY FIRE APPARATUS AVAILABLE

THE OLD MERCIER HOTEL AT THE ENTRANCE TO WILLOW DALE IN FLAMES

At Lakeview Laid in Ashes in Fierce Midnight Blaze

The large wooden building at the entrance to Willow Dale, which was commonly known as Mercier's hotel, was totally destroyed by fire last night and all that now remains to mark the site of the hotel is a mass of charred timbers.

A little, one-story building, close by, was also destroyed by fire.

It is thought that the fire was of incendiary origin, but owing to the fact that the whole structure was ablaze when discovered it will be difficult to tell where the fire had its origin until it is investigated by the state police.

The fire was discovered shortly after 11:30 o'clock and an alarm was raised which brought residents of Trout to the scene and later a special electric train containing Supt. Farrington and a number of the employees of the Boston & Northern Street Railway Co. was on the scene.

The blaze illuminated the sky in such a manner that people in this city were led to believe that there was a monster conflagration either in the Navy Yard or Collingville. As it is difficult to tell the exact distance away that a blaze is when visible to the eye, scores of people thinking that the mills in the Navy Yard were on fire made their way to the Navy Yard.

Shortly after the discovery of the fire word was telephoned to Merrimack square and fearing that the fire might spread to Lakeview and destroy that property, a special car brought a

CHOIR FESTIVAL

Has Raised Goodly Sum for Playgrounds

The receipts of the two nights of the choir festival in aid of public playgrounds in this city will amount to over $550 according to a report made by the committee in charge. A meeting of the committee was held yesterday afternoon and though all of the money has not as yet been turned in the committee is assured that the receipts will be more than $650.

Besides the receipts of the festival available the College club by its own efforts has raised $300 for the same purpose, making a total of about $1,000 for providing additional supervision and equipment for the playgrounds.

The park commission has already made provision for men supervisors, therefore it is thought that the greater part of the fund raised by the committee in charge of the festival will be used to provide equipment.

EX-SUPT. MAYBERRY

Defends His Administration at the City Farm

When Called Before the Appropriations Committee—The Law Authorizes Him to Exchange Products of Farm for Supplies, but He Sold Products and Used the Money for Purchase of Supplies

At a meeting of the appropriations committee, held last night, Solomon Mayberry, former superintendent of the city farm, read a type-written statement having to do with his administration. Mr. Mayberry had been criticised for failing to turn into the city treasury the money he received by the sale of farm products. Instead of turning the money into the city treasury, Mr. Mayberry purchased supplies required at the farm.

The committee voted to recommend to the city council that the "feeble minded" bill, no-called, be paid by the city treasury. A comparison between the conditions at the farm Jan. 1, 1909, and Jan. 1, 1910, had been asked for.

The following statement was read by Mr. Mayberry:

To the Appropriations Committee of the City Council:

Gentlemen: I am asked to offer some explanation of transactions occurring at the city farm during my administration as superintendent. I cheerfully comply.

I understand that the criticism arises from the fact that certain products of the farm were sold and supplies for the institution purchased and paid for.

The whole question hangs upon the word "exchange."

Under the acts of 1897, the superintendent has authority to dispose of the products of the farm. Under the city solicitor's opinion, he has authority to exchange products for supplies.

Products, consisting mostly of pigs, to the amount, in round numbers, of $1000 were disposed of.

In attempting to exchange these products, which was done in most cases, I found that, with the exception of articles like butter, there was nothing needed which would be exchanged directly for the farm products. We required sugar, tea, coffee, rolled oats, grain and potatoes.

The surplus products had been raised on the farm at the expense of the department, and if the money was turned into the city treasury, the department, as such, was a loser at least to the amount expended by it on the production. I, therefore, under what I believed to be the authority of law, in certain cases, fixed a price upon surplus product, and immediately purchased with the medium of exchange supplies required by the needs.

Every transaction, with the amount received and expended, in detail, was recorded at the city farm, carefully and accurately, and is there preserved. An apparently accurate copy thereof is the list of collections and expenditures produced and criticized by the present charity board.

I believed that I was following a well established precedent, but the record of former transactions of exchanges or sales was not at the city farm and is not elsewhere, to my knowledge.

The legislature undoubtedly foresaw that there would be a surplus of certain products, and a shortage of other products and supplies.

Would it be better, under the law, to exchange in every case surplus products for supplies not needed at a bad bargain or sell at a fixed price, and buy immediately, advantageously, things required?

I confess that I believed that the department should have credit for any profitable farming. I made a special effort to increase the product of the farm in every direction. The records show the result. That my administration resulted in a very substantial saving to the city is easily ascertained by anyone who cares to examine the figures.

I have no disposition to dodge the fact of the exchange of product, or the sale of product, and the purchase of supplies, if the latter words are preferred by those accustomed to technicality.

Every act was open to the public and the charity board, and was properly and clearly recorded during my administration.

If my interpretation of legal opinions and somewhat cloudy legislative acts fails to coincide with that of men of greater ability, I wish it to be remembered that the charity department and the city have been the gainers.

If the duties of superintendent were still being performed by me, I should still be doing in my "ignorance" what I believed to be, and still believe to be, dictated by common sense.

During the first three months of this year, the department from its appropriations found it unnecessary to spend a dollar for sugar, tea, coffee, rolled oats and potatoes. The history of the institution furnishes no precedent of such conditions.

I turned over to my successor full inventories as the inventory will show.

I received it with reduced appropriations, larders empty and many bills unpaid.

I fed well and cared well for the unfortunate under my charge, as I will show at any time and anywhere the occasion demands.

I invite your attention to the city auditor's office and the figures. They are too many to be referred to in detail here. The following will illustrate:

Total expended at farm:

1908, first four months.....	$20,593.56
1909, first four months.....	17,493.72
1910, first four months.....	13,803.35

These last four months are the period to which criticism is directed, I understand.

I followed to the best of my judgment the law laid down by the city solicitor. I did my duty and am content.

Cross examined by committee members, Mr. Mayberry said he had left the larders well stocked and he said the hay he left was better than any he had used. He said there wasn't any hay in the larders when he went there and he left the barns full of hay. He left 300 hogs at the farm, he said. He said there was a good crop at the farm last year. He said that all the coal he bought last year was paid for out of his appropriation. He said no sugar had been bought at the farm this year until he left. He said he spent about $75,000 last year, and that if he had remained at the farm it was his intention to pay the bill owed the Massachusetts Home for Feeble Minded Children.

The question of paying this bill was then taken up by the committee. The chairman said the bill should be paid. He said the bill had been considered when the appropriation was made. It was decided to report the facts to the city council with the recommendation that the charity board pay the bill.

In the matter of a loan of $65,000 for the purchase of a new pump for the Centralville pumping station, it was voted to refer the matter to the city solicitor to see if bids can be asked for before the appropriation is made, that the exact cost may be known before money is appropriated. Referring the matter to the city solicitor was in accordance with a suggestion offered by Alderman Carmichael.

The joint order to appropriate $4000 for an increase of wages of street department employees was taken from the table. Mr. Flanagan said that every street employee should receive $2 a day. Mr. Dexter said it would mean that all employees would want an increase.

Mr. Davis moved that the order be not adopted. Mr. Patton seconded the motion, and it was carried. Mr. Flanagan voting against.

The request of the park committee for an appropriation of $4000 for moth extermination was brought up by Mr. Gray. State Forester P. W. Tate had stated that unless an appropriation was made he would be obliged to go before the governor and ask that the city be forced to spend money. Last year $5000 was appropriated here for moth extermination. It cost Newton $20,000 last year to fight the moths, said the chairman.

Mr. Wainwright moved that an order be drawn recommending the expenditure of $3000 to fight the gypsy moths. It was carried.

Mr. Flanagan wanted to know about the $1000 which was appropriated to fix up the sidewalks on the North common. The chairman said that the matter is now up to the park commission; that it was asked for the board and was voted to them.

The order calling for $10,000 for repairs by the lands and buildings department was considered. Without opposition the item for $2000 to make additional sleeping rooms in the Protective house was carried. The item of $1500 for kalsominating at the high school was also favored, and on a vote, was carried. The next item, $1000 for a retaining wall at the Bartlett school, provoked some discussion. The wall is needed, it was said, to keep water from running into the school yard, and thence into the basement. Mr. Davis moved that the item be favored and it was recommended for adoption. It was also voted to allow $3000 for repairs at the city farm. The sum of $500 was asked for paving and concreting in school yards, and on motion of Mr. Jovett, it was passed. For bathroom repairs in fire houses $500 was asked. It was recommended. For plastering a ceiling at the Varnum school $300 was asked and allowed. The loan order as a whole was then passed.

The joint communication from the park commission, on petition of Geo. T. Hooper and others for the purchase of the Livingstone land for park purposes was referred to a sub-committee, consisting of Chairman Gray and Messrs. Davis and Flanagan, who were named to confer with the owners of the property relative to the price.

Adjourned.

BIG BAZAAR

IN AID OF ST. MARY'S CHURCH OPENS THIS EVENING

At Associate hall, this Wednesday and Thursday evenings a bazaar will be run which is going to be the most attractive and the most enjoyable of any that have been held in this city.

The final details, after weeks of hustling by the promoters, are almost completed, and when the bazaar opens this evening its varied program will appeal to the taste of the most critical patron. A program has been arranged that will insure the attendance of young and old.

St. Mary's church, Collinsville is running the event and for the improvement of that church the proceeds will be used. The bazaar is the first entertainment of its kind that the parishioners, under the direction of their pastor, Rev. Thomas Walsh, have undertaken. They are confident of success and they believe that it will be the most enjoyable and the most remunerative undertaking of its kind so far held in this city.

Not alone are residents of Collinsville interested in the success of this venture but those of Lowell who during the summer season have spent their Sundays in and about Dracut and who have attended St. Mary's church on that day, desire to see and will help to make the bazaar an enterprise which from the happy recall will be long remembered in the history of the city.

St. Mary's is growing rapidly. It has been raised recently to the standing of an independent parish; its people wish to improve their place of worship, and to do this, money must be raised. That the residents of Collinsville will, by their attendance, do the work of Father Walsh and his assistants, is assured, and that the parishioners' friends in Lowell will aid them in their efforts, is confidently expected.

Dancing has been arranged and will be one of the features of the festival. Kittredge's orchestra has been engaged and will be on hand during the three evenings.

The price of admission has been placed at twenty-five cents and it is expected also that a large number of people will purchase the season tickets good for the three nights that can be had for fifty cents.

PILGRIM COMMANDERY, I. O. O. F. The members of Pilgrim Commandery, I. O. O. F., held a "dinner night" at Centralville Old Fellows hall last night. There was a large attendance and the lady friends of the members were royally entertained.

During the early part of the evening what was known as a strawberry supper was served, the principal dish on the menu being strawberries.

The entertainment which was well arranged and carried out, there were songs by the Lytle Ladies' quartet, solos by Miss Etta Thompson, piano solos by George Willie and other musical selections. Miss Viola Marshall was accompanist of the evening. There were also separate remarks by Rev. N. W. Matthews and Rev. J. M. Craig, George Taylor and others. Charles A. Clough was toastmaster.

The affair was under the direction of an able committee consisting of C. C. Thompson, chairman; W. S. Cross, W. A. Hall and A. O. Wheeler.

PUBLIC PARK BILL PASSED NEW YORK, May 24.—Four of the Odell bills, providing for the acceptance by the state of the gift land and money from Mrs. Harriman and others for the purpose of extending the public park along the west bank of the Hudson river to Newburgh, passed the senate last night.

ECONOMIC CLUB

Entertained at the First Trinitarian Church

A party of 25 men, representing the economic department of Harvard university and Prof. F. G. Peabody's seminary, which deals with the relation of the church to social questions, came to Lowell yesterday and toured the city on invitation of Rev. George P. Kenngott.

After the tour, supper was served at the First Trinitarian church. Fifteen of the party are members of the graduate students of Harvard, and some of them instructors in the economic department. The club members in two weeks, and discussing the relation of the church to social questions, came to Lowell yesterday and toured the city on invitation of Rev. George P. Kenngott.

The supper was served at 6.30, and was followed by speaking. Mr. Julius Klein, president of the visiting club, presided. The speaker was Mayor Meehan on "The City," Dr. J. H. Martin on "Work of Health Department," Judge Pickman on "The Park Commission," Harvey B. Greene on "Work of Board of Trade," F. A. Bowen on "Our Manufacturers," Rev. Charles T. LOST A HAND DANVERS MAN CAUGHT IT IN ICE CREAM FREEZER

DANVERS, May 24.—Horace E. Emerson, while operating an ice cream freezer at his place on Maple street yesterday afternoon caught his left hand in the gearing. Before the machinery could be stopped the hand was severed from the arm.

With rare presence of mind, Mr. Emerson seized a towel, and, tightly wrapping it about his arm, succeeded in staying the flow of blood until he obtained surgical assistance. He walked to his home after the accident.

The accident was caused by an attempt on the part of Mr. Emerson to remove salt and other debris from the top of a large freezer, which was in rapid motion.

WEALTHY PUBLISHER WEDS CHICAGO, May 24.—W. D. Boyce, a wealthy publisher and paper manufacturer, was married to Miss Virginia Lee yesterday. It had previously been arranged to hold the wedding on June 1. Boyce was attacked and beaten last Thursday night in a hotel by his son, Benjamin Boyce, who was subsequently arrested on complaint of the hotelkeeper. Young Boyce is said to have objected to his father's marriage to Miss Lee.

RABBI MAGNIES DESIGNS NEW YORK, May 24.—Dr. J. T. A SURPRISING DROP IN SKIRT PRICES

Five Hundred Dress Skirts of the grade and quality usually sold at $6 and $7, marked now at almost half the regular price, is the news from the Suit Department today. A manufacturer with these skirts all made up, preferring ready cash to a dozen racks full of goods, accepted an offer we made for the entire lot—an offer so very low that we are able to turn these over to you at a price that barely covers the cost of material.

The skirts are here and you will be surprised and gratified when you see them and know the price.

The cloths are of the very best qualities of mannish worsteds, black and navy mohairs and scicilians, black and navy chiffon Panamas, gray serges, black and white checks, blue and green plaids, brown and white checks.

Every skirt is made in the very latest style, with best workmanship and the fit and finish is perfection. Regular prices have been $5, $6 and $7. All are now marked

BRYCE IS SILENT NARROW ESCAPE

As to Report of His Withdrawal Tufts Man Fell Distance of 35 Feet

MEDFORD, May 24.—Edwin P. Busbee of Methuen, president of the Tufts college aero club, had a narrow escape from serious injury late yesterday afternoon on the Tufts athletic field, when the club glider, Tufts 1, in which he was riding, plunged from a height of 35 feet to the ground.

The glider was being towed at the rate of 26 miles an hour by an automobile driven by William C. Faglion of Roxbury and containing Alfred B. White of Taunton, Roy G. Nickerson of Provincetown and Max G. Vincent of Girard, Pa.

The ascent was the second of the afternoon and the glider was traveling in great shape behind the auto over the varsity baseball diamond, when the leads to the tow rope broke and the machine dashed to the ground.

The craft started to pitch before the ropes broke, but Busbee kept his head well, and when the glider struck the earth the club president calmly plucked himself out of the debris, entirely uninjured, and unwound himself from the guy wires and cloth.

The glider was severely damaged, and although it may be repaired later, it is probable that glider work at Tufts will not be resumed this spring. The front elevating plane and the back plane were ground to pieces. The stays in the two main planes were almost without exception smashed and the cloth was completely destroyed.

The event aroused considerable excitement, as two baseball games were in progress on the athletic field diamond and a large squad of track candidates was out on the track.

This is the second accident that has happened to the glider. A few weeks ago Merritt O. White of Clintonville, O., was sent to the earth, but escaped with a few cuts on his hands.

TO THE HOUSEKEEPERS OF LOWELL

We are to introduce to the housekeepers of Lowell, the merits of the Asbestos Sad Iron. To do this, we have employed a lady who is an expert in the use of this iron, and she is to make a visit to all the homes and will take pleasure in demonstrating to you the advantages of this iron over all others. We ask that you give her a few minutes of your valuable time when she calls, as we know it will prove both of interest and advantage to you to do so. We thank you in advance for the courtesy you may extend, and assure you that you will be well repaid for the time you give. She will present her card of introduction as she calls.

A HORSESHOE VICTORY

Lowell Lost Game and Then Won It Back

Finlayson Played Eight Great Innings and Threw the Game Away in the Ninth—Ainsmith Cuts Up Monkeyshines and Disgusts the Spectators

Lowell won from Lawrence at Spaulding park yesterday afternoon in a heart breaking finish, the home team having no chance to pull off the victory, but getting it just the same.

Pitcher Finlayson of the visitors won the game himself and then threw it away. He held Lowell down well as to hits, struck out 10 men and batted magnificently, bringing in most of the visitors' runs with a home run, a triple and a single. But in the ninth inning, with two out, Bonites on third and Fitzpatrick on first, Finlayson threw to third to get Bonites and made a bad aim, the ball going clear to the left field fence, both men scoring and tying it up. He then lost his nerve and the rest was easy.

There was one unfortunate and one disgusting feature of the game. While running as fast as they could go after a long hit by Cooney, Reynolds and Perrott ran into each other and both dropped to the ground unconscious. They were out for several minutes and when they revived were too dazed to continue in the game. Reynolds was bruised over the eye, while Perrott received an injury to his leg. The accident might have been averted had anyone called to the fielders as to which should take the ball.

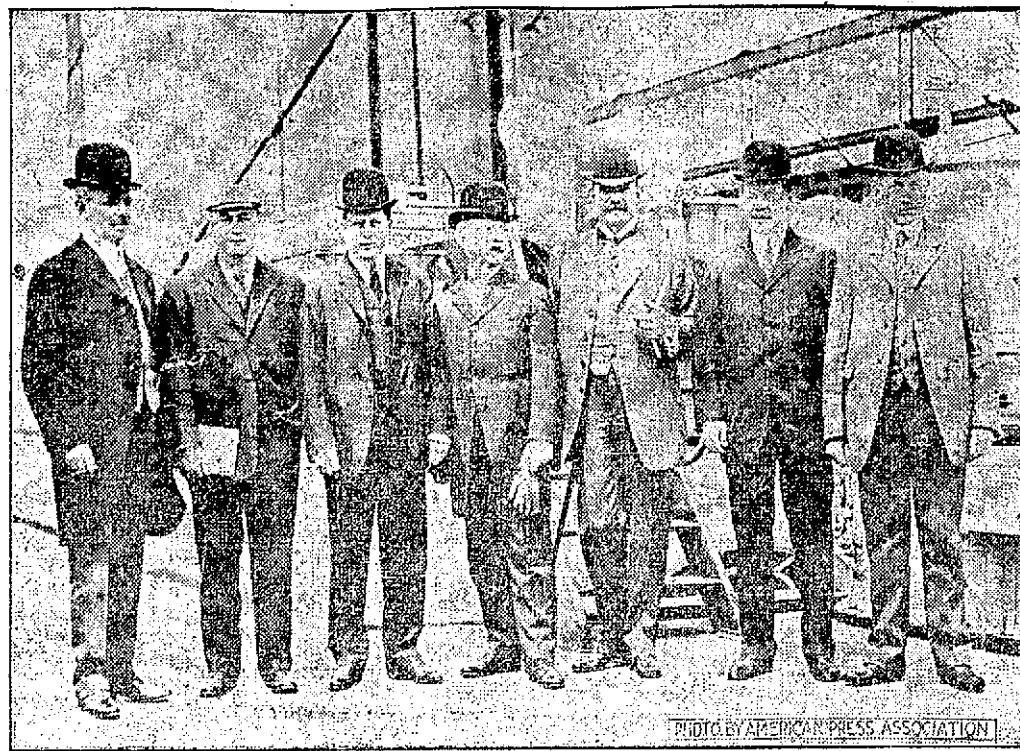

In the ninth inning Magee stole second base with the score tied and Ainsmith threw wild to second, allowing Magee to get third. To the surprise of all, Ainsmith ran over to umpire Lanigan and started to put a hand about some alleged interference on the part of Fitzpatrick, who was at bat. The outcome of it was that he was chased from the grounds. He started away, but came back and made a bluff attempt to assault the umpire, taking several players to hold him. The crowd, particularly the ladies present, were disgusted at the rowdy actions of Ainsmith, for not only was there no occasion for them, but they came as an afterthought on the part of Ainsmith.

TWO OF DETROIT'S CLEVER YOUNG PITCHERS DOING GOOD WORK

Early games show that Hughie Jennings' pitcher staff has been considerably strengthened by the addition of the three youngsters Stroud, Perrott, and Browning, whom the Tigers' manager obtained from the minor leagues last fall. Of the three the showing of Browning seems to be the best. This little mite, who does not weigh more than 135 pounds, has won two straight games from the Clevelanders recently by his clever pitching. In talking of this fellow the other day Jennings said: "Browning is little, but, oh my, oh my! He's another Charlie Giffith and will make a record for himself before the season ends." Stroud and Perrott have also won several games by their clever twirling. With the three cracker balls

NEW YORK, May 24.—The seven members of the boundaries commission from the United States who are to appear before the permanent international court of arbitration at The Hague in an effort to settle the Newfoundland fishery dispute are on the high seas, planning their case, which will be opened the first week in June. United States Senator Root goes as special counsel. A number of persons who will act as legal aids to Mr. Root in his presentation of the American case were also on board, including Chandler Anderson, special agent for the United States; George Turner of the state of Washington; Samuel J. Elder of Boston; Charles B. Warren of Detroit; Robert

Lansing of Watertown, N. Y., and James Brown Scott, solicitor of the state department. Mr. Root said that, although no definite limits could be set, he expected the conference would end in about three months. Whether he would meet Colonel Roosevelt, he said, he did not know, but that if he did the arrangements would be made by wire-

Ainsmith, Wolfgang struck out and Fitz foul flied to Noyes.

Score—Lowell 1, Lawrence 3.

Third Inning

The visitors went out in quick order in the third inning. Catterson bunted, Wolfgang and was out at first while Reynolds and Perrott struck out.

Lowell scored a run in the latter half of the inning as a result of two of the visiting fielders colliding with each other. Vance hit to Finlayson and was out at first. Cooney went to third on a deep left center field and Reynolds and Perrott started on the run for the ball. Owing to the fact that each had his eyes on the ball they collided with such force that both men were knocked out and Cooney came all the way around and scored. When Reynolds and Perrott were picked up it was found that both were in bad condition, Reynolds having a bruise over the eye and they were retired from the game. Myers going to center field and Capt. Bannan to left field. After the game was resumed, Magee foul flied to Noyes, Fitzpatrick drew a base on balls and Jones closed the inning by striking out.

Score—Lowell 2, Lawrence 3.

Fourth Inning

In the fourth inning Crisham hit to Wolfgang and was out at first. Kruger hit to the center field fence for a three bagger. Noyes hit to Cooney and the latter threw Kruger out at the plate. Ainsmith hit to Morse and was out at first.

In Lowell's half Hornelli drew a base on balls, but a few minutes later Ainsmith caught him napping off first and threw him out. Morse struck out, Wolfgang singled by short stop, but he failed to get beyond first for Fitzpatrick struck out.

Score—Lowell 2, Lawrence 3.

Fifth Inning

Finlayson, the home run hitter, sent the ball over Jones' head for a clean three bagger, but Jones threw bad to Magee and Finlayson scored. Miller hit to Cooney and was out at first. Catterson flied to Magee and Bannan drew a base on balls, but the latter was caught off first by Wolfgang.

Vance flied to Noyes. Cooney foul flied to Ainsmith and Magee flied to Bannan.

Sixth Inning

Lawrence scored another in the sixth inning. Myers bunted to Wolfgang for a single and the latter threw bad to first and the runner went to third. Crisham hit to Vance and the latter held the ball a little too long in order to keep Myers on third and Crisham reached first. Crisham and Myers then worked a double steal, the latter scoring. Kruger and Noyes struck out and Ainsmith hit to Fitz and was out at first.

In the latter half of the inning Fitzpatrick struck out. Jones followed with a single to center field, but Hornelli hit to Bannan and the latter tagged Jones and then threw to first for a double play.

Score—Lowell 2, Lawrence 5.

Seventh Inning

Finlayson made his third hit in this inning, making a single to right field. He went to second on Miller's sacrifice. Catterson hit along the first base line and was second out and Bannan was third out on strikes.

Morse hit to Miller and was out at first and Wolfgang hit to Finlayson and was second out at first. Fitzpatrick singled to left field. Vance hit to Noyes forcing Fitz at second.

Score—Lowell 2, Lawrence 5.

Eighth Inning

Myers all to Vance but Morse on first dropped the ball and the runner was safe. Crisham hit to Fitz who fumbled and the runner was safe at first while Myers went to third. Kruger hit to Wolfgang and was out at first. Noyes hit to Cooney and was out at first, but Myers scored by elude Cooney running. Ainsmith hit to Vance and was out at first.

Cooney struck out. Magee foul flied to Ainsmith. Fitzpatrick hit to Miller who fumbled and he got on first. Jones hit a fly to Myers who fumbled it and Fitzpatrick scored. Jones going to second. Hornelli hit to left field for two bases and Jones scored. Poye went to bat for Morse and striking at the first three balls was out.

Score—Lowell 4, Lawrence 5.

Ninth Inning

Finlayson hit to Vance and was out at first. Miller struck out. Catterson hit to center field for three bases. Bannan flied to Magee.

Bouttes went to bat for Wolfgang and hit a grounder to Noyes which the latter could not handle and the runner reached first. Fitzpatrick hit to left field for a single, sending Bouttes to third. Vance struck out. The visitors then, to get Bonites and the ball went to the left field fence, Bouttes and Fitz scoring. Cooney struck out. Magee drew a base on balls. Magee's second and a bad throw by Ainsmith sent him to third. Ainsmith kicked that Fitzpatrick had interfered with his throw and the visiting catcher got to obnoxious to the umpire put him off the field. Ainsmith rushed back to the field to strike the umpire and it took three men to hold him and attempt to lead him from the grounds. The effort of the players to get the Lawrence catcher off the grounds was unavailing and Umpire Lanigan said he would forfeit the game to the Lowell team if Ainsmith did not leave the grounds. Ainsmith was led from the grounds much against his will and Grant took his place behind the bat while Trainer took Finlayson's place. Fitzpatrick got a single scoring Magee.

DIAMOND NOTES

At Lawrence today.

Ordway and Morse were released last night while Hornelli goes back to Providence.

John Smith announced yesterday that he has signed Sam Stovell, the Lynn outfielder.

Bakeley, the Brooklyn outfielder, and Cy McDonald of Washington are on the way, while Deakyne, a catcher from Jamaica Plain, will catch at the game in Lawrence today.

The uncertainty of base ball was never better demonstrated than by the playing of Finlayson, the Lawrence pitcher. He had the game won himself and then threw it away. After striking out 10 men and making a home run a triple and a single, he made a bad throw in the ninth that tied the score.

Talk about Lowell having a tough team for coaching, how about Lawrence allowing Reynolds and Perrott to almost kill each other in a head-on collision because nobody yelled to them as to who should take the ball?

Ainsmith should hold out his hand and let the teacher slap him on the wrist, or else he put to bed without his supper for his baby forehead toward the close of yesterday's game. After making the toughest kind of a throw to second he looked around for an excuse and finding nothing else for a kick got after Umpire Lanigan claiming that Fitzpatrick was at bat interfering with him, which was by no means the case. Then Ainsmith turned his attention to Lanigan personally with the inevitable result: "Get off of de grounds!" came the dulcet tones of "The Pint."

Ainsmith picked up his mask and walked away as meekly as a spanked kid but upon arriving at the bench he heard the sympathetic words of some Lawrence rooters of both sexes whereupon he saw a chance to be a hero and throwing down his protector made a rush back for Lanigan like an enraged mosquito. Finlayson grabbed him to restrain him, but he threw Fin over his head and then several players hauled him struggling to the bench. "Get out of there or the game is off," said Lanigan, the immovable one. Ainsmith then tried on every coat and sweater on the bench and appeared about to go up in the grandstand and try on the spectators' outer garments when Bannan chased him to the dressing room. After the game a cop suggested that he would escort Lanigan to the car. "Don't mind me, brother," said Lanigan, "look after him." The game is over now and Lanigan is again a bit of a wall-p. "Where is that kid?" The crowd lingered around but Ainsmith was taken cover until Lanigan had taken the car.

We still maintain that "The Pint" Mr. Lanigan, has "The Half Pint," Mr. Byrne, beaten several gills as an umpire. In fact Lanigan gives the best measure of any of them.

"Oom Paul" Kruger, the Lawrence short stop, can koppe the ball in fine style.

Finlayson and Cooney will smoke "Puff" Durham for the next few days. Cooney's was a phony home run but it's the only way to score it.

Catcher Stone has been released.

We're in the first division for a few moments.

All scores by innings hot off the wire at Duffy's, 11 Market street. Full ticker service.

The Haverhill Gazette baseball writer saw several things at the game in Lowell on Thursday as witness the following: "Perhaps Bryne wasn't off on balls and strikes. Mike told him a few things on one occasion and he remembered. Bryne came back with the retort, 'Well, I've got to die some time and you might as well kill me as anyone.' The little 'ump' is no favorite in the Lowell diggings, and he got no sympathy from either club. Manager Fleming told him what he thought of him in the ninth and was given the high sign to retire. He came back but was again chased and sat on the end of the third base bleachers where he could direct the playing of his club."

Larry Temple is the highest priced pitcher in the New England league, but he got his bumps good and proper at Ocean Park, in the game against New Bedford, Friday afternoon. He comes out of the middle west, having been spotted two years ago by a scout in the employ of the New York Giants where he was working with Rube Marquard, also a slab artist. McGraw was induced to part with $11,000 for Marquard, while the New York manager gave up, at the same time, $5000 for Temple. The former pitcher is still working for the Giants, although he has not done anything as yet to set a base ball world on fire. Temple was tried out several times by McGraw, but was found wanting, so Muggsy decided to send Larry to the woods, where he could get a little more practice. He is believed to have something on the ball if given opportunity enough to work, which will be given him by Manager Dowd. Temple's backstop on the Glens was Myers, the Indian, and they were known as the dark skin battery, because of their complexions. Temple, however, is not an Indian, except when the umps give him the raw on balls and strikes.—Lynn Item.

DEFEATED MITCHELLS IN OVER-TIME GAME

The Somerville English High Sophomore ball team won an exciting 10-inning game from Mitchell school yesterday afternoon, at Billerica, by a score of 5 to 4. Mitchell looked like a winner in the first part of the contest, scoring two runs in the first inning and not allowing the visitors to tally until the sixth. In the ninth, English High tied the score, and won out in the 10th on a wild pitch by Willie, the local boxman.

The features of the game were the playing of Newhall and Benson for the winners, and Wainwright and Tenney for the home team. On Wednesday,

HETTY GREEN ANGRY

Because the Jury Rendered Verdict Against Her

NEW YORK, May 24.—"Cat fits" and "blackmail" were terms used yesterday on the stand by Mrs. Hetty Green to characterize the efforts of the Safety Deposit company of 149 Broadway to recover $550 rentals from her. But the jury in the case, which was tried before Judge O'Dwyer in the city court, found against Mrs. Green after 12 minutes deliberation, and she expressed her indignation in no uncertain terms.

"Outrage! Outrage!" she cried when the foreman announced that she had lost the suit. "Isn't there any justice for a woman who has money?"

The clerk of the court rapped sharply for order, and Mrs. Green's attorney, Lewis Doyle, appealed to her to be calm, but the woman financier continued to express her feelings on the "outrage." The clerk again rapped for order, and she finally subsided.

Mrs. Green had said before the jury went out:

"Juries have always been good to me. I have never lost a case," but half an hour later the "richest woman in the world" had lost her first suit.

Suit for Box Rent

The action was for the use of safe deposit boxes for a period of 10 years each. The original amount of the action was $550, but $19.25 was added for interest. Mrs. Green contended that she had not engaged the boxes after setting the amount due for their rental up to a time previous to the 10 years involved, but the safe deposit company alleged that she had entered into some agreement to continue their rental.

William A. Mitchell, president of the company, testified that on Dec. 1, 1905, Mrs. Green called at the company's offices with Edward R. Kiesel, auditor of the Chemical National bank, and gave him a check for $600 for rent already due. He asserted further that she had agreed to rent the boxes for a further period and that a memorandum had been made to that effect. The boxes contained papers relating to Mrs. Green's father, Edward Mort Robinson, who died in 1865.

Mr. Mitchell denied that he had ever tried to have Mrs. Green make her headquarters in the company's offices, but admitted that she had been charged less for the use of the boxes than the usual rate. He explained this by saying that she was a good customer and he wished to retain her patronage.

Mrs. Green was emphatic when called as a witness. She brought two umbrellas and a maid to court and was dressed from head to foot in black, a veil doing duty as a hat. She carried a black bag and wore black gloves.

Says Boxes Were Stolen

When called to the stand she spoke in a very low tone, but very rapidly.

"Those boxes were stolen out of my father's estate years ago," began the defendant.

"Father died 45 years ago, and I did it for my son, who is running a railroad and cannot be here. This is the third blackmailing suit that I've had. I was paying for my father's estate, of which my son, Edward H. Green, is the sole surviving trustee and my daughter is the executrix."

"Then you never agreed to pay any amount personally for the storage of the boxes?"

"No, I didn't," declared Mrs. Green, vigorously. "I wouldn't want to pay storage 45 years on a lot of things stolen out of my father's estate."

"They don't belong to me, according to God they do not belong to me," she declared. "According to law they belong to my son as trustee. I paid $2500 for the writing of the books, though."

"There has been a great deal of litigation over your father's estate, has there not?" asked Lawyer Doyle.

"Yes, there has," replied Mrs. Green. "They tried to steal my share in Chicago."

"Judge," said Mrs. Green, "they're trying to frighten me, but I won't let them. It would have been easier for me to pay the bill than to engage a lawyer. The expense that I have been put to will be double that which I would have been compelled to pay, but if I let the go there would be a lot more of the same thing."

The jury then took the case under consideration and returned their verdict in 12 minutes.

GIRLS CAPTURED

Escaped From George Junior Republic.

ITHACA, May 24.—Two girls, citizens of the George Junior Republic at Freeville, successfully broke away from jail at midnight Sunday night and were on their way west when caught by the Ithaca chief of police. The girls are Florence Dougherty of Pittsburgh and Carrie Hazely of Interlaken. Both are about 18 years of age and good looking.

They had been sent to jail after a hearing before the republic judge and convicted of misconduct. Confinement was irksome, however, and the Dougherty girl suggested the plan to escape. She engineered the deal, managing to get hold of $5 in real money, though the republic has its own currency, which is worthless outside.

About midnight the girls crawled through a narrow window out on the roof of the second story. There they found escape cut off, but a nearby pole proved their salvation. Without hesitation, both slid down this pole, though their hands were hurt in the descent. In order to get away without approaching too close to the republic walls, they had to wade through a swamp.

They stopped on the other side to put on dry stockings and the Dougherty girl found that her shoes had shrunk so that she could not put them on. She slid her feet into them as far as they could go and walked the 14 miles to Ithaca. Arriving early yesterday morning, they bought tickets for Trumansburg, but alarmed at the attention they attracted at the station,

RAPID CURES OF ECZEMA

All Skin Troubles Yield Readily to This New Healing Agent

In stopping the itching attending eczema, or any itching skin disease, with first application, poslam, the new skin remedy, at once eases all physical distress and proves its wonderful healing properties. It is not the sort of medicine that has cured more skin diseases than any remedy ever offered for these ills. The very worst cases of eczema, as well as acne, psoriasis, herpes, tetter, piles, salt rheum, rash, crusted humors, scaly scalp and every form of itch yield to it readily. Eruptions, such as pimples, red noses, muddy and inflamed skin disappear almost immediately when poslam is applied, the complexion being cleared over night.

Every druggist keeps both the 50-cent size (for minor troubles) and the $2 jar, and either of these may be obtained at—Falls & Burkinshaw's, Carter & Sherburne's, and the Riker-Jarvis Drug Co.'s, as well as other reliable drug stores.

But no one is even asked to purchase poslam without first obtaining a sample package, which will be sent by mail, free of charge, upon request, by the Emergency Laboratories, No. 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York City.

started to walk to Willow Creek, a distance of 15 miles, where they planned to take a train.

DIVORCED WOMAN

Is Again Made a Lawful Wife

BROCKTON, May 24.—By a motion filed and granted in the Plymouth county superior court here yesterday, Judge William B. Stevens presiding, Lena M. Kennedy Marsh of Montello street, this city, is once more, by order of the court, the lawful wife of George Lawrence Marsh. Marsh is employed as a traveling salesman and his home is in this city.

This is the most unusual in the history of Plymouth county. Mrs. Marsh was granted a divorce November 9. The decree would have become absolute on May 9 last, if objections had not been filed in superior court by Attorney Richard W. Kuster.

The latest order under appointment by Judge Lawton as special attorney, investigated certain claims made by Charles Laure of El Paso, Tex., where Mrs. Marsh is alleged to have resided at one time.

He sent communication to Clerk Edward E. Holt, in which he set forth certain alleged actions of Mrs. Marsh when Laure knew her in Texas. Mrs. Marsh was known in Texas as "the mystery girl," according to Laure.

In having the libel dismissed and the decree vacated, the charges made by Laure will not be heard in court.

DALMORE'S VOICE

Brings Him the Sum of $200,000

BERLIN, May 24.—Andreas Dippel, who is returning to the United States after a brief visit in Berlin, has just signed a remarkable contract with Charles Dalmore whereby the French tenor will receive the record sum of $200,000 for the period of a four years' engagement at the Metropolitan, New York, and the allied opera houses of Boston, Chicago and Philadelphia.

It is stated that the consummation of this contract nullifies the indemnity of $25,000 which Dalmore was required to pay the Metropolitan as a result of his last legal action against the management.

Dippel came to Europe this time primarily to see his wife, who was ill at Nice. He returns for his annual European hunt for talent and new operas some time next month.

Dalmore's salary at the Manhattan was $600 a performance. Last season he sang at least 60 performances and the amount he made, therefore, was $36,000. As his new contract is probably arranged on a basis of 40 performances if the amount named is the correct one, his new salary must be estimated as more than double that of his old one, or $1250 a performance. This is a larger amount than any tenor receives in America, with the exception of Caruso.

"JIM" JEFFRIES

Will Take Things Easy This Week

BEN LOMOND, Cal., May 24.—Jim Jeffries says he intends to take things easy this week. His work accompanied by sprinting will be kept up regularly but it is thought likely that he will have to do little with the gloves until Jim Corbett arrives next week. The report that Corbett will not have his quarters at the camp here is denied by Jeffries' training companions. It is said that accommodations are now being prepared for him and that there is no likelihood of friction between Corbett and any other member of the camp. News from the city that Jack Johnson may be a spectator at Jeffries' boxing tournament in San Francisco next Friday night has stirred up considerable interest here, but the camp is not inclined to take Johnson's reported intention seriously. All, however, were anxious for the negro to be on hand. They assert that it would have a discouraging effect on Johnson for to see how fast the former champion is in his work.

Johnson is greatly pleased by the weight-reducing results of his daily roadwork and he says he intends to stick to that form of exercise. The negro champion who has taken much interest in the comet last night entertained a party of star-gazers at his training quarters but was disappointed by the heavy fog that veiled the sky.

CORBETT AND CHOYNSKI

CHICAGO, May 24.—Jim Corbett, former heavyweight champion, is staying here a couple of days on his way to California to help condition James

J. Jeffries for his fight with Jack Johnson. Asked concerning his old time feud with Joe Choynski, Corbett laughed and said: "No, I don't suppose we could be called friends for we've been enemies practically since we were boys but it should prove no obstacle to our mutual efforts to help Jeff. I've forgotten any hard feelings I ever had and I hope Joe has. This is too big a thing for petty bickering to enter into the plans. I will greet Joe just as cordially as I would if we never had any differences."

THE SPEECH OF CONGRESSMAN FOSS.

The maiden speech of Congressman Foss in congress Saturday was a rouser. It spread consternation in the republican ranks and the leaders vainly tried to confound him by asking questions.

He justly denounced the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill as "an intentional and deliberate bunco game from start to finish." He demanded that the tariff commission provided for in the present tariff law should report to congress and not to the president. He also demanded that a special session of congress be held next spring to revise the tariff so that the democratic party may do the work which the republican party failed to do in violation of its promises to the country.

The speech of Mr. Foss and another by Champ Clark of Missouri dealing more minutely with the tariff, sounded the keynote of the democratic campaign and both have caused great alarm among republicans who already foresee defeat in the fall elections.

The speech of Mr. Foss came to them like a bombshell, overwhelming in its force and its fierceness of assault upon the already discredited policy of the republicans.

Foss will hereafter be a great power in congress. Let there be no attempt to recall him for any other position. There is no place except that of United States senator or of president in which he can do more good than as congressman.

UNDER THE NEW KING.

The funeral of King Edward was probably one of the most gorgeous pageants in all history. It recalled the "Field of the cloth of gold," the historic phrase applied to the magnificent camp of Francis I of France and Henry VIII of England at Calais in 1520. The funeral had a long line of European sovereigns; principal among whom was William of Germany whose importance in European affairs has been greatly advanced by the death of his uncle, King Edward. During his short reign King Edward, on account of his age, his ability as a diplomat and a man of peace, managed to counter-check most of the kaiser's ambitions in the line of conquest.

The death of King Edward has made England an intensely loyal nation; it has united the people with royalty in a common bond of love and sorrow, such as has seldom, if ever, been experienced in England on the death of a sovereign. The sorrow for the death of Queen Victoria lacked sincerity, one might almost say it was feigned to meet a public necessity. What the people really felt in regard to the aged queen was that her time had come and that she did not relinquish her grasp of the scepter until she was obliged to by death. Had she been unselfishly considerate for the country or its future, she would have abdicated many years before her death so as to allow her son, the late King Edward, a longer reign. But today the people, high and low, sincerely lament the death of King Edward, for all had reason to love him as the best of all modern sovereigns of England. Yet as the people deplore his death, and are prone to exclaim "We shall not soon see his like again," they may be mistaken in their estimate of King George V. So far as he has gone he has acted with great wisdom and discretion. His appeal to the people for cooperation and his act of clemency towards prisoners have already made him popular, and the prediction is freely made that he will prove to be a wise, tactful and popular sovereign.

THE NAVIGATION OF THE MERRIMACK.

The conference at the Board of Trade rooms Saturday with Col. Burr of the United States survey brought out in a very forcible manner the advantages to be derived from making the Merrimack river navigable, at least from Lowell to the sea. And when we say from Lowell only, we may be tacitly misrepresenting the river above Lowell which is at present navigable to Nashua, but it would be a very difficult matter to pass a scow through any of the local canals so closely are they covered over with bridges and buildings.

In view of what has been done in other places to deepen waterways, this matter of making the Merrimack navigable as far as Nashua seems trifling. There is no reason why it should not be done. Only let our congressmen from the Merrimack valley combine to push the matter and it will go through in spite of Joe Cannon and all the cohorts of the standpatters.

The movement is now well started; let it go on without interruption. This is a movement that means a great deal to the city of Lowell, to Lawrence, Haverhill and even Newburyport for the shippers in the last named city would be called upon to man the river craft conveying coal, cotton and lumber to Lowell and perhaps also to carry back to the sea board the manufactured products of our textile factories, our shoe shops and machine shops.

Now that motor boats are so common, the work of river navigation would be greatly facilitated. General Butler was a great advocate of navigating the Merrimack, and during his day did much to promote that object. He had a great power wheel erected at one of the waterfalls below Lawrence to generate power sufficient to tow the boats up over the falls. That was an ingenious scheme but electricity was not then generally used as a motor power. Today wheels could be harnessed on all the waterfalls in the Merrimack to produce electricity, and this would run mills on the river banks.

The boats can generate their own power from gasoline and in that way carry all the freight that is consigned them either upward or downward. The larger vessels of course would use steam.

The question that now interests everybody in the Merrimack valley is to get a liberal appropriation to make the Merrimack navigable to Lowell or to Nashua. The advantages to be derived from such an improvement fully warrant the expense.

The abandonment of the old Middlesex canal was one of the worst things that ever happened to the cities and towns in the Merrimack valley.

The blunder cannot now be remedied in any other way than by making the Merrimack navigable.

Therefore, we call upon the people of Lawrence, Haverhill, Newburyport and all the other residents of the Merrimack valley to join their forces in carrying this movement to a final success. It is thoroughly practical; it will not cost very much; it is necessary to keep Lowell and Lawrence in line with seaboard cities in the manufacture of textiles. It means the salvation of the cities in the Merrimack valley. Then why should not all join in forcing action in the immediate future?

SEEN AND HEARD

A boy of 12 years of age, with an air of melancholy resignation, went to his teacher and handed in the following note from his mother before taking his seat.

Dear Sir—Please excuse James for not being present yesterday.

He played truant, but you needn't whip him for it, as the boy he played truant with and him fell out, and he licked James; and a man they threw stones at caught him and licked him, and the driver of a cart they hung on to him and the driver of a cart they chased him. Then I licked him when he came home, after which his father licked him, and I had to give him another for being impudent to me for telling his father. So you needn't lick him until next time.

A TALE OF THE TRAIL

This life's a middlin' crooked trail, an' after forty year I'm free to say it ain't right an' always clear. Of knockin' round I'm free to say I've seen a lot of folks go wrong—git off the main high road. An' fetch up in a swamp somewhere, almost before they knowed. I don't pretend to be no judge of right an' wrong in my.

I ain't been perfect all my life, an' may not be again;

An' sometimes when I see a chap who seems plum gone astray I think perhaps he started right, but somehow lost his way.

I like to think the good in 'em by far outweighs the ill;

Th' trail of life is middlin' hard an' lots of it uphill;

There's places where there ain't no guides or signboards up, an' so it's partly guess work an' partly luck which way you chance to go.

I've seen th' trails fork some myself an' when I had to choose

I wasn't sure when I struck out if it was wile or loss.

So when I see a man who looks as though he'd gone astray

I like to think he started right an' only lost his way.

I've seen a lot of 'em start out with grit an' spunk to scale

Th' hills that purple over there, an' somehow lose th' trail;

I've seen 'em stop an' start again, not sure about th' road;

An' found 'em lost on some blind trail almost before they knowed.

I've seen 'em climb, tired out, with every pathway blind,

With cliffs before 'em, mountain high, an' slough an' swamps behind;

I've seen 'em strainin' through th' dusk, when twilight's gittin' gray.

A lookin' for th' main high road—poor chaps who've lost their way.

It ain't so far from right to wrong—th' trail ain't hard to lose;

There's times, I'd almost give my horse to know which one to choose.

There ain't no signboards on th' road 't' keep you on th' track;

Wrong's sometimes white as driven snow an' right looks awful black;

I don't set up to be no judge of right an' wrong in my.

I've lost th' trail sometimes myself—I may git lost again.

An' if I see some chap who looks as though he'd gone astray

I want to shove my hand in his an' help him find th' way.

—J. W. Foley.

He was a good little boy and very thoughtful. He had heard about the great scarcity of water throughout the country. He came to his mother and slipped his hand into hers.

"Mamma," he said, "is it true that in some places the little girls and boys have scarcely enough water to drink?"

"That is what the papers say, my dear."

"Mamma," he presently said, "I'd like to give up something for those poor little boys and girls."

His mother gave him a fond look.

"Yes, dear, and what would you like to give up?"

"Mamma," he said in his earnest way, "as long as the water is so very scarce, I think I ought to give up bein' washed."—Ladies' Home Journal.

"An actor in a Washington 'play,' said Mayor Meach of Harrisburg, 'had the contrary, the other night, to address President Taft in his box as 'Your royal highness.'"

"The president laughed, but I am sure he was annoyed. The fat infamist that nothing is more offensive to them than allusions to their size.

"Yet such allusions are continually being made. I know a fat lady who, in one of our public parks, told a tramp, on a very hot afternoon, that if he didn't stop following her she would call the police."

"O, don't do that, ma'am," was the impudent reply. "Don't call the police. Don't send me away. Why, yer the only bit o' shade in the hell park."

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Mr. King O'Malley, minister of home affairs in the new Australian cabinet, led and manned by the Labor party, is an Irish-American, known among his associates as the "Bald Eagle of the Rocky Mountains." He is said to be somewhat angular in person, whimsical in speech, and when a South Australian legislator, achieved eminence by introducing a bill for the abolition of barmalms.

Scottish folks are closely watching ex-president Roosevelt to see whether he journeys northward to the parish of Bladenoch, where the Bullocks, from whom he is descended on his mother's side, originated, the best known of them being John Bulloch of Aberdeen, the Shaltespearan scholar.

By making Gen. Botha first premier of the South African Republic, Gov. Gen. Gladstone has shrewdly bid for loyal support of the Dutch element, which of late has shown signs of reasserting racial pride of view that it had been hoped would never obtrude again.

T. H. S. Escott, in his recently issued life of Edward Bulwer, first Baron Lytton of Knebworth, calls attention to the distinct service Bulwer Lytton rendered to British journalism by his discovery of the merits of Antonio Gallenga, who for so many years was one of the ablest of the correspondents of the London Times, and afterward one of its valued leaders. Gallenga was one of the first of cultivated Italians to visit the United States, and there a few more interesting books about the New England of the middle period of the last century than the one which includes a record of his experiences in this country. It has delightful pictures of the academic circles of Cambridge, and the friction that inevitably developed between him and the prim maidens and Puritan divines and educators of that city and Boston.

RAILWAY REVALUATION.

One finds oneself in a mist of confusion when the test of either equity or economics in railway revaluation is applied in such a case as the South Eastern Railway, Boston. The cost of construction some twelve years ago was $15,015,000. It is capitalized at $500,000 in stock and $14,000,000 of three and one-half per cent. bonds under the title Boston Terminal company, the New York, New Haven and Hartford holding four-fifths of the stock and the Boston and Albany one-fifth. The former corporation pays seventy-five per cent. of the interest taxes and operating cost; the latter company, twenty-five per cent. During the last fiscal year those three items aggregated $989,090, three items aggregated $1,316,615, so the net loss to the two corporations was $327,445. Under the valuation of the New Haven, made by J. F. Stevens, the terminal probably goes in at an increase to $20,000,000, perhaps more. When it comes to revaluing upward such a property, there are several viewpoints. The two corporate railway owners may see with approval the added valuation that justifies the "fair return" and a sustained dividend, or even, more remotely, the increase of rates to maintain that dividend, but not with much approval the higher valuation that challenges increased taxes. As an operating plant, the terminal is a railway necessity, but also means an enormous operating loss—like other terminals. It is from one view a great asset, from another a great liability. It adds to adjacent realty value, but it cannot logically be tested by them, for its uses are different and its reality is not marketable; nor from the narrow and theoretical view of the stockholders of the two railway companies can a big valuation of a property that is actually permanent and every year $872,445 from his dividend be regarded as genuine. What is a really just valuation of such a property, considered separately, as it is owned technically by a separate corporation, is a problem to perplex wiser heads than those carried by most of the Solons who sit in legislative halls.

SMITH KILLED

Was Shot By Miners' Union Official

DANVILLE, Ill., May 24.—Joseph Smith was shot and killed at Westville last night by John Welsh, secretary of the local miners' union. Welsh recently dismissed an Italian who had threatened to shoot John H. Walker, president of the United Mine Workers of Illinois. Last night's tragedy resulted from a quarrel over that incident. Welsh surrendered to the police. He is guarded by a strong force, owing to threats of vengeance made by Smith's friends.

OLD MANUSCRIPTS

SUGGESTIONS TO MAKE WASHINGTON A DUKE

Some new light, not on General Washington's character, but on certain English views of his character, is offered in a volume just presented to parliament by the historical manuscripts commission. It is volume II. of the report on the manuscripts of Mrs. Stopford-Sackville of Drayton House, Northamptonshire, and deals with the most important part of the Stopford-Sackville collection, namely, state papers relating to the American war of independence. Lord George Sackville, to whom most of the letters and papers in the collection were addressed, was the British secretary of state for the colonies from 1775 to 1783. One of the papers is a long one by Sir John Dalrymple, written in 1775, and entitled "Thoughts on Instructions to the American Commissioners." Sir John having been, as he said, the first to suggest at the beginning of the trouble with the colonies that a commission be sent to America to deal with matters. In his "Thoughts" he says:

"I presume to suggest another thing. From all accounts of General Washington's character there is a resemblance between his character and General Monk's, for he is silent, keeps his mind to himself, has plain, unassuming manners, and is a man of principle. Besides this, he has no sons, daughter, standing in his way, so that his ambition must be limited to himself. Charles II. owed his kingdom to his personal application to Monk, delivered by one of Monk's own friends.

"Might not the ministers treating by the king's command, or the king himself writing a private letter to Washington to remind him of the similarity between his situation and Monk's, desiring him to ask terms for America fair and just, and they should be granted, and that the terms for himself should be the dukedom or broken crown, such as china, bric-a-brac, that was given to Monk, and a revenue to support it in order to give dignity to the man who generously gave up his own power to save his country?"

"If the minister has no man he can trust with such a commission, I can find one. I mean Mr. Lloyd's friend, the bosom friend of General Washington, a man of fortune in Maryland, now in London, of whose family are now with General Howe, and who has given proofs of his secrecy, as he was one of those who knew of a scheme of mine relating to the paper money of America."

At the Dukedom of Albany was once a royal dukedom and Charles' grant with it to Monk was a perpetual pension of about $25,000—at a time when money went farther than it goes now—Sir John doubtless thought that he was making Washington a tempting offer.—New York Sun.

NEVER SAY FAIL

DO YOUR BEST AND FEAR NOT

Do you ever feel as if the light would never come? Don't despair. Brace up. It is trite and threadbare, but that old adage about the darkest hour being just before the dawn. But human experience has confirmed it—whether astronomers do or not. There's an astronomy of mortal life that has proven it true. When things are at their worst, there is at least the consolation that the worst is known. The man who has reached the bottom can't sink lower. Let him summon the courage and strength to make the bottom his hard pan for a new start upward. He may later find that the depth he touched was necessary to support the completed structure it may be his for-come in after years to survey. Courage and strength! Yet we confine it to courage; for courage means strength.

We have dwelt on those untapped reservoirs of human energy resident in every one. They are there even in the weakest. In most cases they are unsuspected. Expertness reveals them. Some reserve our energies are also in their available. The best fauuet to use in bringing them is courage to say, "I will," and to mean it. Courage means strength, in that it yields strength. He then who yet has it in his heart to summon the courage means strength. When the hour is so dark that he feels supreme need, let that be a sign to him that the hour is also that of the morning star's rising. That luminary is the star of hope. It precedes the glorious day by the interval between the dawn and day. Let your gloom be the token of your near deliverance. The logic and the testimony of the ages are with you.

Work and wait. That means, work wisely, not wastefully. With the best judgment you can summon. Wait for results, but not idly. To recuperate and conserve our energies is also as important as to put them forth. Each in its season. Do that which the season demands, do your best at all times, and face the outcome with a smile. You cannot lose. Even to lose under such conditions is to win. For there is a glory in the soul revealed in the appointed time that satisfies even more than any gauged by tangible standards.—Brooklyn Times.

A NEW CEMENT

It seems that the day has passed when it is necessary to throw away family treasures that have been injured or broken, such as china, bric-a-brac, etc., for there is a new cement that the makers claim will mend any material stronger than new.

This cement is in the form of a white powder and it is simply necessary to mix it with a little water, allow it to stand a few moments and apply it to the broken edges. This cement is not affected by heat, water or acids.

Kitchen utensils, gateways, flower-pots, etc., can all be mended and used after they have apparently passed their day of usefulness.

"PORTMENT" is destined to become a household word, for when anything is broken you hear the expression, "Never mind, 'PORTMENT' will fix it."

NORTH CHELMSFORD

At both masses in St. John's church Sunday, Rev. Edmund T. Schofield, the pastor, read a letter from Archbishop William H. O'Connell, which stated that one of the newly ordained priests would be sent here to take the place of Rev. John McNamara, who has been appointed pastor of a new parish which includes Salem, Pelham and Canobie Lake, N. H. It is not known yet just which one of the recently ordained priests will be sent here, but it is expected the appointment will be made within a week or two.

At the 9.15 o'clock mass in St. John's church, the 40 hours' devotion opened, and will come to a close at the 7.30 o'clock mass Tuesday morning.

BOY WHO READS THE PAPERS.

Senator Graft: "Be ever careful of your associates, my son. A man is known by the company he keeps."
Sons: "And a senator is known by the company that keeps him, ain't he, papa?"

JOHNNY'S ADDITION.

Teacher—Johnny, if you were a man and had $5,000 and wanted to buy a $10,000 house, what would you need?
Johnny—A rich wife.

AN EMERGENCY OUTING.

"Who was in Miss Allwise's auto party?"
"A lawyer, a surgeon, a nurse and a doctor."

NOT NOW, BUT SOON.

"Where are you going, my pretty maid?"
"Going to get married, sir," she said.
"And am I the one, my pretty maid?"
"When I am divorced, sir," she said.

A DIFFICULT MISSION.

Theatrical Manager: "Hogan, I want you to find me a man with the right face and figure to take the part of General Washington in the tableau in the third act tonight."

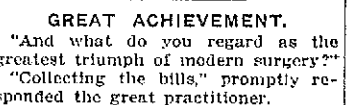

Hogan (an hour later): "Here's five av thim, sor. Take yure pick!"

A BAD BEGINNING.

Plumber—Have you got all we want for Brown's job?
Boy—Yes.
Plumber—Wot? You 'evert forgot nothin'? Well, that's a good 'un! Haven't forgot nothin', and you learnin' to be a plumber!

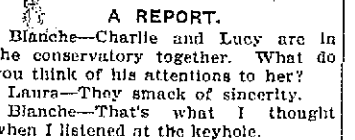

GREAT ACHIEVEMENT.

"And what do you regard as the greatest triumph of modern surgery?"
"Collecting the bills," promptly responded the great practitioner.

A DECEITFUL APPLIANCE.

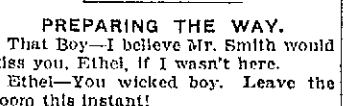

Mr. Strunghead (who has ordered a snapshot camera by express): "It's a gummed fraud, Betsey! I pulled the trigger 'ordin' ter d'rrections, an' now I've been through every part of th' dild blittered thing without findin' no der-gerrotypal!"

A REPORT.

Blanche—Charlie and Lucy are in the conservatory together. What do you think of his attentions to her?
Laura—They smack of sincerity.
Blanche—That's what I thought when I listened at the keyhole.

PREPARING THE WAY.

That Boy—I believe Mr. Smith would kiss you, Ethel, if I wasn't here.
Ethel—You wicked boy. Leave the room this instant!

Jennie—How do you play it?
Tommy—You tempt me with an apple and I'll eat it.

NEVER AGAIN.

"Curse my luck! I left my pocket-book under my pillow."
"Oh, well, your servant is honest."
"Yes, that's just it. She'll take it up to my wife."

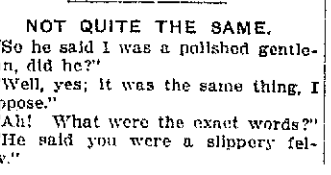

A DIFFICULT TASK.

The Man—Do you think you could learn to love me, darling?
The Darling—I don't know. I might. I learned Greek when I was a girl.

AWFUL.

MEN MUST USE CARE When They Give Medicine to the Horse

In giving medicines by drenching one should use care in selecting the vessel used for the purpose. Of course, one can secure a drenching horn which is by far the best but the expense and trouble can be saved by using a heavy glass bottle, no broken edges but smooth and strong, and to prevent trouble from breaking, the neck may be wound with a strip of cloth. The head should be elevated the same as in giving a ball. Don't try to make the horse swallow a quart at once for he can't do it and your time and medicine will be wasted. Rather allow it to run from the neck of the bottle, three or four ounces of the liquid, as far back on the tongue as possible. Then repeat the dosage until the entire amount is given. Lower the head at once if you cause him to cough. Don't pull out the tongue, push, pinch or otherwise maltreat the throat when giving the drench. It prevents rather than aids, and don't try to run a drench through the nostrils.

If you have occasion treat the lungs and air passages, you can do so by blowing powders into the nose though this is not often recommended.

Steaming may be done by inhaling, for instance, in Distemper, Sore throat and kindred ills. Scalded bran or hay or some remedy of a pungent nature is used to relieve and favor nasal discharge. Douches are used by veter-inaries but are not a success in the hands of the inexperienced. Applications to the skin must be used with care, for many of them if used upon a large portion of the body result in the death of the animal and only local applications should be made. The use of the hypodermic syringe must be left to the experienced surgeon.

Medicines can be given by the rectum to destroy worms, to stimulate action of the intestines, to cause evacuation and to nourish the body. A veterinary syringe can be had for this purpose, varying in size from a few ounces to one holding two quarts, or one can easily be made by a common funnel to which about three feet rubber garden hose may be attached, smoothing off one end and your syringe is complete. When using it the rubber hose end should be well oiled or lubricated and inserted about a foot into the rectum, elevating the funnel above the horse, pouring the desired amount into it. Graduation will do the rest. A syringe of some sort should form part of every stable equipment. Suppositories are much used by veterinaries for allaying pain and irritation.

OFFICERS CHOSEN By the Sunday School Convention

WASHINGTON, May 24.—When ex-Congressman Walter O. Hoffecker of Delaware rose last night for back in the great crowd that filled Convention hall, where last night's session of the World's Sunday school convention was held, and all by himself sang "Traveling Home, Led by Jesus I am Traveling Home," the audience applauded so long and so lustily that Mr. Hoffecker was compelled to go to the front, mount the platform and sing it again. This was during a song service led by Charles M. Alexander, the singing evangelist.

Officers of the association for the ensuing three years were elected last night as follows:

President, Dr. George W. Bailey, Philadelphia.

Vice-presidents, Sir John Kirk, England; Justus J. J. MacLaren, Canada; Bishop J. C. Hartzell, Africa.

Honorary vice-presidents, the venerable archdeacon of London, Rev. Dr. J. Monaghan, Right Rev. Kinnaid, Rev. W. H. K. of Great Britain.

John W. Foster, ex-secretary of state; John Wamaker, ex-postmaster general; Revs. Dr. H. H. Bell and W. A. Wilson of United States; Rev. E. I. Rexford of Canada.

Joint secretaries, Marion Lawrence, for the United States, and Rev. Carey Bonner, for England.

Statistical secretaries, Geo. Shipway for England, and Hugh Cork for the United States.

Joint general treasurers, F. A. Wells, Chicago, for the United States, and Sir George White, London, for England.

K. Warren of Three Oaks, Mich., a former president of the association, was made chairman of the executive committee.

Bishop Hartzell of Africa spoke on "The Moslem Peril in Africa," declaring that the Christian church has come to realize that in the conversion of Mohammedan worlds, the church faces the supreme crisis of its history.

It was essential, he said, that the children be taught in the Sunday school the need of further missionary work in Africa.

Rev. Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman spoke on some of the methods necessary in successful Sunday school work.

At the afternoon session there was "roll call of nations" delegates from all parts of the world speaking briefly of the work in their countries.

At one of the meetings Herman De Lagerantz, minister to the United States from Sweden, welcomed the delegates and expressed his sympathy with their work.

Dr. Carey Bonner of London, declared that the greatest field for Sunday school workers was to be found among boys between the ages of 12 and 14. Lads of that age were most difficult to hold to Sabbath devotion, he declared.

His race question has bothered up frequently in committee meetings but the cooler heads succeeded in keeping it off the floor of the convention. A number of the delegates who come from

BOSTON, May 24.—Julia Ward Howe will be ninety-one years old May 27. On that day a portrait of her by her son-in-law, John Elliott, will be hung in the New Art Museum. At her home, 241 Beacon street, Mrs. Howe talked for a time about the picture and herself. "This likeness is as I want to be known to say many friends whom I have not been able to see for some time," she said, "and I want it to be considered official."

SENATOR DEPEW

Says That War With Spain Was Unnecessary

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Voting down by 26 to 39 an amendment offered by Mr. Burton to authorize only one new battleship instead of two, the senate yesterday passed the naval appropriation bill, which carries an appropriation of almost $134,000,000.

The debate was confined almost exclusively to the battleship question.

Two important amendments were adopted yesterday. One, offered by Senator Johnson, appropriated $450,000 for the purchase of torpedo boats "whose vitals are below the normal load line." The other, by Senator Jones, eliminates railroad, county and municipal bonds from the securities which may be deposited by contractors.

The naval increase for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1911, provided by the bill, is as follows:

Two first-class battleships, to cost not exceeding $5,000,000 each and when equipped with armor and armament about $12,500,000 each.

Two fleet coasters, to cost not exceeding a total of $2,500,000.

Six torpedo boat destroyers to cost not exceeding $750,000 each.

The house bill provided for only four submarines and no destroyers. The senate also added a provision that not more than one of the battleships shall be built by the same company.

The provision requiring that the battleships and fleet coasters shall be built under the "eight-hour" law was retained by the senate.

During debate, Senator Depew said that popular demand forced the war with Spain on the country and that as favorable terms could have been obtained from Spain without war as were obtained with war.

"Does not the senator believe that but for the pressure at that time the president would have negotiated Spain on the American continent?" asked Mr. Hale.

"I do," responded the New York senator. "I know of my own knowledge that Spain was prepared to abandon Cuba and Porto Rico to prevent humiliation if she could be assured in advance of the acceptance of the proposition."

Mr. Depew also related some history concerning the Venezuelan episode of the second Cleveland administration.

"An intimate friend of mine who also was an intimate friend of Lord Salisbury said to him: 'I believe that on account of the rumor coming down from the Revolutionary war and accentuated by certain occurrences in the Civil war, America came to have a war with Great Britain at some time, and I believe now is the best time, when America has no navy.'"

"The views of the prime minister were overruled by Queen Victoria, but if Lord Salisbury had had the power possessed by some of the English prime ministers, the issue certainly would have been tried out."

The democrats voting for two battleships were: Clarke (Ark.), McEnery (La.), and Taylor.

The republicans voting for one battleship were: Easton, Burton, Clapp, Crawford, Cummins, Dixon, Dooliver, Hale, La Follette and Page.

The administration railroad bill will come up again when the senate convenes today.

HIGHEST BIDDER

Gets Man's Interest in a Contingent Inheritance

BOSTON, May 24.—A man's interest in a contingent inheritance, estimated to be worth from $55,000 to $650,000, according to the number of other participants who may or may not survive the heir in question, was sold to the highest bidder for the sum of $225 by order of the court to satisfy a judgment of $500 by a local attorney's office late yesterday.

The first instance of such a transaction in the commonwealth of Massachusetts.

The judgment was secured against Franklin L. Fay, who, after his father's death will receive at least $50,000 from his grandfather's estate. It was only filed as a court broke and the judgment was secured for money loaned.

It is understood, on behalf of members of the Fay family, which is an old and aristocratic one of Boston.

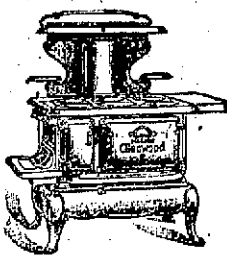

MATRIMONIAL

The marriage of Mr. Adelard Oscar Richard and Miss Alden Rondout took place yesterday morning at St. Joseph's church, where a nuptial mass was celebrated by Rev. Fr. Baron, D. M. The young couple were attended by Mr. Pierre Rondout, the bride's father, and Mr. Arthur Richard, brother of the bridegroom, as witnesses. Mr. Abraham Rondout, the bride's brother, was best man, and Miss Alice Baylis was maid of honor. The bride wore white silk and the bridegroom, white muslin with Valenciennes lace trimmings.

After the wedding ceremony breakfast was served at the bride's home, 245 Cheever street, where a dinner and reception also took place in the evening. Among the guests present were: Mrs. Elvira Rondout, of Willsimantic, Conn., grandmother of the bride; Mrs. Agnes Rondout of the same city; Mr. and Mrs. Caspard Richard of Lawrence and Mr. Armand Menard of Berlin, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard will live in Aiken street.

FINE REDUCED

Because Man Made Restitution

BOSTON, May 24.—John Matherson, charged with embezzlement of $15.34 from the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, by which he was employed, was fined $40 yesterday by Judge Wait in the superior court.

In the Brighton court last year he was fined $75 and appealed. It was arranged that he should be fined $50 and time was given to him to get the money. He was unable to save up that amount. He was in court yesterday and his case was called and Asst. Dist. Atty. Lavelle explained the situation to the court. He said the man had about $43 with him.

Clerk Manning asked Matherson how much money he had, and the defendant replied that he had $42.85. The judge then imposed a fine of $40, which the defendant paid, and the case was finally brought to a close. Full restitution had been made.

Florence Morrison, 25 years old, a shoplifter, was sentenced to the house of correction for four months. On her way to the detention room she fainted. She took about $60 worth of goods from different department stores during the Christmas season.

There were five counts of larceny against her. It was the first time she was arrested. She said she is married, but the police and the probation officers have been unable to ascertain her true address to verify her assertion as to her marriage.

BILLERICA

A hearing was given in the town hall last night upon the petition of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co. to erect poles on the following named thoroughfares: West Brook Hill road, from Masson's corner to Allen road, 19 poles; Allen road, from West Brook Hill road to residence of Mr. Tuttle, 17 poles; Pollard road, from residence of Mr. Chadwick to residence of Mr. Smith, 13 poles. Chairman Sligh of the board of selectmen called the hearing to order. Wire Chief Merrill of the telephone company was heard on the application. There were no opponents. The petition was granted and signed by the selectmen.

CHARITIES CONFERENCE

ST. LOUIS, May 24.—Freedom of contract between master and servant must be abridged, according to Paul U. Kellogg of New York, in an address last night before the National Conference of Charities and Correction.

"We must insure by law to American workmen," said Mr. Kellogg, "certain minimum standards of hours of labor and of rest, of safety, of health, of restitution, when the workman is killed or injured, or diseased through his work, and of current wages such as will sustain life amply."

"BILLY" MADDEN

CHARGED WITH ABETTING A PRIZE FIGHT

NEW YORK, May 24.—"Billy" Madden and Al Benedict, a middleweight whom he manages, were arrested yesterday in Brooklyn on bench warrants, charged with aiding and abetting a prize fight. Benedict was badly beaten by Jack (Twin) Sullivan at the Marathon A. C. on May 2nd. Sullivan was arrested, later and released for appearance in $500 bail. The same bail was required yesterday for Madden and Benedict.

THE WYMAN WILL
PRINCETON, N. J., May 24.—Copies of the will of Isaac C. Wyman of Salem, Mass., the bulk of whose estate was bequeathed to the graduate college of Princeton university, reached here yesterday. After reading a copy of the will and the formal notification of the bequest from the executors, President Woodrow Wilson said there was nothing to say by way of comment except to echo the general satisfaction that the university should have the benefit of so princely a gift.

Andrew C. Imbrey, 95, financial secretary of the board of trustees of the university, said last night:

"While the amount of the bequest is not definitely known at the present time, it is undoubtedly the largest single benefaction that has ever come to the university. The friends of Princeton everywhere will rejoice at the prospect of a greater development which Mr. Wyman's generosity offers to the university."

SETTLED WEATHER COMING
The predictions are for continued unsettled weather, however, cheer up for good weather is at hand. By and by one may forget that it always rains on wash-day, and that Saturday is likely to be a bad day for the shop people. The warm weather is right at hand. We remember a Memorial day some years ago, that was the warmest day of the year, and Memorial day is at hand. This leads up to the purpose of these few wisdom words. It is the opportune time to install the gas range in the kitchen. In these days when all try to live intelligently, to get what is in life out of life, to make the burdens fall as lightly as possible, it is really almost cruel to work in a hot kitchen made so unnecessarily by a wood or coal fire. Moreover every one must see at once that it is a great and needless waste of heat and heat costs money. A gas range at once meets the situation. A variety of styles and prices are shown at the Lowell Gas Light Appliance Store on John street.

STREET ELECTED
NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 24.—At a meeting of the sophomore class of Yale university last night Henry A. Street of Pawtucket, R. I., was elected assistant manager of Yale boat club. The selection means that Street will become manager of the crew in his senior year.

STEAMERS COLLIDED

The Goodyear Was Struck Amidships, it is Reported

PORT HURON—Mich., May 24.—The big steel steamer Frank H. Good, year, owned by Mitchell & Co., lies in forty fathoms of water in Lake Huron about 25 miles off Point Aux Barques and probably 18 persons met watery graves following a collision between that vessel and the steamer James B. Wood, another steel boat belonging to the Gilchrist fleet.

The collision occurred about six o'clock Monday morning in a heavy fog. When the two steamers came together the crew of the Goodyear which is reported to have been struck amidships had only time to seize life-preservers and only a few could jump overboard before the boat began to fill with water.

The cook had just sounded the second call for breakfast on the Goodyear when the crash came and many were in the messroom. All rushed on deck and then the boat began to sink. Some jumped into the water and managed to get out of reach of the boat which was fast sinking.

Suddenly the Goodyear parted in the center and with a sound which could be heard above the whistling of the Wood, sank out of sight, carrying all but five down with her.

The bow of the Wood was badly stove in but she rested on her bulk-

Given in Superior Court at Today's Session

Court was obliged to suspend for a short time this morning as the result of two cases being out at the same time.

The jury in the case of Cunio vs. Boutwell, a Woburn case in which the ad damnum asked was $500; returned a verdict of $225 for the plaintiff.

Verdict Against City.

In the case of Josephine Nolot vs. City of Lowell, a judgment was ordered by agreement of counsel in the sum of $75 for the plaintiff. The plaintiff was riding in a carriage in Fremont street and in turning into Sixth street came across a steam roller which she alleged was not properly guarded and which started up, causing the horse to run away and injuring her. Farley and Tierney appeared for the plaintiff and the city solicitor for the defendant.

The case of Rose Blowes vs. James Smith went to trial this noon. This is an action of tort in the sum of $2000 in which the plaintiff claims damages as the result of injuries alleged to have been received as the result of a defective bulkhead on the premises of the defendant. Lawyer Tierney who appeared for the defendant requested that the case be held off for a short time to allow his client, who was out of town to arrive, but it was agreed that the case would not be closed without giving the defendant a chance to testify and the testimony was started.

A Small Verdict.

The jury in the case of Dodge tr. vs. Douglass, a Wakefield case, to recover the amount of a grocery bill, returned a verdict of $3.21 for the plaintiff.

The Blowes vs. Smith case was on trial this afternoon.

EDITOR BUPTON

WAS INJURED WHILE PASSENGER ON TRAIN

NEW YORK, May 24.—When the Colonial express of the New York, New Haven & Hartford road reached the Mott Haven yards early today it was stopped so that an ambulance surgeon could board it and dress cuts on the right hand of Frank B. Bampton, 33 years of age, an editor of Boston, who had thrust the member through a window of the sleeping car.

When the injury had been attended to, Bampton proceeded on to Washington. The accident occurred at Oak Point.

UNITARIAN ANNIVERSARY

BOSTON, May 24.—Ministers of the Unitarian fellowship who died during the past year were eulogized at a service in King's chapel at the opening session of today's meeting of the American Unitarian Association's anniversary week. The address was by Rev. Edward Haywood of Marlboro. The forenoon was further occupied by the annual business meeting of the Women's Alliance in the South Congregational church. Miss Davis delivered an address.

In Channing hall the annual meeting of the Unitarian laymen was held. A session open to ministers only known as the Berry street conference, convened in the Second church and was addressed by Rev. Howard N. Brown.

MAYOR MEEHAN COMET AND MOON

Issues Statement in Reply to Ex-Supt. Mayberry

Says Latter Had no Right to Sell City Property Without Turning Money Over to City Treasurer

In connection with the meeting of the committee on appropriations held last night and at which Solomon Mayberry, former superintendent of the charities department, appeared to explain alleged irregularities as to the sale of farm products and the disposition of the money received for same, during his administration, Mayor Meehan, today, gave a statement to the press in which he avers that Mr. Mayberry, by selling the products of the farm and failing to turn the money over to the city treasurer, ignored not only the city treasurer, but the chief of supplies and the mayor and that his act was contrary to the written instructions of the city solicitor.

The mayor's statement:

In going contrary to the written instructions of the city solicitor, Superintendent Mayberry showed that he was either ignorant in his construction of English, or was willing to assume the responsibility of violating the provisions of the charter. That was one reason for his removal.

Under date of Dec. 8, 1908, City Solicitor Duncan in a written opinion, termed Superintendent Mayberry that he could exchange products of the farm for other products, but that if he sold the products the money must be turned over to the city treasurer.

Under the authority of above statute, I am of the opinion that the superintendent may either sell said products and turn the proceeds over to the city treasurer, or if he deems best, exchange them for such other materials, utensils or property in general as, in his opinion, can be profitably used in carrying on the business of the farm in a manner beneficial not only to the inmates, but also the city of Lowell.

"If anything could be plainer than the above, I would like to have it submitted. It seems to me that an opinion should not be necessary to define the rights of a department head in such a connection. Why, it is just as reasonable to think of a department head selling a piece of city property, taking the money and then buying another piece of property without going near the city treasurer's office.

"In his action, Mr. Mayberry ignored not only the city treasurer, but the chief of supplies and the mayor. He violated the conditions of his office, and the facts would have been made known at the time of his removal but for a desire to pass the matter over for his sake. I have, by my desk, bills from grocers that were paid by Mr. Mayberry when he made farm purchases. There are in black and white, and cannot be denied. I challenge the committee on appropriations or any individual to attempt to justify Mr. Mayberry's conduct in the matter of receiving money for city farm property without turning the same over to the city treasurer."

Both Were Obscured by the Clouds Last Night

The great celestial spectacle billed for last night, with Halley's comet and the moon for chief actors in a joint performance, was prohibited to the final moment by the meteorological censor, "B. A. D. Weather," and thousands who had gathered for the sight again went home disappointed. It was discouraging enough to miss the comet in the early morning hours, but to be balked of the evening view after nearly a week of anticipation turned the popular feeling into something like disgust. There was certainly a pretense of clear sky soon after 7 p. m., just to whet the appetite for more, and by 7.30 everybody was looking for the flaming scimitar which was to emerge into the sky after sundown. But before 8 o'clock the hope had vanished. The firmament was then overcast. Great cloud galleons were sailing across it bound for the northwest. They were relieved at 8.10 by a pea-soup fog which for hours blanketed the heavens from horizon to horizon.

The comet was, doubtless, there behind the screen, but whether bright or faint, with a tail curved or straight, bifurcated or fan-shaped, or with no tail at all, nobody could tell. Even the astronomers lost their patience when, at 10.46 p. m., the business end of Halley's descended below the horizon as full of mystery as Tom Moore's "Veiled Prophet of Khorassan" and twice as exasperating.

The moon did not shroud her face last night in awe at sight of the comet's tail. But there was a lunar eclipse for all that. It was scheduled for totality, and during most of the time was "total" in more senses than one. Such predictions as were made of it had none of the uncertainty which attends predictions of the shapes and movements of comets' tails. The moon in its eastward motion reached the penumbra of the earth's shadow at 10.46 p. m., the time for the beginning of the eclipse, and left the penumbra on the other side at 2.23 a. m., the phenomenon of observation lasting 2 hours and 36 minutes. The moon was in the umbra, or darkest part of the earth's shadow, from about midnight to 1 a. m., and this formed what would have been the most spectacular phase of the eclipse had the meteorological conditions been favorable.

TAIL OF COMET

IS SAID TO BE FORTY DEGREES LONG

CHICAGO, May 24.—Forty degrees for the new born tail of the comet and a doubling of its luminosity owing to flaming hydro carbon gas, were recorded by the astronomers at Williams bay observatory last night after the spectrographic negatives had been developed. Prof. Frost, director of the observatory, announced the results of the computations.

"Four of us agree that the new tail of the comet is 40 degrees long," he said. "The tail was visible long after the head had set. The darkening of the sky by the eclipse of the moon helped greatly in the observations. Observations by the hand spectroscope showed carbon bands in the head of the comet. These were confirmed by the development of the negatives made with the 12 inch telescope. The internal activity of the comet is in full blast. It is making gas at a terrific rate."

Prof. Frost said he did not expect to see the old tail in the east this morning. "The old tail must disappear," he added. "When detached from its source it can only condense or fade away as the end of an active tail always does."

The weather for observations prevailed throughout most of the night at Williams bay, although it was cloudy and rainy in Chicago. During the total eclipse the moon presented the appearance of a dull red disc in the heavens. This, according to Prof. Barnard of Yerkes observatory, was due to the red rays of the solar spectrum which had the property of bending inward.

MAYOR OF LAWRENCE

Wanted Governor Draper to Interfere in His Case

BOSTON, May 24.—Gov. Draper yesterday afternoon refused to interfere with the course of justice in the Essex county courts to secure a speedy trial for Mayor William P. White of Lawrence, under indictment for condemnation of bribery.

Mayor White visited the executive chambers late in the afternoon and eventually was taken into the governor's private room. He declared that the case against him was a "put up job" on the part of his political enemies, and that he was entitled to a trial immediately.

Gov. Draper listened to a recital of the circumstances leading up to the grand jury's action at Newburyport last week, after which he assured Mayor White that he could not help him in any way.

He told Mayor White that the courts of Essex county knew their own business better than he possibly could, and that they would have to assign a date for the mayor's trial just as they would assign dates for any other business that might come before them, and he made it plain that whether or not they varied that course of procedure it would be entirely without any attempted interference on his part.

Mayor White declared that the courts and the governor owed it to his constituents to expedite matters, saying that the business of Lawrence is suffering while its mayor is under a cloud.

ANNUAL FIELD DAY

Of the Lowell High School Regiment to be Held Tomorrow

The annual drill field day of the Lowell High School Regiment and Girls' battalions will be held at Spaulding park tomorrow afternoon and, weather permitting, the event will far surpass any of the field days previously held.

The regiment will form at the high school annex at 12.30 o'clock sharp and at 1 o'clock the young soldiers, headed by the Lowell Military band, will march through John street, to Merrimack, to Central, to Church, to Andover, to High, to Rogers, to Spaulding park, at 2 o'clock the field movements and drills of the boys' regiment.

The young ladies will go to Spaulding park on the electric cars and their drills will be interspersed with the

Michael Lee, of Charles St., Met With a Fatal Accident

Michael J. Lee, aged 48 years, fell down a flight of stairs at his home, 73 Charles street at 11.30 o'clock last night and met with injuries which resulted in his death at St. John's hospital at ten o'clock this morning. Dr. R. E. Bell, who examined the man at the hospital said that death was due to a fracture at the base of the skull.

The unfortunate man, who had been suffering with an aneurism of the heart for some time, was seized with an attack shortly after eleven o'clock last night and it is thought that while he was trying to make his way down stairs to the rooms of his family on the floor below, he was seized with the sudden shock which caused him to lose control of himself and fall down nearly the entire flight of stairs.

Inasmuch as the man had worked steadily every day and never showed a sign of illness other than that once in a while he complained of his heart, the fatal accident has greatly unnerved the members of his family.

Mr. Lee was about the house last night as usual and after reading the paper and conversing with the members of the household he retired for the night. He slept on the top floor of the house, while the other members of the family occupied sleeping rooms on the floor below. About 11.30 o'clock, Mrs. Lee was awakened by a noise which sounded as though some person had fallen downstairs.

Mrs. Lee and her daughter, Anna, upon hearing the noise rushed to the hallway and found Mr. Lee lying on the floor. Dr. Edward Murphy was summoned and he attended the man and found that he was suffering from heart trouble, bruises about the head and body and was in a semi-conscious condition. Shortly before 6 o'clock this morning Mr. Lee's condition took a change for the worse and the doctor advised that the man be taken to a hospital.

The ambulance was summoned and Mr. Lee was taken to St. John's hospital where an examination showed that he was suffering from a fracture at the base of the skull.

Everything possible in the line of medical and surgical skill was brought to bear upon the man at the hospital but his condition gradually grew worse and he passed away at about ten o'clock.

Assistant Medical Examiner Robert E. Bell signed the death return "fracture of base of skull" after which the body was removed to the undertaking parlors of Undertakers Michael H. McDermott & Son and later to his home in Charles street.

The deceased was 48 years of age and a well known and highly respected resident of St. Peter's parish and was employed in the yard of the Appleton company. He leaves to mourn his loss a wife, Mary A., and a daughter, Anna, three sisters, Mrs. Jane Hart, Mary Lee and Mrs. Michael Fox and a brother, Bernard, the latter of Boston.

He was a member of Court General Shields, Foresters of America.

Friends are requested not to send flowers.

OLD RESIDENT

MRS. JOHANNAH WALSH PASSED AWAY YESTERDAY

Mrs. Johannah Walsh, aged 69 years, and a resident of Lowell for 50 years, and a prominent member of the Sacred Heart parish since its establishment, died yesterday at her home, 5 Watson street. Her death had been expected for several days and she passed away thoroughly resigned and fortified with the last rites of the church of which she had been a faithful and devout attendant throughout her life. She is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Michael Carey, and Misses Margaret, Catherine and Maria Walsh; three sons, Anthony, John and Michael Walsh; and one sister, Mrs. Catherine Moran.

EX-SUPT. MAYBERRY

Defends His Administration at the City Farm

When Called Before the Appropriations Committee—The Law Authorizes Him to Exchange Products of Farm for Supplies, but He Sold Products and Used the Money for Purchase of Supplies

At a meeting of the appropriations committee, held last night, Solomon Mayberry, former superintendent of the city farm, read a type-written statement having to do with his administration. Mr. Mayberry had been criticised for failing to turn into the city treasury the money he received by the sale of farm products. Instead of turning the money into the city treasury, Mr. Mayberry purchased supplies required at the farm.

The committee voted to recommend to the city council that the "feeble minded" bill, so-called, be paid by the city treasury out of its regular appropriation. The bill amounts to $4286.92 and has been running for years.

Chairman Gray called to order at a little after eight o'clock. The first business attended to concerned Mr. Mayberry. A comparison between the conditions at the farm Jan. 1, 1909, and Jan. 1, 1910, had been asked for.

The following statement was read by Mr. Mayberry:

To the Appropriations Committee of the City Council:

Gentlemen: I am asked to offer some explanation of transactions occurring at the city farm during my administration as superintendent. I cheerfully comply.

I understand that the criticism arises from the fact that certain products of the farm were sold and supplies for the institution purchased and paid for.

The whole question hangs upon the word "exchange."

Under the acts of 1897, the superintendent has authority to dispose of the products of the farm. Under the city solicitor's opinion, he has authority to exchange products for supplies.

Products, consisting mostly of pigs, to the amount, in round numbers, of $1000 were disposed of.

In attempting to exchange these products, which was done in most cases, I found that, with the exception of articles like butterine, there was nothing needed which would be exchanged directly for the farm products.

We required sugar, tea, coffee, rolled oats, grain and potatoes.

The surplus products had been raised on the farm at the expense of the department, and if the money was turned into the city treasury, the department as such was a loser at least to the amount expended by it on the production. I, therefore, under what I believed to be the authority of law, in certain cases, fixed a price upon surplus product, and immediately purchased with the medium of exchange supplies required by our needs.

Every transaction, with the amount received and expended, in detail, was recorded at the city farm, carefully and accurately, and is there preserved. An apparently accurate copy thereof is the list of collections and expenditures produced and criticized by the present committee.

I believed that I was following a well established precedent, but the record of former transactions of exchanges or sales was not at the city farm and is not elsewhere, to my knowledge.

The legislature undoubtedly foresaw that there would be a surplus of certain products, and a shortage of other products and supplies.

Would it be better, under the law, to exchange in every case surplus products for supplies not needed at a bad bargain or sell at a fixed price, and buy immediately, advantageously, things required?

I confess that I believed that the department should have credit for any profitable farming. I made a special effort to increase the product of the farm in every direction. The records show the result. That my administration resulted in a very substantial saving to the city is easily ascertained by anyone who cares to examine the figures.

I have no disposition to dodge the fact of the exchange of product, or the sale of product, and the purchase of supplies, if the latter words are preferred by those accustomed to technicality.

Every act was open to the public and the charity board, and was properly and clearly recorded during my administration.

If my interpretation of legal opinions and somewhat cloudy legislative acts fails to coincide with that of men of greater ability, I wish it to be reconsidered by the city department and the city have been the gainers.

If the duties of superintendent were still being performed by me, I should still be doing in my "ignorance" what I believed to be, and still believe to be, dictated by common sense.

During the first three months of this year, the department, from its appropriations found it unnecessary to spend a dollar for sugar, tea, coffee, oats, rolled oats and potatoes. The history of the institution furnishes no precedent of such conditions.

I turned over to my successor full lists of the inventory will show. Bills paid.

I received with reduced appropriations, larders empty and many bills unpaid.

I fed well and cared well for the unfortunate under my charge, as I will show at any time and anywhere the occasion demands.

I invite your attention to the city auditor's office and the figures. They are too many to be referred to in detail here. The following will illustrate:

Total expended at farm:

1908, first four months.....$20,553.56
1909, first four months.....17,493.72
1910, first four months.....12,803.35

These last four months are the period to which criticism is directed, I understand.

I followed to the best of my judgment the law as laid down by the city solicitor. I did my duty and am content.

Cross examined by committee members, Mr. Mayberry said he had left the larders well stocked and he said he had left the larders better than he had when he came. He said there wasn't any hay in the barns when he went there and he left the barns full of hay. He left 300 hogs at the farm, he said. He said there was a good crop at the farm last year. He said that all the coal he bought last year was paid for out of his appropriation. He said no sugar had been bought at the farm this year until he left. He said he spent about $76,000 last year, and that if he had remained at the farm it was his intention to pay the bill owed the Massachusetts Home for Feeble Minded Children.

The question of paying this bill was then taken up by the committee. The chairman said the bill should be paid. He said the bill had been considered when the appropriation was made. It was decided to report the facts to the city council with the recommendation that the bill be paid.

In the matter of a loan of $6,000 for the purchase of a new pump for the Centralville pumping station it was voted to refer the matter to the city solicitor to see if bids can be asked for before the appropriation is made, that the exact cost may be known before money is appropriated. Referring the matter to the city solicitor was in accordance with a suggestion offered by Alderman Carnichael.

The joint order to appropriate $4000 for an increase of wages of street department employees was taken from the table. Mr. Flanagan said that every street employee should receive $2 a day.

Mr. Dexter said it would mean that all employees would want an increase.

Mr. Davis moved that the order be not adopted. Mr. Fulton seconded the motion, and it was carried. Mr. Flanagan voting against.

The request of the park committee for an appropriation of $4000 for moth extermination was brought up by Mr. Gray. State Forester F. W. Rane had stated that unless an appropriation was made he would be obliged to go before the governor and ask that the city be forced to spend money. Last year $5000 was appropriated here for moth extermination. It cost Newton $80,000 last year to fight the moths, said the chairman.

Mr. Wainwright moved that an order be drawn recommending the expenditure of $3000 to fight the gypsy moths. It was carried.

Mr. Flanagan wanted to know about the $1000 which was appropriated to fix up the sidewalks on the North common. The chairman said that the matter is now up to the park commission; that it was asked for the board and was voted to them.

The order calling for $10,000 for repairs by the lands and buildings department was considered. Without opposition the item for $3200 to make additional sleeping rooms in the Protective house was carried. The item of $1500 for kalsomining at the high school was also favored, and on a vote, was carried.

The next item, $1000 for a retaining wall at the Bartlett school, provoked some discussion. The wall is needed, it was said, to keep water from running into the school yard, and thence into the basement. Mr. Davis moved that the item be favored and it was recommended for adoption. It was also voted to allow $2000 for repairs at the city farm. The sum of $500 was asked for paving and concreting in school yards, and on motion of Mr. Jewett, it was passed. For bath room repairs in fire houses $500 was asked. It was recommended. For plastering a ceiling at the Varium school $500 was asked and allowed. The loan order as a whole was then passed.

The joint communication from the park commission, on petition of Geo. T. Hooper and others for the purchase of the Livingstone land for park purposes was referred to a sub-committee, consisting of Chairman Gray and Messrs. Davis and Flanagan, who were named to consult with the owners of the property relative to the price.

BIG BAZAAR

IN AID OF ST. MARY'S CHURCH OPENS THIS EVENING

At Associate hall, this Wednesday and Thursday evenings a bazaar will be run which is going to be the most attractive and the most enjoyable of any that have been held in this city. The final details, after weeks of hustling by the promoters, are almost completed, and when the bazaar opens this evening its varied program will appeal to the taste of the most critical patron. A program has been arranged that will insure the attendance of young and old.

St. Mary's church of Collinsville is running the event and for the improvement of that church the proceeds will be used. The bazaar is the first entertainment of its kind that the parishioners, under the direction of their pastor, Rev. Thomas Walsh, have undertaken. They are confident of its success and they believe that it will be the most enjoyable and the most remunerative undertaking of its kind so far held in this city.

St. Mary's church of Collinsville is running the event and for the improvement of that church the proceeds will be used. The bazaar is the first entertainment of its kind that the parishioners, under the direction of their pastor, Rev. Thomas Walsh, have undertaken. They are confident of its success and they believe that it will be the most enjoyable and the most remunerative undertaking of its kind so far held in this city.

Not alone are residents of Collinsville interested in the success of this venture but those of Lowell who during the summer season have spent their Sundays in and about Dracut and who have attended St. Mary's church on that day, desire to see and will help to make the bazaar a success.

From their happy result will be long remembered in the history of the parish. St. Mary's is growing rapidly; it has been raised recently to the standing of an independent parish; its people wish to improve their place of worship, and to this end money must be raised. That the residents of Collinsville will, by their attendance, make every effort to crown with success the unceasing labor of Father Walsh and his assistants, is assured, and that the parishioners of Lowell will aid them in their efforts, is confidently expected.

Dancing has been arranged and will be one of the most pleasing features of the festival. Kittredge's orchestra has been engaged and will be on hand during the three evenings.

The price of admission has been placed at twenty-five cents and it is expected also that a large number of people will purchase the season tickets good for the three nights that can be had for fifty cents.

PILGRIM COMMANDERY, L. O. O. F. The members of Pilgrim Commandery, L. O. O. F., held a "ladies' night" at Centralville Odd Fellows hall last night. There was a large attendance and the lady friends of the members were royally entertained.

During the early part of the evening which was known as a strawberry supper was served, the principal dish on the menu being strawberries.

Then came an entertainment which was well arranged and carried out. There were songs by the Lyric Ladies' quartet, solos by Miss Etta Thompson; piano solos by George Wille and other musical selections. Miss Viola Marshall was accompanist of the evening.

There were also appropriate remarks by Rev. N. W. Matthews and Rev. J. M. Craig, George Taylor and others. Charles A. Clough was toastmaster.

The affair was under the direction of a able committee consisting of C. C. Thompson, chairman; W. S. Cross, W. A. Hall and A. O. Wheeler.

PUBLIC PARK BILL PASSED NEW YORK, May 24.—Four of the Odell bills, providing for the acceptance by the state of the gift land and money from Mrs. Harriman and others for the purpose of extending the public park along the west bank of the Hudson river to Newburgh, passed the senate last night.

ECONOMIC CLUB

Entertained at the First Trinitarian Church

A party of 25 men, representing the economic department of Harvard university and Prof. E. G. Peabody's seminary, which deals with the relation of the church to social questions, came to Lowell yesterday and toured the city on invitation of Rev. George F. Keungott.

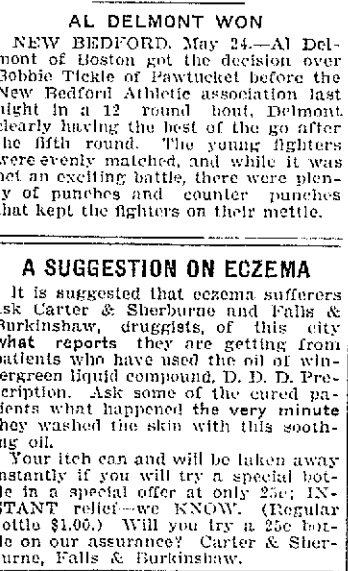

After the tour, supper was served at the First Trinitarian church. Fifteen of the party are members of the graduate students of Harvard, and some of them instructors in the economic department. The club is a voluntary association, meeting once in two weeks, and discussing papers by the club members. The party visited the Textile school and the Merrimack mills.

The supper was served at 6.30, and was followed by speaking. Mr. Julius Klein, president of the visiting club, presided. The speakers were Mayor Meelan on "The City"; Dr. G. Forrest Martin on "Work of Health Department"; Judge Pickman on "The Park Commission"; Harvey R. Greene on "Work of Board of Trade"; E. A. Bowen on "Our Manufactures"; Rev. Charles T. Billings on "The City Beautiful"; L. E. MacFarlane on "The Newspaper's Province."

AL DELMONT WON NEW BEDFORD, May 24.—Al Delmont of Boston got the decision over Bobbie Blake of New Bedford before the New Bedford Athletic association last night in a 12 round bout. Delmont, clearly having the best of the go after the fifth round. The young fighters were evenly matched, and while it was not an exciting battle, there were plenty of punches and counter punches that kept the fighters on their mettle.

A SUGGESTION ON ECZEMA It is suggested that eczema sufferers ask Carter & Sherrburne and Falls & Burdick, druggists, of this city what reports they are getting from patients who have used the oil of wintergreen liquid compound, D. LOST A HAND

DANVERS, May 24.—Horace E. Emerson, while operating an ice cream freezer at his place on Maple street yesterday afternoon caught his left hand in the gearing. Before the machinery could be stopped the hand was severed from the arm.

With rare presence of mind, Mr. Emerson seized a towel, and, tightly wrapping it about his arm, succeeded in staying the flow of blood until he obtained surgical assistance. He walked to his home after the accident.

The accident was caused by an attempt on the part of Mr. Emerson to remove saw and other debris from the top of a large freezer, which was in rapid motion.

A HORSESHOE VICTORY

Lowell Lost Game and Then Won It Back

Finlayson Played Eight Great Innings and Threw the Game Away in the Ninth—Ainsmith Cuts Up Monkeyshines and Disgusts the Spectators

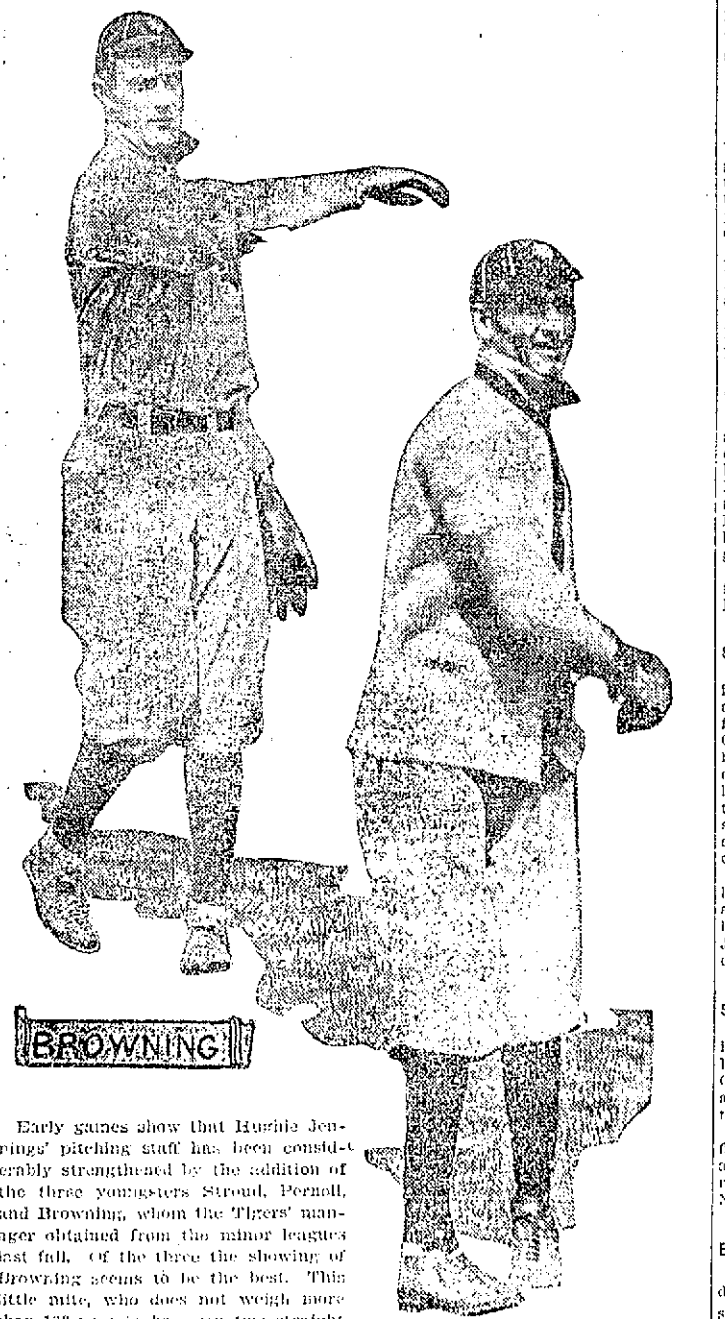

Lowell won from Lawrence at Spalding park yesterday afternoon in a heart-breaking finish, the home team having no license to pull off the victory, but getting it just the same.

Pitcher Finlayson of the visitors won the game himself and then threw it away. He held Lowell down well as to his, struck out 10 men and batted magnificently, bringing in most of the visitors' runs with a home run, a triple and a single. But in the ninth inning, with two out, Bouttes on third and Fitzpatrick on first, Finlayson threw to third to get Bouttes and made a bad throw, the ball going clear to the left field fence, both men scoring and tying it up. He then lost his nerve and the rest was easy.

There was one unfortunate and one disgusting feature of the game. While running as fast as they could go after a long hit by Conroy, Reynolds and Perrott ran into each other and both dropped to the ground unconscious, one on top of the other. They were out for several minutes and when they revived were too dazed to continue in the game. Reynolds was bruised over the eye, while Perrott received an injury to his leg. The accident might have been averted had anyone called to the fielders as to which should take the ball.

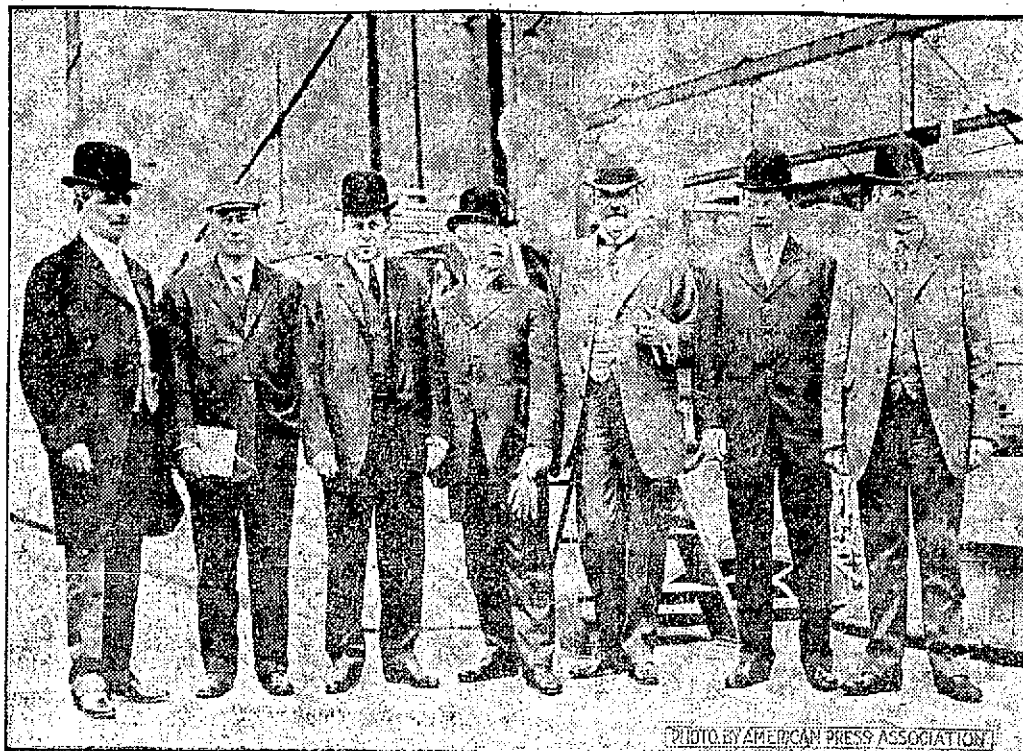

In the ninth inning Magee stole second base with the score tied and Ainsmith threw wild to second, allowing Magee to get third. To the surprise of all, Ainsmith ran over to Empire Lannigan and started to put up a howl about some alleged interference on the part of Finlayson, who was at bat. The outcome of it was that he was chased from the grounds. He started away, but came back and made a bluff attempt to assault the umpire, it taking several players to hold him. The crowd, particularly the ladies present, were disgusted at the rowdy actions of Ainsmith, for not only was there no decision for them, but they came as an afterthought on the part of Ainsmith.

TWO OF DETROIT'S CLEVER YOUNG PITCHERS DOING GOOD WORK

Early games show that Ruzhiz Jennings' pitching staff has been considerably strengthened by the addition of the three youngsters Stroud, Pernell, and Browning, whom the Tigers' manager obtained from the minor leagues last fall. Of the three the showing of Browning seems to be the best. "This little rube, who does not weigh more than 125 pounds, has won two straight games from the Clevelanders recently by his clever pitching. In talking of this fellow the other day Jennings said: "Browning is little, but, oh my, oh my! He's another Charlie Griffith and will make a record for himself before the season ends." Stroud and Pernell have also won several games by their clever twirling. With these three cracks to help out Mullin, Donovan, Summers, White and Kilian it looks as if Detroit's pitching staff compares favorably with any other in the league.

NEW YORK, May 24.—The seven members of the boundaries commission from the United States who are to appear before the permanent international court of arbitration at The Hague in an effort to settle the Newfoundland fishery dispute are on the high seas, planning their case, which will be opened the first week in June. United States Senator Root goes as special counsel. A number of persons who will act as legal aids to Mr. Root in his presentation of the American case were also on board, including Chandler Anderson, special agent for the United States; George Turner of the state of Washington; Samuel J. Elder of Boston; Charles B. Warren of Detroit; Robert

Lansing of Watertown, N. Y., and James Brown Scott, solicitor of the state department. Mr. Root said that, although no definite limits could be set, he expected the conference would end in about three months. Whether he would meet Colonel Roosevelt, he said, he did not know, but that if he did the arrangements would be made by wire.

Ainsmith, Wolfgang struck out and Fitz foul flew to Noyes.

Score—Lowell 1, Lawrence 3.

Third Inning

The visitors went out in quick order in the third inning. Catterton bunted to Wolfgang and was out at first while Reynolds and Perrott struck out. Lowell scored a run in the latter half of the inning as a result of two of the visiting fielders colliding with each other. Vance hit to Finlayson and was out at first. Conroy knocked a fly to deep left center field and Reynolds and Perrott started on the run for the ball. Owing to the fact that each had his eyes on the ball they collided with such force that both men were knocked out and Conroy came all the way around and scored. When Reynolds and Perrott were picked up it was found that both were in bad condition. Reynolds having a bruise over the eye and they were retired from the game. Magee going to center field and Capt. Bannan to left field. After the game was restarted, Magee foul flew to Noyes. Finlayson drew a base on balls and Jones closed the inning by striking out.

Score—Lowell 2, Lawrence 3.

Fourth Inning

In the fourth inning Crisham hit to Wolfgang and was out at first. Kruger hit to the center field fence for a three bagger. Noyes hit to Conroy and the latter threw Kruger out at the plate. Ainsmith hit to Morse and was out at first.

In Lowell's half Hornell drew a base on balls, but a few minutes later Ainsmith caught him napping off first and threw him out. Morse struck out. Wolfgang singled by short stop, but he failed to get beyond first for Fitzpatrick struck out.

Score—Lowell 2, Lawrence 3.

Fifth Inning

Finlayson, the home run hitter, sent the ball over Jones' head for a clean three bagger, but Jones threw him out. Magee and Finlayson scored. Miller hit to Conroy and was out at first. Catterton fled to Morse and Bannan drew a base on balls, but the latter was caught off first by Wolfgang.

Vance fled to Noyes. Conroy foul flew to Ainsmith and Magee fled to Bannan.

Score—Lowell 2, Lawrence 4.

Sixth Inning

Lawrence scored another in the sixth inning. Myers bunted to Wolfgang for a single and the latter threw bad to first and the runner went to third. Crisham hit to Vance and the latter held the ball a little too long in order to keep Myers on third and Crisham reached first. Crisham and Myers then worked a double steal, the latter scoring. Kruger and Noyes struck out and Ainsmith hit to Fitz and was out at first.

In the latter half of the inning Finlayson struck out. Jones followed with a single to center field, but Hornell hit to Bannan and the latter tagged Jones and then threw to first for a double play.

Score—Lowell 2, Lawrence 5.

Seventh Inning

Finlayson made his third hit in this inning, making a single to right field. He went to second on Miller's sacrifice. Catterton hit along the first base line and was second out and Bannan was third on strikes.

Finlayson hit to Vance and was out at first. Miller struck out. Catterton hit to center field for three bases. Bannan fled to Magee.

Bouttes went to bat for Wolfgang and hit a grounder to Noyes which the latter could not handle and the runner reached first. Fitzpatrick hit to left field for a single, sending Bouttes to third. Vance struck out. Finlayson threw to third to get Bouttes and the ball went to the left field fence, Bouttes and Fitz scoring. Conroy struck out. Magee drew a base on balls. Magee stole second and a bad throw by Ainsmith sent him to third. Ainsmith kicked that Finlayson had interfered with his throw and the visiting catcher got to exasperated that the umpire put him off the field. Ainsmith rushed back to the field to strike the umpire and it took three men to hold him and attempt to send him from the grounds. The effort of the players to get the Lawrence catcher off the grounds were unavailing and Umpire Lannigan said he would forfeit the game to the Lowell team if Ainsmith did not leave the grounds. Ainsmith was sent from the grounds much against his will and Grant took his place behind the bat while Trainer took Finlayson's place. Finlayson got a single scoring Magee.

Score—Lowell 4, Lawrence 5.

Ninth Inning

he has not done anything as yet to set the base ball world on fire. Temple was tried out several times by McGraw, but was found wanting, so Muggsy decided to send Larry to the woods, where he could get a little more practice. He is believed to have something on the ball if given opportunity enough to work, which will be given him by Manager Dowd. Temple's backstop on the Giants was Myers, the Indian, and they were known as the dark skin battery, because of their complexion. Temple, however, is not an Indian, except when the umpire gives him the raw on balls and strikes.—Lynn Item.

SOMERVILLE HIGH

DEFEATED MITCHELLS IN OVER-TIME GAME

The Somerville English High Sophomore ball team won an exciting 10-inning game from Mitchell school yesterday afternoon at Milton. By a score of 5 to 1, Mitchell looked like a winner in the first part of the contest, scoring two runs in the first inning and not allowing the visitors to tally until the sixth. In the ninth, English High tied the score, and won on the 10th on a wild pitch by Willie, the local boxman. The features of the game were the playing of Newhall and Benson for the winners, and Walworth and Tenney for the home team. On Wednesday,

HETTY GREEN ANGRY

Because the Jury Rendered Verdict Against Her

NEW YORK, May 24.—"Cat fits" and "blackmail" were terms used yesterday on the stand by Mrs. Hetty Green to characterize the efforts of Safety Deposit company of 149 Broadway to recover $500 rentals from her. But the jury in the case, which was tried before Judge O'Dwyer in the city court, found against Mrs. Green after 12 minutes' deliberation, and she expressed her indignation in no uncertain terms.

"Outrage! Outrage!" she cried when the foreman announced that she had lost the suit. "Isn't there any justice for a woman who has money?"

The clerk of the court rapped sharply for order, and Mrs. Green's attorney, Lewis Doyle, appealed to her to be calm, but the woman continued to express her feelings on the "outrage." The clerk again rapped for order, and she finally subsided.

Mrs. Green had said before the jury went out:

"Juries have always been good to me. I have never lost a case," but half an hour later the "richest woman in the world" had lost her first suit.

Suit for Box Rent

The action was for the use of safe deposit boxes for a period of 10 years each. The original amount of the action was $550, but $19.25 was added for interest. Mrs. Green contended that she had not engaged the boxes, after settling the amount due for their rental up to a time previous to the 10 years involved, but the safe deposit company alleged that she had entered into some agreement to continue their rental.

William A. Mitchell, president of the company, testified that, on Dec. 1, 1903, Mrs. Green called at the company's offices with Edward R. Kausel, auditor of the Chemical National bank, and gave him a check for $600 for rent already due. He asserted further that she had agreed to rent the boxes for a further period and that a memorandum had been made to that effect. The boxes contained papers relating to Mrs. Green's father, Edward Mott Robinson, who died in 1865.

Mr. Mitchell denied that he had ever tried to have Mrs. Green make her headquarters in the company's offices, but admitted that she had been charged less for the use of the boxes than the usual rate. He explained this by saying that she was a good customer and he wished to retain her patronage.

Mrs. Green was emphatic when called as a witness. She brought two umbrellas and a maid to court and was dressed from head to foot in black, a veil doing duty as a hat. She carried a black bag and wore black gloves.

Says Boxes Were Stolen

When called to the stand she spoke in a very low tone, but very rapidly.

"Those boxes were stolen out of my father's estate years ago," began the defendant.

"Father died 45 years ago, and I did it for my son, who is running a railroad and cannot be here. This is the third blackmailing suit that I've had. I was paying for my father's estate, of which my son, Edward H. Green, is the sole surviving trustee and my daughter is the executrix."

"Then you never agreed to pay any amount personally for the storage of the boxes?"

"No, I didn't," declared Mrs. Green, vigorously. "I wouldn't want to pay storage 45 years on a lot of things stolen out of my father's estate."

"They don't belong to me, according to God they do not belong to me," she declared. "According to law they belong to my son as trustee. I paid $2500 for the writing of the books, though."

"There has been a great deal of litigation over your father's estate, has there not?" asked Lawyer Doyle.

"Yes, there has," replied Mrs. Green. "They tried to steal my share in Chicago."

"Judge," said Mrs. Green, "they're trying to frighten me, but I won't let them. It would have been easier for me to pay the bill than to engage a lawyer. The expense that I have been put to will be double that which I would have been compelled to pay, but if I let this go there would be a lot more of the same thing."

The jury then took the case under consideration and returned their verdict in 12 minutes.

GIRLS CAPTURED

Escaped From George Junior Republic

ITHACA, May 24.—Two girls, citizens of the George Junior Republic at Freeville, successfully broke away from jail at midnight Sunday night and were on their way west when caught by the Ithaca chief of police. The girls are Florence Dougherty of Pittsburg and Carrie Hazely of Interlaken. Both are about 18 years of age and good looking.

They had been sent to jail after a hearing before the republic judge and convicted of misconduct. Confinement was irksome, however, and the Dougherty girl suggested the plan to escape. She engineered the deal, managing to get hold of $5 in real money; though the republic has its own currency, which is worthless outside.

About midnight the girls crawled through a narrow window out on the roof of the second story. There they found escape cut off, but a nearby pole proved their salvation. Without hesitation, both slid down this pole, though their hands were hurt in the descent. In order to get away without approaching too close to the republic walls, they had to wade through a swamp.

They stopped on the other side to put on dry stockings and the Dougherty girl found that her shoes had shrunk so that she could not put them on. She slid her feet into them as far as they could go and walked the 14 miles to Ithaca. Arriving early yesterday morning, they bought tickets for Trumansburg, but alarmed at the attention they attracted at the station,

RAPID CURES OF ECZEMA

All Skin Troubles Yield Readily to This New Healing Agent

In stopping the itching attending eczema, or any itching skin disease, with first application, poslam, the new skin remedy, at once eases all physical distress and proves its wonderful healing properties. It is safe to assert, by the use of poslam, that more skin diseases than any remedy ever offered for these ills. The very worst cases of eczema, as well as acne, psoriasis, herpes, tetor, piles, salt rheum, rash, crusted humors, scaly scalp and every form of itchy skin to it readily. Eruptions, such as pimples, red noses, muddy and inflamed skin disappear almost immediately when poslam is applied, the complexion being cleared over night.

Every druggist keeps both the 50-cent size (for minor troubles) and the $2 jar, and either of these may be obtained of Falls & Burkinshaw's, Carter & Sherburne's, and the Riker-Jaynes Drug Co's, as well as other reliable drug stores.

But no one is even asked to purchase poslam without first obtaining a sample package, which will be sent by mail, free of charge, upon request, by the Emergency Laboratories, No. 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York City.

DIVORCED WOMAN

Is Again Made a Lawful Wife

BROCKTON, May 24.—By a motion filed and granted in the Plymouth county superior court here yesterday, Judge William B. Stevens presiding, Lena M. Kennedy Marsh of Brockton, this was known to by order of the court, the lawful wife of George Lawrence Marsh. Marsh is employed as a traveling salesman and his home is in this city.

The case is most unusual in the history of Plymouth county. Mrs. Marsh was granted a divorce November 9, 1908, and she has become absolutely on May 1st, if objections had not been filed in superior court by Attorney Richard W. Nutter.

The latter, acting under appointment by Judge Lawton as special attorney, investigated certain claims made by Charles Laure of El Paso, Texas, where Mrs. Marsh is alleged to have resided at one time.

He sent a communication to Clerk Edward E. Hobart, in which he set forth certain alleged actions of Mrs. Marsh when Laure knew her in Texas. Mrs. Marsh was known to Laure, "the mystery girl," according to Laure.

In having the libel dismissed and the decree vacated, the charges made by Laure will not be heard in court.

DALMORE'S VOICE

Brings Him the Sum of $200,000

BERLIN, May 24.—Andreas Dippel, who is returning to the United States after a brief visit in Berlin, has just signed a remarkable contract with Charles Dalmore whereby the French tenor will receive the record sum of $200,000 for the period of a four years' engagement at the Metropolitan, New York, and the allied opera houses of Boston, Chicago and Philadelphia.

It is stated that the consummation of this contract nullifies the indemnity of $25,000 which Dalmore was required to pay the Metropolitan as a result of his last legal action against the management.

Dippel came to Europe this time primarily to see his wife, who was ill at Nice. He returns for his annual European hunt for talent and new operas some time next month.

Dalmore's salary at the Manhattan was $800 a performance. Last season he sang at least 60 performances and the amount he made, therefore, was $48,000. As his new contract is probably arranged on a basis of 40 performances, if the amount named is the correct one, his new salary must be estimated as more than double that of his old one, or $1250 a performance. This is a larger amount than any tenor receives in America, with the exception of Carnes.

"JIM" JEFFRIES

Will Take Things Easy This Week

BEN LOMOND, Cal., May 24.—Jim Jeffries says he intends to take things easy this week. Road work accompanied by printing will be kept up regularly but it is thought likely that he will have to do little with the gloves until Jim Corbett arrives next week. The report that Corbett will not have his quarters at the camp here is denied by Jeffries' training companions. It is said that accommodations are now being prepared for him and that there is no likelihood of friction between Corbett and any other member of the camp. News from the city that Jack Johnson may be a spectator at Jeffries' boxing tournament in San Francisco next Friday night has stirred up considerable interest here, but the camp is not inclined to take Johnson's report tentatively seriously. All however were anxious for the negro to be on hand. They assert that it would have a discouraging effect on Johnson for to see how fast the former champion is in his work.

Johnson is greatly pleased by the weight-reducing results of his daily roadwork and he says he intends to stick to that form of exercise. "The negro champion who has taken much interest in the comet last night entertained a party of star-gazers at his training quarters but was disappointed by the heavy fog that veiled the sky."

CORBETT AND CHOYNSKI

CHICAGO, May 24.—Jim Corbett, former heavyweight champion, is staying here a couple of days on his way to California to help condition James

J. Jeffries for his fight with Jack Johnson. Asked concerning his old time feud with Joe Choyanski, Corbett laughed and said: "No, I don't suppose we could be called friends for we've been enemies practically since we were boys but it should prove no obstacle to our mutual efforts to help Jeff. I've forgotten any hard feelings I ever had and I hope Joe has. This is too big a thing for petty bickering to enter into the plans. I will greet Joe just as cordially as I would if we never had any differences."

DON'T FAIL TO SEE THIS SPLENDID STOVE

Our friends and patrons have repeatedly urged us to add a stove line to our stock. Always catering to the wishes of our customers, we began a careful search for the ideal stove. We looked over the entire stove field—we would be contented with none but the best. We have found it.

THE BARSTOW BAY STATE RANGE fully measures up to our idea of the BEST stove. We can offer it to our customers unhesitatingly and with our guarantee of complete satisfaction. To introduce this new department we have planned to conduct

A HIGH COST OF LIVING CONTEST

Details of which will be printed in this paper within the next few days. The winner of this contest will be presented with

A BEAUTIFUL BARSTOW RANGE ABSOLUTELY FREE

Watch for this advertisement which will appear shortly in this paper. Some thrifty Lowell housewife is going to be the lucky contestant. And come to see the handsome stove offered—it is on view in our new department now and will be all during the contest. YOU may be its owner.
